Roasted Snakes Are Menu for Astronauts in Jungle

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

BALBOA, C.Z. (UPI) — The jungle lunch of roasted snake and green bananas was doing fine, until an Indian chief clad in loin cloth and Texas tie touched off a smelly smoke bomb near the table.

That was the bizarre climax this week to the first taste of life in the tropical wilderness for 14 American astronauts.

The spacemen, who came to Panama to learn how to get along in case their spaceship makes a crash - landing in a jungle, included Edwin Aldrin William Anders, Charles Bassett II, Alan Bean, Roger Chaffee, Eugene Ceernan, Michael Collins, R. Walter Cunningham, Donn Eisele, Theodore Freeman, Richard Gordon, Russell Schweickart, David Scott and Clifton Williams.

With fellow astronaut Charles (Pete) Conrad, who has made the trip before, the fledglings set out with survival kit in hand Wednesday to spend three days living off the fat of the Panama Canal Zone's steaming swamplands.

An Air Force helicopter ferried them three at a time from

Job Stress Is Closely Linked to Heart Disease

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A New York heart specialist, reporting on a survey of 12,000 professional persons, said today that job stress is closely linked to coronary heart disease — but smoking may not be.

The survey covered 14 occupational groups with "obvious differences" in job tensions, said Dr. Henry I. Russek, consultant in cardiovascular disease, U.S. Public Health Service hospital, Staten Island.

Dr. Russek listed those surveyed in order of decreasing stress: General medical practitioners, anesthesiologists pathologists, dermatologists, general dental practitioners, oral surgeons, orthodontists and periodontists, general law practitioners trial lawyers, lawyers in various specialties and patent lawyers.

In addition, he said, security analysts and security traders on the New York Stock Exchange were compared.

Persons who said they never had smoked showed significantly higher coronary heart disease rates than those who stopped smoking before their attack or before the time of the questionnaire if there was no attack, Dr. Russek reported at the annual convention of the American Medical Association.

"These findings cast doubt upon the alleged role of smoking in the genesis of heart disease," he said.

Dr. Russek's report followed a statement by the AMA's House of Delegates saying that the AMA recognizes "a significant relationship between cigarette smoking and the incidence of lung cancer and certain other diseases, and that cigarette smoking is a serious health hazard." But it didn't mention heart disease specifically.

Mikoyan Declares U.S. Afraid of Red Retaliation

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan said today that the United States refrains from large-scale war, "venturing only to make small-scale wars such as in South Viet Nam," because of the threat of Soviet retaliation.

"We have no wish to attack the United States," the visiting Soviet first deputy premier told Indonesia's Parliament, "but if they commit aggression against the Soviet Union and her allies, the United States will receive prompt retaliatory blows the like of which have never been matched in the world before."

Apparently referring to the split between Moscow and Peking, Mikoyan expressed regret that there are still differences among members of the Socialist camp. But he said the capitalist nations also have their differences, that the United States, for example, supported the British - backed federation of Malaysia only after Britain had promised to back the United States in South Viet Nam.

Mikoyan pledged Soviet support for Indonesia's anti - Malaysia campaign and said President Sukarno's government was waging a "just struggle" in seeking "independence" for the peoples of Malaysian North Borneo.

The Soviet leader praised Indonesia for its "guided democracy." Parliament is appointed by President Sukarno who has his post for life.

"Perhaps there are Westerners who consider your Parliament is not composed as in their countries," Mikoyan said. "Actually their democracy does not reflect the interests of the people.

"In their democracy there is exploitation of man. There under sweet slogans, evil deeds are done. In the American congress there are no real representatives of the people. It consists of reactionaries. There are people like Goldwater who

93 Million Are Licensed to Operate Autos

WASHINGTON (AP) — About half the population, 93.7 million, was licensed to drive cars and trucks last year — and 45 per cent of the drivers were crowded into seven states.

Figures released today by the Bureau of Public Roads showed that California was far ahead with 9 million licensed drivers. The other big six were New York, 7.7 million; Pennsylvania, 5.9 million; Ohio and Texas with 5.1 million each; Illinois, 4.9 million and Michigan, 4 million.

In all, 1.7 million more licensed drivers were on the road last year than there were in 1962.

Teen Marriages U.S. Problem, Professor Says

DAVIS, Calif. (AP)—Unhappy teen-age marriages are rapidly becoming one of the nation's major social problems says a University of California professor.

"Marriage and parenthood have been oversold to America's children," Judson T. Landis, sociology professor, told a conference on marriage among the young.

As a result, he said, teenagers often view marriage as a symbol of adulthood or social acceptance and plunge headlong into an unforeseen financial struggle.

Landis said more than two million American girls between 13 and 17 are married every year and teen - age marriages last year produced about 600,000 babies.

Jeanada Nolan who heads a governor's subcommittee on family life, blamed increased pressures for young marriages.

"Take away the threat of the draft and the bomb and we might have less urgency to assume adult roles," she said.

Robert O. Herrmann, assistant professor of business at the University of California, said teen - age husbands earn little more than $2,000 a year on the national average.

This is about a third of the average adult wage, he said.

Search Continues For Civil Rights Workers in South

By MICHAEL SMITH

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—Federal and state officers renewed their intensive search at daybreak today for three missing civil rights workers and planned dragging operations in several bodies of waters in this east-central Mississippi area.

As fear mounted that the three workers would not be found alive, a highway patrol spokesman said searchers would check all buildings, out buildings and recent excavations.

"There is still no indication, no definite leads for us to go on," said Art Richardson, public information officer for the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Grady Gilmore, public relations director for the patrol, said earlier "It is hard to believe that three people could just be swallowed up without somebody hearing or seeing them."

The trio was last seen Sunday night.

Scranton Claims Barry Would Doom GOP Vote

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president would spell defeat for the Republican party this fall, says his chief rival, Gov. William W. Scranton.

Romney 'Almost Convinced' to Seek Nomination

By AL SANDNER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Authoritative sources said today that Gov. George Romney was "almost convinced" to run for the Republican nomination for president earlier this month.

But "soul searching" and reemphasis by Michigan GOP leaders of the state party's need for him made him decline urgings by Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, said sources close to Romney. They declined to be identified.

"There was a brief time when Romney could have been Scranton—that is, where Scranton is now," one source said.

The action came at the national Governors Conference in Cleveland, Ohio, earlier this month, when several attempts were made to start backfires to stop the drive of Sen. Barry Goldwater for the nomination.

The conference was visited by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Goldwater, among other GOP leaders.

"Romney is such a man that a reminder of his local commitments and responsibilities would be enough to make him

U.S. Is Beefing Up Its South Viet Mission

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has passed the word to aides that along with the assignment of his new top command team to South Viet Nam, he wants the whole U.S. mission in Saigon beefed up as much as possible.

In taking a new look at the Southeast Asian crisis because of the resignation of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Johnson is said to have determined that the time has come for the United States to make a major effort, as some officials phrase it, "to turn the war around."

Some top authorities believe the firm leadership of South Vietnamese president Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh is beginning to show results, that improved U.S. techniques in training South Vietnamese forces is also showing results and that the ill effects in disorder and damaged morale of the political upheavals of last fall and winter are beginning to be overcome.

President Johnson, it is understood, had expected that Lodge, the kingpin of the U.S. organization and effort in South Viet Nam, would remain on the job until August. But Lodge decided for what he has called purely personal reasons that he had to leave almost at once. He said he wanted to help Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton in his effort to win the GOP presidential nomination. Johnson announced Tuesday the acceptance of the resignation which Lodge submitted last Friday.

At the same time, and according to a principle that had previously been adopted that there should be no gap between Lodge and his successor, Johnson announced an unprecedented combination of talents and experience would be sent into the U.S. Embassy at Saigon—with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor leaving the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to become ambassador, and Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson to become deputy ambassador.

Already on the scene was Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland who a few days earlier had taken over as chief of U.S. military forces from Gen. Paul D. Harkins.

Well informed officials now say that a new and probably "big name" director of U.S. economic assistance also be sent to Saigon on top of a routine change of personnel which was already scheduled.

Joseph L. Brent, director of the aid mission, is being replaced by Stuart H. Van Dyke, formerly a director in Turkey. Both men are long experienced in foreign aid operations overseas and both rank high in their agency, according to officials here.

But what the Johnson administration is now said to be seeking is a kind of super staff of high powered talent with brains and reputation in combination to produce outstanding results and the maximum possible improvement in the situation.

There seems to be no doubt Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara expect Taylor and his immediate assistant to function as a command staff for the anti-Communist struggle not only in Viet Nam but, to the extent that it may be necessary throughout Southeast Asia.

NAMED NEW CHIEF OF STAFF — Gen. Harold K. Johnson, above, 52, deputy chief of staff for military operations, was nominated as the Army's new chief of staff by President Johnson Wednesday. He will succeed Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, nominated for a two-year term as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Gen. Johnson is well-known in the Pikes Peak Region. As brigadier general he served at Ft. Carson as the assistant division commander of the 8th Infantry Division in 1955 and 1956. (AP Wirephoto)

Negroes Stage Demonstration In New Rochelle

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—About 500 persons, most of them Negroes, demonstrated on Wednesday night and early today at City Hall, protesting what they called police brutality to two Negroes.

A main street was blocked for about three hours by sit-down demonstrators, police said. There was some pushing and shoving. One patrolman suffered a sprained wrist.

There were no arrests.

About 45 policemen were on duty during the demonstration in this New York City suburb of 76,000.

Police officials had no immediate comment on the brutality accusations, which were outlined in handbills signed by seven organizations including chapters of the Congress of Racial Equality and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The handbills said a 17-year-old Negro boy was "savagely beaten into unconsciousness—without cause — right on the grounds of his home" last Sunday, and another Negro was beaten unconscious a few months ago.

No details were given.

Dr. King Sees No Letup in St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., complaining of no response to requests for federal intervention, has pledged there'll be no letup in a three-week-old drive for racial integration in St. Augustine.

King returned Wednesday after a week's absence to resume command of demonstrations by his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Wednesday night, a parade of about 100 Negro and white civil rights demonstrators met twice with about 300 marching white segregationists, but several hundred policemen kept the groups apart.

Police arrested four civil rights demonstrators during the day. No incidents occurred at a wade-in on St. Augustine Beach.

People will live in luxurious high-rise apartment buildings, he said. Their work output will have been multiplied by 12 and their income will have doubled.

Area's Military Bases to Share Near $35 Million

Area military bases will receive all but $160,000 of the more than $35 million allocated for construction at Colorado Military bases under a bill approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee Wednesday.

Ft. Carson, Ent AFB and the Air Force Academy will split $34,971,000 with the lion's share going to the Army post and the Academy.

The bill provides for $1.5 billion in military spending starting July 1. It is $66,974,000 less than voted by the House on March 18 and $315,815,000 less than requested by the Defense Department.

Ft. Carson will get $18,256,000 of the state's share. Ent is in line for $1,035,000 and the Air Force Academy is slated to receive $15,680,000.

The Academy construction total is $1.4 million less than the amount approved by the House. The remainder of the state's allocation is divided between Lowry AFB, Denver, $132,000, and the Rocky Mountain Arsenal north of Denvr, $29,000.

Tshombe Plans to Help Congo Establish Peace

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Exiled Congolese leaders may soon come flocking back to Leopoldville as the Congo's major political factions look for help to end rebellions wracking the country.

Moise Tshombe, former president and secessionist leader of Katanga Province, ended more than a year of self-imposed exile in Spain Wednesday and flew to Brussels, en route to Leopoldville.

Tshombe, who kept the U.N. Congo force at bay for months, said he was returning "to help the government to liberate any country from the misery and anarchy it now suffers." He said he was responding to "the voice of the population and the political parties, as well as the invitations of the government."

With the departure of the U.N. force at the end of the month and Premier Cyrille Adoula's Central Congolese government apparently powerless to put down the various rebellions, Tshombe is being mentioned increasingly as a possible successor to Adoula. Several members of Adoula's cabinet urged Tshombe's return.

The three main political groups in the capital also have been pressing for amnesties for the exiled Mulopwe (god-emperor) of South Kasai Province, Albert Kalonji, and for Antoine Gizenga, leader of the 1961 pro-Communist separatist regime in Stanleyville and political heir of the late Patrice Lumumba.

Kalonji, who has lived in London since he fled from a Congo jail, vanished from his apartment two days ago. He may be on his way back to the Congo.

Gizenga has been imprisoned on an island in the mouth of the Congo River since February, 1962.

The Congolese army has been unable to crush the revolts. Usually the troops run away at the approach of the rebels or join them.

Pierre Mulele, former education minister and a Peking-trained rebel, controls an area half as large as Belgium in WILU. Forces believed to be aligned with him were reported

More Legislation For Independent Business Sought

DENVER (AP) — Delegates to the 52nd International Consumer Credit Conference here were urged today to become more vocal in their quest for legislation beneficial to the independent businessman.

Calvin Snyder, executive vice president of the American Retail Federation, said that "practically every major piece of legislation from farm bills to foreign aid has a bearing upon the business community."

Snyder said there was an attempt in President's poverty bill package to tie it to a consumer education program to reach the poor and educate them to become better buyers.

He said business, so bound up in the program's operation, often had to take a back seat to government in discussing ways to educate the low income consumer.

Snyder criticized the poverty bill which he said included such things as federal funds to educate children of migrant workers, expansion of the food stamp plan and extension of the minimum wage coverage to some areas not now covered such as farm workers and hotel and other service industries.

He said the poverty bill package obviously is inflationary.

"Today, almost every phase of our life feels the stultifying hands of government regulation and interference with business," he said. "More and more we have turned to central government for the answer to all our problems."

ZOO ASKS: PINK OR BLUE?

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The recent death of one of two Komodo dragons brought to the local zoo for breeding purposes leaves directors somewhat baffled as to the sex of the survivor. An autopsy revealed that the deceased five-foot long, fork-tongued lizard was male instead of female, as previously believed. Because of the ferociousness of the beasts, no one has yet volunteered to ask the surviving dragon whether he's a boy or she's a girl.

Powers of State Agencies to Be Subject of Probe

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Legislative Council today directed the chief clerk of the House of Representatives to check into activities of all state agencies to see if they are going beyond powers granted to them by the Legislature.

The chief clerk, Republican Donald H. Henderson, asked for the assignment and promised he would avoid any with hunt in carrying it out.

The action came at the opening of a council meeting.

"In the past year," Henderson said in a letter to the council, "I have received many informal complaints concerning the operation and regulations of state agencies. The complaints have been directed toward the General Assembly, who some think adopt the regulations. A determination needs to be made to see if these agencies are in fact following the legislative intent or have over extended the powers granted them by statute."

Henderson asked, and was given, authority to get suggestions from other states on how he should proceed. His authority allows him to review regulations of licensing agencies and even to solicit complaints from legislators and members of the public.

He expressed belief that his review will lead to a reduction of court cases, a better informed legislature, increased cooperation and "a happier public that is forced more and more to deal with state agencies."

WARM WATER AND AIR

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Dr. Arthur Shrager has two pools and one is buried — yes, buried in his back yard.

It seems Shrager just couldn't accept the fact that when the cold months arrived he would have to stop swimming in his conventional outdoor pool.

He spotted a big, cylindrical metal tank one day and had it trucked to his home.

Then a power shovel was used to scoop out a yawning trench in the backyard.

Warm air is piped to the pool from the garage, which is also where the water is heated.

Now it can blow all it wants and Shrager will go right on swimming. How much did it cost? He figures about $1,000.

Empty Homes Plague U.S. Women, Experts Declare

By JERRY SHEEHAN

NEW YORK (NEA) — The picture painted by the psychological surveys and divorce statistics is not encouraging to American women.

Either despite or because of their modern-day economic and political liberation, women are pursued by a pack of emotional ills. The results may add up to a greater problem than the nation's combined headaches of juvenile delinquency, air pollution and city traffic.

An area often studied as typical of a growing middle-class, suburban community is Bergen County, N.J. Today in a hospital serving Bergen, women make up 40 per cent of the ulcer cases—an ailment once the sign of the harried male executive.

During the 1950s psychiatrists made a startling discovery: The number or emotionally disturbed young Bergen housewives was more than half again that of young husbands. It was three times as large as any other group in the survey.

And a psychiatrist in Boston says:

"It is true there are too many more women patients than men. Their complaints are varied, but if you look underneath, you find this underlying feeling of emptiness."

And, across the nation, the annual divorce figures are coming dangerously close to striking a melancholy balance with marriage totals.

Observers of the problem almost unanimously believe that women often marry for the wrong reasons and get divorced for the wrong reasons.

Among them is Betty Friedan, author of the best-selling book, "The Feminie Mystique."

"Of course, woman has equality on paper nowadays. The trouble is she doesn't know how to handle it in real life," said Mrs. Friedan.

"For years, women's magazines, movies, relatives and the wife next door fed her fables about the glories of getting a man, waxing floors, doing dishes and raising babies—the feminine mystique, I call it.

"Now she finds after having a couple of babies that her life is empty. But she feels guilty about questioning her feminine role, so she takes out her hostility on those around her."

Mrs. Friedan cites a therapist's description of a patient endeavoring to be a "real woman," a good wife and mother.

"She was really playing a very masculine role . . . was pushing everyone around—comindating the children's lives, ruling the house with an iron hand, managing the carpentry, odd jobs he ne[illegible]r finished, the edu[illegible]ion—and [illegible] and [illegible] was j[illegible] the bills."

Of co[illegible] her husba[illegible] man who paid [illegible] therapists [illegible] —still hap[illegible] women the [illegible] millions—who fin[illegible] are those [illegible] fillment in the t[illegible] bered in the [illegible] of housewife and [illegible]minine ful[illegible] role.

Yet they too may su[illegible] another of the consequences of the feminine mystique syndrome—the belief that a woman must remain young and comely forever. Thus, a woman must progress directly from youth to the grave—skipping middle and old age, like dry ice evaporating directly into air without melting.

The British critic Malcolm Muggeridge viewed American women in this fashion:

"How they mortify the flesh to make it appetizing! Their beauty is a vast industry, their enduring allure a discipline which nuns or athletes might find excessive. With too much sex to be sensual, and too ravishing to ravish, age cannot wither them nor custom stale."

Is there any way out for women? Most observers scoff at the idea of women moving backward into the 19th century, becoming mere appendages to the head of the household. Yet, should they "wear the pants," elbow their way into business, stop using make-up?

Betty Friedan sees a happy middle ground, essentially, [illegible] must use their talents [illegible] in the world [illegible] women constructively around them. A[illegible]nd this does not necessarily mean engaging in "busy work" at bridge society suppers or baking cookies for the girls' [illegible] mean, says Mrs. [illegible] It cou[illegible] that she should for example, shape her own career independent of her family life in—for example politics, charity work, teaching, medicine, advertising or writing.

"It is not a question of women having their cake and eating it, too," Mrs. Friedan writes. "A woman is handicapped by her sex, and handicaps society, either by slavishly copying the pattern of man's advance in the professions, or by refusing to compete with man at all. But with the vision to make a new life plan of her own, she can fulfill a commitment to profession and politics, and to marriage and motherhood with equal seriousness."

Perhaps, says she, men will live longer when women carry more of the world's burdens instead of themselves being a burden.

"I think their wasted energy will continue to be destructive to their husbands, to their children and to themselves until it is used in their own battle with the world. When women as well as men emerge from biological living to realize their human selves, those leftover halves of life may become their years of gratest fulfillment."

The nation's First Lady has adopted a similar view. Mrs. Lyndon Johnson told Radcliffe College graduates that "the confusion of roles for women today is very real. But many women have been able to master the confusion."

She described the modern American woman as wanting to be "pre-eminently a woman, a wife, a mother, a thinking citizen."

Rocky Mountain Forest Work Budget Noted

DENVER (UPI)— Rocky Mountain regional forester D. S. Nordwall today announced a tentative $14 million budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year for projects in 16 national forests and 7 national grasslands in the region.

The forests and grasslands are located in Colorado, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and east of the Continental Divide in Wyoming.

The tentative budget calls for about $5.5 million for improvement, construction and maintenance of forest roads and trails.

Also included in the budget was $800,000 for cleanup and maintenance of recreation developments, including camp and picnic grounds.

Recreation construction will cost $1.2 million.

The total tentative budget includes approximately $10 million for the 11 national forests in Colorado; $3 million for three in Wyoming; $1.8 million in South Dakota's Black Hills, and $405,000 in Nebraska. National grasslands in Kansas are administered by San Isabel National Forest in Colorado and funds for these areas are included in Colorado's total.

Minnesota, with 300 million population, led the U.S. in production of creamery butter during 1962.

They Can't Keep Them Down on Farm Anymore

DENVER (UPI)—They can't keep 'em down on the farm—the State Penitentiary Honor Farm at Pueblo that is.

Prison officials, dismayed at the 15 recent men who walked or "staggered away," said Tuesday that they intended to do something about it. The farm houses about 104 convicts who work in an unwalled and lightly-guarded area.

State Penitentiary officials said most of those who have left the farm have done so because they were drunk.

Warden Harry Tinsley of Canon City und State Institutions Director David Hamil said outsiders apparently have hidden liquor in previously arranged locations for inmates and that liquor has been bootlegged to prisoners.

Thus they announced that in the future:

—A civilian would ride in or drive all prison trucks making deliveries to or from the farm;

—Patrols would be tightened and vehicles suspected of carrying liquor would be searched;

—Prisoner uniforms would be marked more distinctly to identify wearers as convicts.

The most recent prison farm escapee to be captured reportedly was drunk when he left the institution. The man, Alonzo Talley Jr., 34, of Denver was caught in Oklahoma Sunday after being shot by a farmer.

Reapportionment Program Plan Being Developed

DENVER (AP)—A program is being developed by Gov. John A. Love for reapportionment of the legislature when a special three-judge federal court in Denver lays down guidelines.

The governor said at a news conference late Tuesday that he is working on a plan but added, "It can't be too firm until I know the answers (from the federal court)."

He did not disclose what type of action he has in mind. He said Monday, however, he would prefer to have the 1964 elections conducted under the apportionment plan now nullified by the Supreme Court of the United States, if possible, then ask the legislature to reapportion itself next year. Love also said Monday that if a special session is held he would like to have its activity limited to placing on the November ballot a constitutional amendment permitting districting of large counties.

The three-judge court, after a two-hour discussion Tuesday, asked attorneys to present arguments Friday at 2 p.m. on two points. One was whether provisions of the nullified plan — called Constitutional Amendment No. 7 — could be separated. If they can be, it apparently would mean that the provision for districting large counties for election of legislators still is intact. The other point was whether these large counties could be districted under the constitutional provisions which existed prior to Amendment No. 7.

"The problem is one we need settled," Love said. "I'm glad the court is going to hear it."

Eradication of Moth Is Being Planned

GRAND JUNCTION (AP) — Plans for a campaign to eradicate the oriental fruit moth in the Orchard Mesa area were completed at a conference of growers and pest control officials here Tuesday.

A new bait will be furnished growers in the area and five traps will be set in each orchard. Traps are to be checked daily and when as many as two of the moths appear in a single trap, spraying is called for.

John Kephart, county pest inspector, said that with cooperation of growers the destructive moths could be controlled this year and completely eradicated within a couple of years.

SHIPYARD WORKER

GOTEBURG, Sweden (UPI) —Nikita Khrushchev, who has done a lot of things in his time, revealed himself Wednesday to be a former shipyard worker.

Lower Funeral Costs Proposed in Industry

DENVER (AP)—A mortuary executive called Sunday for lower costs of funerals and burials, declaring, "It is unconscionable to take advantage of a family under the tensions and shock of sorrow."

Dallas J. Dhority, president of Consolidated Industries of Denver, made the statement at the national convention of the Interment Association of America.

"Our industry has an ethical responsibility to the living to reduce the cost of a death," Dhority said.

"Although we are part of the private sector of our economy and are entitled to a reasonable return on its investments, we have an obligation to act in the public interest."

Lowering funeral and burial costs can be achieved through "continued expansion of prearranged funeral plans under proper regulation," Dhority said.

The association representing cemetery managements in 200 cities concludes its convention Wednesday. Dhority is a past president.

An average of $117,200 is invested by the petroleum industry for each job, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Court Orders New Trial of Alleged Murder

DENVER (AP)—A new trial for LaVern Jackie Jones, 29, of La Junta, who has been under death sentence in the Colorado Penitentiary, was ordered today by the State Supreme Court.

The action came in a 5-2 ruling written by Justice Albert T. Frantz. Dissenting were Justices O. Otto Moore and Edward Pringle.

Jones was convicted of killing Dave Powell, night clerk at the El Otero Hotel in La Junta, Feb. 11, 1959 by hitting him over the head with a hammer.

He was sentenced to death and a new trial subsequently ordered by the high court. This second trail, however, was limited to the question whether Jones should be executed or whether he should be given life imprisonment.

The high court majority in its new ruling held the trial should have been a complete one.

In another ruling the court affirmed unanimously the conviction of Billy E. McClenny, a former Denver policeman, for burglary of Lowdermilk Bakeries in Arapahoe County.

Testifying against McClenny at his trial was Keith Hutton, also a former Denver policeman, and William Arrants, a former Arapahoe County sheriff's officer, who admitted participation in the burglary. McClenny denied participation in the crime and claimed the other two men held a grudge against him.

Chief Justice Robert H. Williams wrote the unanimous opinion.

In another decision, written by Justice Moore, the high court upheld the rape conviction of Samuel Arthur in El Paso County District Court in 1956. Moore held that at the time of the trial it was legal for the defendant to be convicted without advising him of his right to counsel or offering the assistance of counsel.

The law has since been changed, and defendants now must be given the right to lawyers.

Moore held, however, that it did not apply before the change was made.

Americans No Longer Pioneers, Designer Says

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Americans are no longer pioneering in a great and glorious new revolution which can provide the means to end poverty, Richard Latham, president of Latham, Tyler, Jensen, Chicago design firm, told the 14th annual Design Conference here Tuesday.

Instead, Latham said, "we are acting like people who are sitting at a table, loaded with twice as much food as can be eaten, having a little bite out of everything and not knowing quite what to do with all the goodies that are left over.

"It is time we stopped playing with our toys and turned our attention to the human beings and human needs they were intended to serve," Latham told the 650 design and management executives attending the conference.

He said this was particularly true with the automobile which he described as "a glorious super toy which has been busy demolishing cities and creating intolerable living conditions as well as traveling conditions for masses of people in our country."

"When it comes to cities which are for people to live in," he said, "the automobile should be eliminated since it is not a necessary evil, but is just a transportation device to be used where needed and to be eliminated where it destroys man's ability to be a better human being."

"Are we going to stand by and allow trees to be knocked down, as well as people, and whole communities destroyed just because people don't know what is good for them?" Latham asked.

Dinnerware Collections Need Budgets

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise

Paper plates and finger foods are part of our daily lives. But 71 to 81 per cent of all new brides collect good dinnerware and flatware while engaged or during their first six months of marriage. Other women, single or married, add to collections as budgets allow.

Fine china and sterling are more important now than in the last few years. Casual dining habits and TV dinners have not stamped out the desire for gracious living. Better designs in earthenware, plastic dishes and stainless steel items echo this mood.

Here are 20 pointers on what to look for when shopping for dinnerware and flatware.

1. Is the china guaranteed durable, chip-resistant and colorfast?

2. Can you see the outline of your fingers through a piece of china when you hold it to the light? You should if it is good china.

3. Does the china ring when you tap it with your fingernail or a pencil? (This also is a test for quality glassware.)

4. Is the china to be hand-washed to prevent damage to the trim or can it be placed in the dishwasher?

5. Are the patterns open stock so you can replace broken pieces in your pattern?

6. When buying melamine (plastic dishes) does it have at least a one year guarantee?

7. Did you know the price of melamine varies with the weight, shape (especially of cup handles) and amount of design? The more design, the higher the price.

8. Is a heavy piece of holloware such as a candlestick being sold at a price lower than an identical looking piece? Check for a stamp or ask if it is weighted.

9. With sterling silver flatware, hold a fork on your forefinger in the curve between the tine and handle. Does it balance perfectly?

10. Is there a patina (darkened look in the ridges) in the design of the sterling? On plain patterns is there a butler finish (satiny look)? Once gained only with age and use, these effects can now be achieved by the manufacturer.

11. Is the stainless knife blade in a sterling knife guaranteed by the manufacturer or will the retailer stand behind the set for replacement or service?

BETTER THAN AN APPLE

RANDOLPH, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Ethel Chatfield, who recently retired after 37 years as teacher and principal at the Belcher school here, will have more than her memories to keep her warm.

At a testimonial dinner given in her honor by town leaders, school officials and friends, Mrs. Chatfield was presented with a mink stole, as well as a clock radio and an inscribed scroll commending her for her years of devoted service.

USED-UP ISLAND

LIPARI, Italy (AP) — Capri has earned esteem as a jewel of an island in the blue Mediterranean, but it's Lipari that provides the polish.

Lipari, part of the Aeolian Islands north of Sicily, is actually one huge mountain of pumice. In the warm season tons of the grey powder hacked from Lipari's steep cliffs are hauled off by boat to the world's factories as a polishing agent. Experts say much of the island will have been cut away in another five generations.

Eventually the 16 states with proved projects will recline some $2.5 million, based on three-year authorizations approved by Congress.

Colorado total will be $54,262.

Judge Proposes New Tack for Trial of Hoffa

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge today urged the government to try a new tack in its attempt to link James R. Hoffa to an alleged loan fraud.

U.S. District Court Judge Richard B. Austin indicated he believed that an accounting expert for the Federal Bureau of Investigation was making little progress in tracing the disbursement of a loan from the pension fund of the Teamsters union to a New York corporation.

The government contends that the $150,000 to loan to the First Berkeley Corp. shows the pattern of how Hoffa, president of the Teamsters, and seven other men conspired to obtain $25 million in fraudulent loans from the pension fund. The defendants diverted $1.7 million of the sum to their own pockets, the government charges.

Austin, speaking of accountant Albert Husted 's three days of testimony, said "I can't tie Hoffa into this showing."

"I would suggest to the government that they get this man off the stand as soon as possible and get rid of these artifices," the judge said.

Referring to the marathon trial as a whole, the judge said "I've been nine weeks on this and I haven't found out yet what it's all about."

Senate Chiefs To Accept Cut In Excise Tax

solution to a difficult problem" although he pointed out the final answer would have to be worked out in a Senate-House conference.

Mansfield scheduled the tax legislation for floor action today along with other bills which must be enacted into law before the current financial year ends next Tuesday.

President Johnson has strongly urged that the present 10 per cent retail excises in the four categories be retained.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen proposed their repeal Wednesday in the Finance Committee. Democrats in the group then came up with a substitute after a nose count convinced them Dirksen's amendment probably would be adopted.

The substitute, proposed by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., would shift the excises on the four types of products from the retail level to the manufacturer. He would add the amount of the tax to what he charges the retailer for an item.

The effect would be to cut in half the revenue which the levies now bring in, reducing it from $520 million to $260 million. The reason, congressional experts said, is that the markup on the four types of items now averages about 50 per cent.

decide against such a move," sources said.

And although state leaders reminded him of his commitments, he "seemed to resolve this problem himself in a soul-searching session," one source said.

He added that Romney had at least one extended private visit with Scranton at the conference but also was urged by others at the conference to run.

The Philadelphia Inquirer reported Wednesday that informed sources said Romney was ready to wage a fight for the presidential nomination as a result of Scranton's persuasiveness, but was talked out of it by Michigan Republican leaders.

Scranton entered the GOP race June 12, after the governors meeting, and after conferring with others, including Romney.

The two will meet again here. Scranton arrives today for a 29-hour visit in Michigan, including a conference with the 48-member Michigan delegation to the Republican National Convention.

Prospect Lake Proves Popular With Swimmers

An average of about 680 swimmers a day have been using the beach facilities at Prospect Lake since the season opened 10 days ago.

The more than 6,800 total is slightly behind last year's total for the same period, said Stuart Richter director of the City Parks and Recreation Department.

The total also dropped off for the 10-day period at the swimming pool in Monument Valley Park. Some 1,557 swimmers used the pool facilities since the season opened.

Search Continues For Civil Rights Workers in South

area near a lonely road late Tuesday.

Allen Dulles, sent to Mississippi to gather information for the White House on the missing workers, conferred at Jackson with Gov. Paul B. Johnson.

Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he did not plan to come here. He told newsmen that President Johnson asked him to "come down here and talk with Gov. Johnson and get first hand his view of the problems here on law enforcement."

The governor praised Dulles saying "men like him are here for the purpose of doing good. He has a carte blanche anywhere in Mississippi."

The civil rights workers—Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andy Goodman, 20, both of New York and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from Meridian—were last seen Sunday night when Chaney paid a $20 fine for speeding.

They were in the Philadelphia area in central Mississippi to check into the burning of a Negro church used for civil rights rallies.

FBI agents joined in the search for the trio on Tuesday.

The Highway Patrol said more than 200 persons were questioned during a house to house probe Wednesday that was halted by rain and darkness.

Art Richardson a patrol spokesman said officers would fan out on foot today from Philadelphia to comb the entire county for clues.

Another patrol spokesman said the attempt by Negro comedian Dick Gregory and three Negro integration leaders to enter the search area delayed operations Wednesday.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, John Lewis, head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and George Raymond, a CORE executive, joined Gregory in asking to participate.

"We offered our services," said Farmer. "They declined."

Later Gregory offered $25,000 in borrowed money as a reward for the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the disappearance of the three workers. Gregory said he borrowed the money from a Chicago magazine publisher.

Joining Gregory at a civil rights rally in Meridian was Mrs. Michael Schwerner, wife of one of the missing men, who flew to Mississippi earlier in the day from Oxford, Ohio.

Schwerner had been working in the civil rights field in Mississippi for several months. His wife read a statement Wednesday night in which she demanded that President Johnson send federal marshals to this state to protect civil rights workers.

In Washington, some 2,000 delegates to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People convention marched around the Justice Department building in silent protest over the disappearance of the trio.

Nikita Annoyed At Big Swedish 'Security Wall'

the Soviet leader arrived three days ago.

A Soviet source said Khrushchev is beginning to resent the massive security curtain keeping him from contact with the Swedish people.

His impatience was demonstrated during a visit to the shipbuilding center of Goteborg Wednesday. When a policeman thrust out an arm to guide him along his route, Khrushchev struck down the arm and gave him a black look.

No unauthorized person is allowed anywhere near the man from the Kremlin, and even accredited officials are sometimes turned away. Five thousand policemen and two companies of army commandos are everywhere—holding up traffic, blocking sidewalks, peering from rooftops, searching passersby, fussing through kitchens.

Expressen, Scandinavia's biggest newspaper, complained on Khrushchev's behalf: "We are astonished at all these police, and so must Khrushchev be. In the United States he traveled in an open car, as he did in France and also in Egypt."

Another paper called Khrushchev a "prisoner of the Swedish security police."

But the Swedish government is taking no chance of any harm coming to Khrushchev. Thousands of embittered refugees from behind the iron curtain live in Sweden.

At a banquet for Khrushchev in Stockholm Tuesday night, 14 detectives ate with the guests at strategically placed tables. Another 100 police surrounded the building and a dozen more patrolled the wine cellars.

Waitresses had to go through two police checks.

Swiss chef Werner Voegeli, who prepared the menu for a luncheon at the royal palace, reported with some indignation that he and eight waitresses were subjected to medical tests to insure that they had no communicable disease.

Justice Fines Driver $200

William Amicantonio was fined $200 and costs in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Amicantonio 46, 3½ Hazel Ave., was arrested June 16 on South Tejon Street by Police Officer C. J. Cates.

Disregarding a stop sign on Polo Drive June 11 cost Robert Allen Pearson, 17, 212 N. Sheridan Ave., $5 and costs. The state patrolman was Andy Murin.

A 15-year old boy, Stephen Dooley, 615 Bennett Ave. was fined $35 and costs for reckless driving, being without a valid operator's license and having no registration. C. W. Hubbard of the state patrol was the officer.

$250 in Cash Missing in Burglary Here

Thieves got away with $250 in cash from Red Seal Potato Chip Inc., 4327 Sinton Rd., after using a fork lift to tear open a safe, police reported. The theft was discovered Wednesday morning.

Police said the thieves entered the building by breaking a plate glass window out of an overhead door. They then pried open an inner door leading to the main office. The intruders moved the safe into a storage room where they used a company fork lift to open it.

In other theft cases reported this morning, a tire, wheel and gas can worth a total of $65 were taken from two vehicles owned by Orville H. Sturgeon, 1643 W. Vermijo St. The gas can was taken from a jeep and the tire and wheel from a car. Both behicles were parked outside Sturgeon's home Tuesday night when the theft occurred.

A pinball machine was emptied of $35 in dimes and quarters Wednesday night at the Bowl-Mor Lanes, 31 W. Las Vegas St. Victim of the theft was the Peerless Music Co., 1003 S. Tejon St.

Two tires and hubcaps were taken from the car of Albert E. Eaton, 927 E. Colombia St., while the car was parked at the Bowl-Mor Wednesday night. The missing items are worth $55.

A car that was stolen from John G. Kosley, 1521 N. Corona St., Tuesday night was found abandoned in the 2200 block of West St. Vrain St., Wednesday. The only damage to the car was a broken right vent window. The car was returned to the owner.

Gaboa's sixth hole fairway to a dense stretch of jungle five miles away—and their first encounter with a wiry Choco Indian chieftain and his family, who had set up home in a clear, circular patch of land a few hundred feet from the banks of Panama's Chagres River.

His Spanish name was Antonio Zarco, and he presented a weird sight. Aside from the loin cloth and black face paint, he wore bright strings of beads around his shoulders. Conrad stepped up with a gift—a Texas string tie, with silver tips, to add to the collection.

The Zarcos and school instructors, alerted for the visitors, already had lunch laid out —a feast of boa constrictor (snake), iguana (lizard), cooked green bananas, paca (a large rodent), bamboo shoots and other goodies that stranded spacemen might expect to find in jungles.

Toward the end of the meal, Zarco presented Conrad with the gift of a small, handcarved turtle — and then suddenly pulled the fuse on a small smoke bomb that is normally a part of the survival kit.

While Zarco laughed merrily, the acrid red smoke billowed over the cleared area, engulfing the food table and sending the startled astronauts scattering for cover.

Cyprus Turks Pledge to Die Than 'Slavery' peaceful coexistence with the Greek Cypriots, who outnumber them 4-1, "is something like the friendship between the slave and the master."

"This we reject with all our might," a Turkish Cypriot declaration said. "We are determined to die for our right of self-determination and freedom rather than yield to Greek domination."

Grivas told Turkey and the Turkish Cypriots that he had only peaceful intentions.

"We extend a friendly hand toward them and assure them nobody is threatening their lives which we will protect as if they were ours," he said.

Grivas accompanied his friendship offer with a call to Greek Cypriots to join in "the drive for a united, disciplined fighting Cyprus."

The former guerrilla chief said he had returned to Cyprus as a peacemaker but would not accept any compromise solution to the nation's troubles. He called for a referendum to decide the island's future.

"I am confident that we will accomplish a very great task and our age-long aspirations will materialize," Grivas declared.

By "age-long aspirations" he presumably meant union with Greece. This was his goal in his underground war against the British, and he went into self-imposed exile in Greece when it was denied him by the 1960 independence agreements.

Scranton Claims Barry Would Doom GOP Vote

the Communist government of Fidel Castro.

At the news conference, Scranton said:

"Since in politics almost anything can happen, it would not be impossible for Sen. Goldwater to beat (President) Johnson in November.

"But there is such a thing as playing with odds so long that only the most optimistic partisan would have anything but a glimmer of hope.

"I believe that would be the position of the party with Barry as a candidate. It is not possible to exaggerate the tremendously difficult task to get him elected."

Goldwater has more than enough delegates to capture the nomination if his support holds up through the first ballot at the San Francisco convention.

Scranton pointed his air tour today at delegates in Cleveland, Ohio, and Lansing, Mich. Ohio's 58 votes are pledged to favorite son Gov. James A. Rhodes. Forty-five of Michigan's 48 delegates are uncommitted. Goldwater has the other three.

In assessing Goldwater's chances against President Johnson, Scranton said he had conducted his own polls and made use of some commercial polls.

"The evidence against the Goldwater candidacy is so devastating that it is incapable of being in complete error," he said.

Scranton said polls of Republican voters only showed Johnson would get more GOP votes than Goldwater in New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Iowa and Minnesota.

Roosevelt Family Rejects Slabs for FDR Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family of Franklin D. Roosevelt has rejected the latest modified design for a memorial to the late president, just approved by Washington's Fine Arts Commission after three years of controversy.

After the commission's acceptance Wednesday of the design, a letter was made public stating that the five surviving Roosevelt children are "unalterably opposed" to the plan for a memorial based on an arrangement of eight great concrete tablets up to 130 feet high.

Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., as spokesman for the family group, addressed the letter to Francis Biddle, chairman of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Commission, and William Walton, chairman of the Fine Arts Commission. He said the five Roosevelt children met at Hyde Park, N.Y., last Sunday and agreed unanimously that they did not like either the original design submitted by the commission in 1961, or the modification.

The Roosevelt children made one special request—that any memorial include groves of trees "in recognition of the tremendous feeling Franklin D. Roosevelt had for trees and his great interest in their conservation."

Tshombe Plans To Help Congo Establish Peace

advancing Wednesday on the North Katanga town of Kasongo, 200 miles north of Albertville. They recaptured Albertville last week and have refused to allow 70 Europeans to leave.

Gaston Soumialot, the rebel leader in Kivu Province, is master of most of the western shore of Lake Tanganyika.

Tshombe is believed to still have the allegiance of powerful forces in Katanga, which is south of Kivu and where he kept order with a native army officered by white mercenaries.

Katanga is by far the richest province, and the giant Belgian-controlled Union Miniere copper and cobalt combine there is the central government's chief source of revenue.

Nosedive Seen In Prosecution Of Jimmy Hoffa

CHICAGO (AP)—The government's fraud and conspiracy case against James R. Hoffa took a nosedive Wednesday when the presiding judge told the prosecution it has yet to prove there has been any crime.

The blow to the government came after six and a half weeks of prosecution testimony and the introduction of more than 10,000 documents as evidence.

Judge Richard B. Austin of U.S. District Court, who made the statement in court also said he would direct a verdict of acquittal on 2 of the 28 counts against Hoffa and the seven other defendants.

"There still is no evidence of any misrepresentation by any of the defendants in this lawsuit," the judge said in the courtroom. "Everything seems to be off color a little bit, but that does not make it a crime as charged in the indictment. The diversion of money in itself is not evidence of a scheme to defraud."

At another point in the testimony the judge said he had been made aware of "how tenuous is the web regarding defendant Hoffa."

The eight defendants are accused of fradulently arranging more than $20 million in real estate loans from the Teamsters' pension fund over a 4½ year period and diverting in excess of $1 million to their own use.

The government charges that the alleged scheme was to extricate Hoffa from a bankrupt Florida homes development in which he was financially involved.

The trial "is in a morass and a swamp," Judge Austin said after two days of testimony from a FBI accountant.

The government finally gave up its attempt to have the accountant, Albert Hustedt, trace a $3.5-million pension fund loan to First Berkeley Corp. in an effort to show that part of it had been divereted from its stated purpose.

Judge Austin concluded that a motion should be made by the defense later in the trial to dismiss First Berkeley from two fraud counts. The counts charge misrepresentation by Hoffa to trustees of the pension fund in connection with a $300,000 loan.

President Loses Major Round in Medicare Issue

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's chances of getting his medical care program now hinge on the Senate—and perhaps on his ability to persuade key House members later.

The President lost round one Wednesday when the House Ways and Means Committee shelved the Social Security health program.

The committee, however, did vote for a 5 per cent increase in cash payments to Social Security retirees.

If Congress acts promptly, passing the bill in July, the October pension checks could reflect the increase.

Social Security retirement now averages $77 for an individual, with a top of $127. A wife 62 or older means an additional 50 per cent. A tax boost to pay for the increase would go into effect Jan. 1.

When members of the American Medical Association's House of Delegates meeting in San Francisco heard of the committee's decision against the plan they stood up and cheered.

The AMA has been one of the strongest and most vocal opponents of the medical care plan and its president, Dr. Thomas A. Welch, said, "We are confident that this decision is in keeping with the attitude of the majority of the American people."

Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., co-author of the health plan, seized the initiative in shelving it when it was obvious that a vote would mean defeat.

As a result, if the House finally does get a medical care plan from the Senate, there will not be a record of committee rejection. King's motion was to confine the present bill to retirement matters.

Then, in what appeared on the surface to be a reversal of roles, Democratic liberals on the committee voted against a Republican move to make the Social Security retirement increase 6 per cent instead of 5 per cent. They defeated this move, 12 to 12—a tie loses under committee rules.

The theory was that the cost of a hospital plan would have to be added to the price for retirement increases. By keeping these at the 5 per cent level, some supporters of the health plan reasoned, they might make it possible for the Senate to superimpose health benefits without requiring an impossibly high tax rise.

The cost of the Social Security changes proposed by the Ways and Means Committee would be met by a payroll tax increase. In 1965 it would amount to $31.20 on employes making as much as $5,400 and an equal amount on their employers. By 1971 the increase over the rates provided in existing law would be $37.20.

Frontier Reports Net Income, Revenues Up

Revenues of $1,834,300 in May were reported for Frontier Airlines by the carriers president, Lewis W. Dymond. This resulted in an operating profit of $200,500 and a net income of $81,200.

Revenues were up 17 per cent over May 1963 showings of $1,570,000; a gain of 33 per cent in operating profit over the $150,700 reported a year ago. Net income was up 23 per cent over last years reported $65,800 for the month.

For the first five months of 1964, Frontier Airlines' revenue totaled $8,928,000, operating profit was $779,700 and net profit was $333,900.

Auto Makers Reject Air Pollution Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The automobile Industry today rejected a suggestion that it install air pollution controls on all models.

George A. Delaney, smog consultant for the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said the industry will be able to meet only its commitment to California by the middle of 1966.

"The very scope and amount of work remaining to be done make it premature to discuss wider application of these engine design concepts," Delaney said.

The proposal to add exhaust emissions control methods to all cars was made by Chairman Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, as the Senate subcommittee on air and water pollution continued its hearings.

Love Proposes Checkrein on Supreme Court

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's republican Gov. John A. Love said today it would be a healthy thing if states rose up and amended the United States Consititution to put a check rein on powers of the Supreme Court to order reapportionment of legislatures.

The governor said there is a fear that in its opinions the court has legislated and has become involved in matters of policy, rather than simple judicial problems.

He said, in an answer to a question at a news conference that he shares this fear.

Love emphasized that he was speaking only of a constitutional apportionment.

His remarks were triggered by a telegram from Congressman Byron G. Rogers of Denver, a Democrat, advising him the House Judiciary Committee will open hearings July 22 on a constitutional amendment to limit the high court's powers over apportionment of legislative seats.

The governor said Colorado will be represented at the hearing and added if possible he will appear in person to testify.

Love said he will support a constitutional amendment of some kind but added he realizes that the apportionment system long in effect in some states cannot be defended. He said he would support an amendment to the effect that in one House in the legislature a state could consider things other than population in allocating seats.

Traditionally, the apportionment of the Colorado Senate has taken geography into consideration. The supreme court ruling nine days ago held, however, that both houses of the Colorado Legislature must be apportioned strictly on a population basis.

Usually, a passage of an amendment to the United States Constitution requires years. First, it must be passed by both houses of Congress by two-thirds majorities, then must be ratified by legislatures of three-fourths of the states.

Discussing the immediate reapportionment of the Colorado Legislature the governor remarked it "would be awful" if all legislators were required to run at large next fall.

Such a situation would force every voter to look at a list of 130 candidates for the House of Representatives with the chance to vote for any 65 of them. It also would mean names of 36 candidates for the Senate would appear on every ballot and the voter could cast votes for as many as 18 of them.

Love said that if a special three judge federal court in Denver now studying the reapportionment problem allows the 1964 election to go ahead on the basis of the now-nullified apportion system, it might be wise to have a special legislative session this year to work a new apportionment system which would become effective at the 1966 election.

Love said that such a session probably would be held before next falls election.

Proposal for Medicare Dropped by Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposal for health care of the aged was dropped today by the House Ways and Means Committee, which thus dealt a heavy blow at any chance of enactment this year.

The committee went on to say to fashion a bill to increase the cash payments to persons retired under Social Security, but deadlocked. More sessions were scheduled later today.

Proponents of the health care measure themselves moved to drop it from committee consideration, thus avoiding a certain vote against it.

The motion by Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., co-author of the bill to provide health care under Social Security, also ruled out consideration of any alternate plan or any improvements to the existing system of state-federal health care for the indigent.

The committee adopted it by voice vote, it was reported. The effect was to narrow committee consideration to changes in the retirement system.

A natural wood salad bowl can be given a coat of clear shellac or colorless lacquer inside and out before using for first time.

A tall glass makes a satisfactory substitute when no rolling pin is available. Dust two large pieces of wax paper with flour, place the dough between the papers and using the glass, roll the dough out evenly.

Launder nylon stockings with other delicate fabrics in a nylon mesh bag. Use a fabric conditioner and set washing machine on gentle agitation.

Maggie Houston Comments On Fashions at F-G Show

Garden fashions will be featured again on Friday from 3 to 4 p.m. at the Colorado Springs Flower and Garden Show, according to Mrs. Hilliard Miller, chairman of the style show.

Friday's commentator will be Maggie Houston, and the Norad Band will again play for the show. Joanne Rowe is today's commentator. Mrs. J. J. Wallace Jr., of the Flower and Garden Show committee, will again be the "green thumb" model, wearing the old clothes of the typical gardener.

Purpose of the fashion show, Miss Miller explained, is to prove that a woman need not be uncomfortable or unattractive while working, playing or entertaining in the garden. Eighteen of Colorado Springs leading dress shops are collaborating in the show and many have made special arrangements in connection with it.

Kaufman's has had a special patio outfit flown in from New York. Shown by an expert model, it should be a highlight of the show.

A long culotte for entertaining in the garden has been designed especially for the show by Nancy's. L'Ann's will place in the show a patio outfit completely designed by Mme. Louis, owner of the shop.

Fashion Bar will be another shop which will fly in an outfit, this one a special afternoon dress, from California.

Cox Brothers and Young Creations will show styles for teenagers, and the grade school set will be represented by the Merrie Simmons Shop and the Gray Rose Children's Shop.

Other shops participating are Abercrombie and Fitch Co., Betty's Fashions, Mar Ru, Gray Rose, May D&F, Mr. C. Fashions, Mode O'Day, Perkins Shear, Rae's and short Story of Broadmoor.

In defending against a notrump contract where partner is attempting to establish his suit, a player should normally put his high cards to use at the earliest opportunity to assist in driving out the declarer's stoppers.

East's failure to come to the aid of West in today's hand provided South with an opportunity to completely disorganize his opponent's attack.

Three notrump was reached by North and South on routine bidding and West led the three of hearts. The ten was played from dummy and, when East put up the queen, he was permitted to hold the trick. The heart continuation was taken by the king. A small club was led and, when East played low, South's queen became a winner.

Having apparently located the ace of clubs on his right, declarer decided to switch his attentions elsewhere for, even if he succeeded in establishing that suit, he could count only seven tricks—three clubs, two diamonds and two hearts.

What was of even greater note to South was the realization that he must dislodge West's entry — assuming that he had one—before the latter succeeded in establishing his heart suit. When the queen of clubs held, declarer led a small spade from his hand. West played low and North's queen won the trick. A spade was returned and South ducked; his efforts were rewarded when West's ace appeared.

The heart return was won by declarer's ace, and he now proceeded to drive out the ace of clubs. East was in but he had no way to reach his partner to cash the hearts, and South was able to run for cover with nine tricks when the club suit broke evenly.

Declarer controlled the play with considerable skill once his opponent slipped up. East missed a golden opportunity to aid his partner when he permitted South to sneak through a club trick early. Had he played the ace of clubs and followed it up by clearing the hearts, West would have been able to cash the setting tricks when he was in with the ace of spades.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here's my helpful hint which applies to washable nurses' caps!

After the caps have been washed and dried, submerge them in a heavy starch solution sufficient to cover them. Then lay them out on a smooth, flat surface, such as an aluminum or stainless steel cookie sheet, and smooth out perfectly with your fingers. Then expose the caps to the sun and when dry, "peel off." No ironing is necessary, and the caps stand up perfectly, and the sun bleaches them.

The results are miraculous. —Charlott Gross, R.N.

Ever tried using a window pane? It's fantastic. But be sure the window is clean. If the window is on the sunny side of the house, the sun will also bleach the cap. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Here's a bit of sound philosophy for your weight-conscious friends:

Don't buy it and you won't have to eat it.

How about that? —Mrs. Henry Goldback

Dear Heloise:

For those who braid or hook rugs, here's a hint for house cleaning time:

While sorting woolen garments—some of which are too good for the rag bag, I wash them, cut them into strips, and fold.

I save plastic bags and put different colors of wool strips in each one. Thus, color and amount is visible.

If the bags are put away with moth balls for winter sewing, the moths cannot get to them. —Grandmoher

Dear Heloise:

For mothers of two and three-year-olds who need entertaining while mother gets her work done, here's a trick I discovered:

I have a little girl, two years old, and I give her a handful of my colorful quilt scraps, and she will sit for hours just sorting and playing with them.

It's amazing how much washing and ironing I can get done. —Mother

Dear Heloise:

My husband and I have found that the large, hard-cover check book is best suited to our personal needs—the kind with three checks to each page that you tear out one by one—but we had a hard time keeping track of our deposit slips.

Then I hit upon the idea of pasting an envelope to the inside front cover. Now when a deposit is entered in the book, the slip goes into the envelope and there's no danger of losing it.—Betty

Dear Heloise:

The knees of corduroy capris wear out so fast, but I found a way to get a second life out of two pairs. I make Bermuda shorts from one pair, and using the back of the knees from that pair, I applique hearts over the knees of the second pair. And if the two capris are different colors it makes the hearts even more attractive.

Summer camping and traveling wouldn't be nearly as pleasant with my handy spray bottle of water for washing faces, putting up hair, and for a refreshing "lift" sprayed on the kids when it's really hot in the car. It has come in handy more times than I can mention. —Mrs. R. L. McCann

Dear Heloise:

Skirt hangers with clips are excellent for drying nylon stockings. They end the trouble of picking up nylons that have fallen from your bathroom towel rack — or wherever you dry them. —Esther T.

Careful!

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 400,000 cars were stolen nationwide last year. That's a car gone every 80 seconds.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Speak Up Now

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a highly respected professional man. My problem is his secretary. When I telephone my husband at his office, she always gives me some fresh answer, such as "Yes, I'm sure he's here because I am sitting on his lap."

Once when I asked to speak to my husband, she said she would see if he was in condition to talk after chasing her around her desk all morning. I have never given this woman the impression that I like this sort of thing, and I am always too embarrassed to think of anything to say to her. I want to be considered a good sport but I do not wish to put up with any more of this. How should I handle it? —PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Tell your husband exactly what his secretary has said to you. And if she isn't shipped out—or shaped up in one big hurry—your problem is a lot more serious than you think it is.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with this girl for 14 months and I have kissed her only 11 times. Do you think this is good? Anyone else does that in ten minutes. I am 16 and she is 15. She doesn't have any reason to be afraid of me because I am not rough or anything like that. She told me over the phone last night that she wanted to break up with me. I started to cry on the phone and I told her that I loved only one girl, and she was her. Should I let her go and look for someone else? I can't make up my mind. —LOSING OUT

DEAR LOSING: Perhaps you are still a little too young to go "steady" with anyone. Why not play the field and date several girls and make comparisons?

DEAR ABBY: Is it or is it not in good taste to apply make-up at the table after dining in public? I once sat at a table with a young woman who took out jars and tubes of creams and paints, as well as an assortment of paint brushes. Then she proceeded to outline her eyes and paint her lips as an artist would apply paint to a canvas. Your answer is desperately needed in this city. —CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO: It is permissible to retouch the lips quickly in public. But if a whole new paint job is required, it's best to take the primer, paint, varnish and brushes into the ladies' room and work privately.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is married and living out of the city, has never given his father anything for Father's Day. Nor has he ever remembered me with so much as a card or a telephone call on Mother's Day. Our birthdays and anniversaries are ignored also. We never fail to send him, his wife, and their children lovely gifts for all occasions. Knowing that friends and relatives would ask me what our son sent us for an occasion that called for a gift, I would buy something very costly and pass it off as a "gift" from our son. He will pay for them in the end, however, because I have been keeping track of the cost, and instructions have been left in our will that after Dad and I are gone the cost of those items shall be deducted from whatever we leave. I thank you. —A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE

BIENVENU—Mrs. G. H. A. Newman, left, extends a welcome to Mrs. John Garland and Mrs. Alvin Moore, right, at a French-speaking sherry party held by Cercle Francais at the Newman home. The group of Ent officers' wives are learning French under Mrs. Newman who studied in Paris. The 48-week course is based on a continental system, and by the end of six months the students are able to read, write, and speak French. French classical literature is also included in the course. The circle has gained 50 members during the first month. Plans include a French-speaking coffee and the presentation of a French play.

Some Cool Soups

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Chilled soups for warm weather menus are increasingly popular. They provide good nourishment and refreshing variety.

Cream of Spinach Soup

(5 cups)

1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach

3½ cups vegetable liquid and milk

2 to 3 teaspoons grated onion

2 tablespoons finely diced celery

3 tablespoons butter

3 tablespoons flour

¾ teaspoon salt

Dash of pepper

½ cup light cream or top milk

1 chicken bouillon cube

Cook spinach as directed on package. Drain, reserving liquid. Add milk to liquid to make 3½ cups. If desired, force spinach through a coarse sieve, or blend in electric blender until pureed.

Melt butter in heavy saucepan. Add onion and celery and saute 1 minute. Then add flour, salt and pepper and stir until blended. Add milk mixture and the cream gradually, stirring constantly. Add bouillon cube. Cook and stir over low heat until thickened. Add spinach and heat thoroughly. Serve in bowls or cups. Garnish each serving with a dash of paprika.

Chilled Spinach Soup

Prepare Cream of Spinach Soup, cool about 30 minutes, then chill thoroughly—2 to 3 hours or overnight. If a thinner soup is desired, add a little cream or milk before serving. Serve in chilled cups.

Children Thrive Backstage and On Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — Are theatre children abnormal? But what is normality?

Mrs. Anthony Votos, mother of Christopher Votos, 8, one of the youngest boys in the hit musical "Oliver," has some keen insight into the world of grease paint and applause.

Mrs. Votos, widow of a psychoanalyst and formerly a teacher and research chemist, believes it is hard to say what is "normal" these days.

The world being what it is, learning to accept frustrations and the ability to adjust to changing situations which arise in show business are invaluable traits to acquire.

"For example," Mrs. Votos says, "when the lad who played the oroginal 'Artful Dodger' was replaced in Toronto just before the New York opening of "Oliver," all the children were visibly upset.

"But higher powers had made the decision and they had to learn to accept it. They also had the added responsibility of overcoming their hostility and welcoming a newcomer who was an innocent and friendless replacement."

"The adage, 'well, that's show biz'," she says, "is just a crystallization of 'well, that's life.' There is much in life that is unbut we must learn to adapt pleasant or incomprehensible, but we must learn to adapt and deal with life's disappointments."

The fringe benefits of growing up in the theater are numerous. "Oliver" spent two months each in Los Angeles and San Francisco before New York.

Every boy had a chaperone, usually a mother, but there were two fathers and two uncles on the tour.

Mrs. Votos and the mother of the original Oliver shared a rented apartment in each city, setting up all the extras of home living for their boys.

There was time to explore all the museums, parks, and other sections of the Californua cities.

When Christopher returned to New York, his neighborhood buddies took a day to adjust to his long moppet haircut.

Now, they explain the haircut to strangers before the questions start.

Backstage, besides the regular hours set aside for professional school and tutoring, there exists an informal academy for the dissemination of hobbies.

Christopher was taught to play a sharp game of chess by one of his 15 "stag brothers." Model ships, rockets and planes are brought in for inspection and praise.

While a lot of energy gets dispersed on stage, there's plenty left over for a weekly baseball game. The "Oliver Jrs." will meet any organized contenders in Central Park on Thursday afternoons.

Central City Determined To Legalize Gambling

By STEPHEN M. AUG

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. (AP) —Central City residents want legalized gambling in this restored old mining camp — and they're determined that neither state nor Denver society is going to stop them.

At issue is the validity of a section of the Central City charter granted 100 years ago by Colorado's Territorial Legislature.

It says that Central City may "license, restrain, regulate, prohibit and suppress tippling houses, gambling houses, bawdy houses and other disorderly houses."

But several state statutes prohibit gambling and prostitution, and the state has its own liquor laws.

Whether gambling ever does return here depends on the outcome of a suit soon to be brought in court.

If Central City wins, it might even gain the right to have its own liquor laws. But gambling is the issue in the case, and it's supported by most of the community's 350 residents.

Gambling is opposed by the Central City Opera Association —the principal industry in the community—that draws about 750,000 tourists each year to this city 8,560 feet high in the Rockies 35 miles west of Denver.

The association has about 700 members—some 350 are principal contributors, and many are wealthy, influential members of Denver society.

Some Central City residents claim the association is trying to force the town into submission. The association says it may pull out if gambling is allowed in.

While nearly all Central City residents agree that the opera association has brought their community back to vibrant life from a quarter-century depression, they aren't all happy about having a one-industry town.

Bill Russell, the mayor, says that very little opera association money goes to the city. Nearly all association property is owned by the University of Denver and is tax free.

The association says its president, Frank Ricketson, has spent about $2 million restoring old buildings to what is believed they were like in the '70s and '80s when the community was a booming gold mining center and one of the biggest cities in the state.

Central City has its seasonal problems. Its two-man police department must be increased to five during the summer. About one-third of the city's $30,000 annual budget goes for police.

Parking is another problem — there aren't enough lots to handle all the tourists.

The city needs a new sewer system and water works and a bond issue would be necessary to finance them.

Central City residents are proud of a new fire truck and a new ambulance—financed by donations. A new firehouse was rebuilt by local residents.

Gambling, Russell says, "is the only way we can see we'll ever get off our knees."

Drought May Have Injured Winter Wheat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The recent drought may have hurt the state's winter wheat crop, but federal officials predicted Tuesday that Colorado's carnation production would be in a "slightly greater" bloom than last year.

The Department of Agriculture made the estimate in a report on production and sales of cut flowers in six selected states.

"Growers in Colorado continued to expand the production of carnations in 1963," the report said, "and the volume of sales was up 13 per cent from the previous years.

The department said despite a slight drop in the wholesale price of the flower, the wholesale value of the entire crop was $7.2 million, up six per cent over last year.

Despite the greater bloom for carnation growers, the department said lovers of other flowers would be slightly dismayed. Colorado growers may expect to produce fewer roses, chrysanthemums and gladiolus.

Anti-Red Group Blasts Civil Liberties Union

BOULDER (UPI)— An anti-Communist group has protested use of state property by the American Civil Liberties Union which met in Boulder last week.

The Eastern Colorado branch of the United Anti-Communist Action Committee of New York said the ACLU should be denied use of tax supported public property, the Colorado University Memorial Center.

John A. Gay of Boulder is chairman of the Eastern Colorado anti-Communist group. He issued a press statement opposing the ACLU.

Cases of "Q" Fever Noted in San Luis Valley

DENVER (UPI)—Four cases of Q Fever, transmitted to humans by livestock, have been discovered in the San Luis Valley, the Colorado Department of Public Health said today.

Q Fever is relatively rare in Colorado. Its symptoms resemble those of influenza. Pneumonia often follows. Sheep and cattle are common carriers.

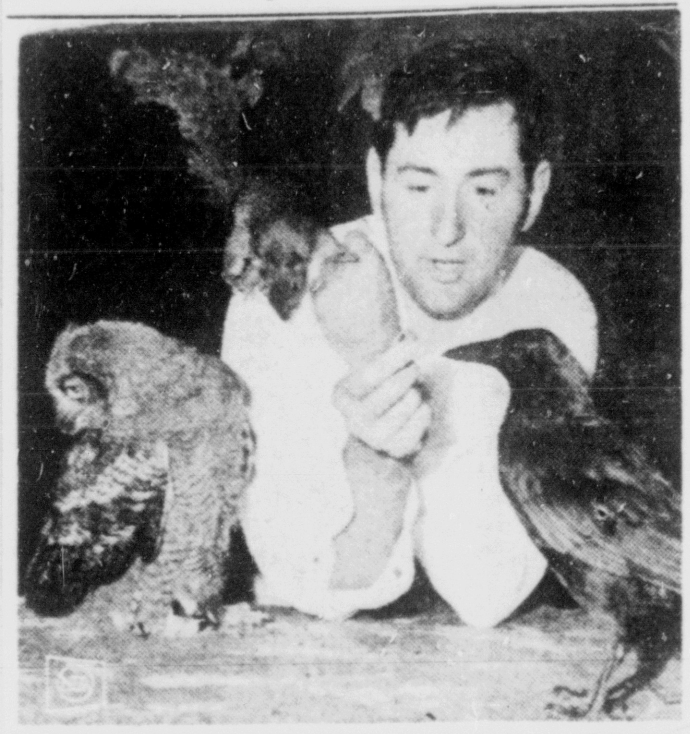
Three doctors made clinical diagnosis of the Q Fever incidence over the past four weeks in Rio Grande Saguache and Costilla counties, the Health Department said. All four victims had been exposed to lambing sheep or to cattle and sheep.

The fever got its name from Queensland, Australia, where it was discovered, the department's chief epidemiologist, Dr. C.S. Mollohan said.

The organism is frequently inhaled from animal excretions dandruff and placentas, Dr. Mollohan said. The victim feels sleepy, has headaches, chills and fevers, and sweats profusely.

Tetracycline antibiotics are used in treatment, Dr. Mollohan said. Preventive vaccines are effective for livestock laboratory workers and animal handlers, he said.

The wild cattle of Paraguay are said to be almost immune to disease.



STRANGE MENAGERIE—Marion Smallwood's adopted family includes a great horned owl, squirrel and crow—and they live together happily. Smallwood, a student at Oklahoma State Tech, Okmulgee, likes animals and acquires members of his odd collection—all orphans—when they're young. This, he says, accounts for their compatibility.

Decline in Spring Pig Crop Reported

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today that the 1964 spring pig crop declined 12 per cent to 166,000 pigs.

The report said sows farrowed during the spring months, December through May, totaled 23,000 head, 18 per cent below the 28,000 head farrowed during the spring of last year.

This spring's pig crop averaged 7.2 pigs per litter compared to 6.7 pigs per litter a year earlier.

BULLY REPORT

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — Retired officer John Bull Wednesday reported the location of a missing herd of cows to Eastbourne police and then escorted the wayward animals back to their farm. An official commented: "This is the first time we have received a report from a 'bull' about a herd of cows."

Cut in Excise Taxes Approved By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee adopted today a proposal to cut excise taxes on furs, cosmetics, handbags and jewelry by $260 million a year.

The cut was proposed by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and adopted 13-3, as a substitute for a Republican proposal to repeal the taxes entirely.

The effect of the substitute is to shift the 10 per cent levies, which date from the first year of World War II, from a retail price to a manufacturer's price place Oct. 1, 1964.

Committee experts said this would mean a reduction in revenue of about $260 million as compared with $517 million if the four types of excises had been repealed entirely. They said the markup on such items averages about 50 per cent.

The committee also voted 12-5 to approve a House-passed bill raising the temporary national debt ceiling to $324 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1. It now is $315 billion.

If all television sets were this portable, who'd have to gulp down TV dinners?

Most of us might enjoy television more if we enjoyed it a little less.

But night after night we seem to get drawn to the tube like moths.

Every chair in the living room is aimed at it. We even plan dinner around it.

If you stop and think about it for a minute (say during a commercial), you'll realize why.

Because it's there. Larger than life. Too big to ignore. And always on.

Because it's simply less painful to watch television than have a blank TV screen watching you.

The Sony 5" portable finally puts television in its proper perspective.

It doesn't command your attention until you turn it on. Even then it doesn't turn your living room into a theatre.

If you must have it in for dinner, you can just plop it right next to the mashed potatoes.

The Sony isn't a console with a handle. It weighs only eight pounds.

All transistors. All installed by hand. No tubes to fail, no distortion or spasms. The picture is pin-point sharp.

The Sony works off the battery of a car or boat, as well as A.C. outlets. Or in the middle of nowhere with its own battery pack.

The Sony portable makes watching easier and not watching easier. Who knows? Someday it might even replace the portable dinner.

Vivien Leigh Back, Playing Southern Lady

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vivien Leigh, looking lovely and fit after her recent illness, is back in Hollywood to play yet another Southern lady.

The English actress has come aboard Stanley Kramer's "Ship of Fools" to play one of the few American roles in the cast. This time she's a Virginian, and if she does as well as her last two Southerners, she'll be doing very well indeed. Both won her Oscars.

"The accent is quite difficult, but I'm working hard on it," she reported. "Virginian is a bit difficult to capture; it's somewhere midway between Southern and British. It was easier when I was speaking Georgian in 'Gone With the Wind' and Mississippian in 'A Streetcar Named Desire.'"

Miss Leigh is quite confounded as to why she has happened to specialize in Southern belles in American films, but obviously she has no complaints. She is feeling very chipper following months of rest that were necessary after her collapse in New York last year. She had been appearing in her first musical, "Tovarich."

"Everyone told me I was crazy to do a play in New York during the summer," she explained. "I thought that was nonsense. Hadn't I played four shows a day in North Africa during the war in temperatures of 126 degrees? I was sure I could cope with a New York summer.

"But I couldn't. It was simply unbearable. I spent all day in the country, but I had to come to the theater at night, and the nights were terrible. I could get no rest at all."

Now she is pleased to be back at her profession and to return to Hollywood to visit her chums.

The town holds many memories for her, some pleasant, some not so. She recalled "Streetcar" with pleasure. "It was a terribly stimulating experience," she said. "All of us had done the play, so we were familiar with the story. And Marlon Brando was marvelous to work with."

Her feelings about "Gone With the Wind" are mixed.

"While we were shooting it, I was convinced that it was going to be a disaster," she remarked. "Perhaps it was because it was the first time I had been involved in such a big film and I was terribly confused by the constant changes."

"Gone With the Wind" was a triumph, though not a financial one for Miss Leigh. "I made less from it in six months than I did from my previous film, which took 10 weeks," she said. "And my husband (Laurence Olivier) and I then put all our profits in 'Romeo and Juliet,' which was a total loss. So when we returned to England for the war, we were virtually penniless."

Interstate Gas Seeks Improvement Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colorado Interstate Gas Co. of Colorado Springs, Colo., seeks Power Commission authority to spend $2.2 million on improvements in the Rocky Mountain area.

The proposal calls for construction of new facilities in Colorado and Oklahoma and modernizing other facilities in Colorado.

If approved, the program would increase Colorado Interstate's system capacity by 810 million cubic feet of gas daily to meet inreased requirements.

Students Encouraged To Go to College

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Fifty-seven junior high school pupils today began a six-week pilot program aimed at encouraging them to go to college.

The 37 boys and 20 girls were selected for intelligence, school achievement, creativity and motivation.

Thirty-seven are Negroes but John M. Antes, program director of the project at Oberlin College, said, "We aren't paying any attention to the color of skin."

The program consists of classes, counseling, recreation and cultural events such as visits to the museums of art and natural history in Cleveland.

Antes said all the pupils are equipped to do college work later but their parents cannot finance their education beyond high school.

The project is financed by a $150,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

State Lotteries Not Popular With All Solons

By WILLIAM M. SHAFFER

CHICAGO (AP) — The state lottery, which is producing big response and bigger income for New Hampshire, generally has drawn a legislative ho - hum elsewhere in the nation.

Only California is taking steps to follow New Hampshire's lead.

The first drawing for the 1964 Granite State Sweepstakes in New Hampshire will be next month. Buyers' names will be drawn from a drum containing $1 million worth of tickets. Those drawn will be assigned to the 332 horses nominated for the Sept. 12 sweepstakes race at Rockingham Park race track. Subsequent drawings will be held fo reach additional $1 million in tickets sold.

Backers say the New Hampshire plan will swell state coffers and mollify taxpayers. "A man would rather lay a bet than pay a tax," the logic goes.

Thus far only Californians have seen the logic. In November, they'll vote on a referendum to establish a state-franchised, privately operated lottery. The initiative would write a 10-year monopoly on the lottery into the state constitution in behalf of American Sweepstakes Corp. The firm would sell $2 tickets, keeping 26 cents and turning in $1.74 to the state for prizes, operating expenses and public school support.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown's Democratic administration opposes the measure, as do most church groups and both houses of the legislature. To defeat the scheme, California lawmakers placed their own measure on the ballot. If successful, it would make it illegal to write constitutional amendments naming any firm—profit making or not—to perform a state job.

In New York lottery bills annually meet with no success. Sponsors of practically all such measures have been New York City Democrats, who argued revenues would put to good use money now going to the underworld. Republicans, in control of the legislature and the governor's office, said lotteries would compound social and economic problems among low-income families.

In Rhode Island, a constitutional amendment failed by one vote in the State Senate earlier this year. The current outright ban would have continued except insofar as state-conducted lotteries were concerned. But even if it had passed, a separate General Assembly would have had to endorse it before a public referendum, with at least a 3-2 winning margin.

Other states whose constitutions ban lotteries include Texas, Iowa, New Jersey, Oregon and, oddly, Nevada. Although nearly every other kind of gambling is legal in Nevada, lotteries are prohibited by the state constitution.

Attorney Convicted In Income Tax Case

DENVER (AP)—John J. Gibbons, veteran Denver attorney, who defended himself against income tax evasion charges, was convicted Tuesday.

A jury deliberated four hours in convicting Gibbons of all six counts of an indictment alleging he failed to pay nearly $9,000 in taxes for 1957, 1959 and 1960.

Gibbons claimed the criminal charge stemmed from "a personal vendetta" against him by five U.S. Internal Revenue agents.

They built the case, said Gibbons, in revenge for losing a 1957 case involving a $22,000 uranium claim against two prospectors. Gibbons defended the two men in Canon City.

The goverment called more than 200 witnesses. Gibbons was accused of receiving money in his law practice "substantially in excess" of the receipts he reported for those three years.

Hog Farmer Has Big Problem of Disposal

FORT COLLINS (AP) — A farmer feeding 500 hogs in confinement has a greater waste disposal problem than a town of 2,000 people, agricultural engineers were told here Tuesday.

Charles E. Clark, sanitary engineer for the Illinois Department of Public Health, discussed the new field of animal waste treatment at the 57th annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

About 850 of the engineers will make a tour of northern Colorado feedlots and farms Thursday.

Ulbricht Does Not Expect New Red Peace Pact

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — Walter Ulbricht, the Communist leader of East Germany, has at last publicly admitted he doesn't expect to get his long-sought separate German peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

For more than five years, Moscow has poised the threat of signing a separate peace pact that the Reds claimed would drive the Western Allies out of Berlin.

At the beginning, Soviet Premier Khrushchev gave the West six months to get out. The ultimatum gradually was softened. After the Cuba missile crisis, the Reds stopped talking about their peace pact.

In conversations reported on Monday in the controlled East German press, Ulbricht tried to give the impression he never really wanted a separate pact—that would have left West Germany to the mercy of the militarists, he said.

Instead he had a friendship treaty signed in Moscow 11 days ago. The Communist press quoted him as saying that this pact "gives us all that we can expect and need" from a peace pact.

Then he went on to develop the idea that he was conducting a policy for the benefit of all Germany, suggesting that the Communist way would produce a settlement for the whole country and not just part of it.

Western diplomats regard this as a flip-flop from the days before Cuba when the Communists were pressing for a Red takeover of West Berlin.

Equal Population Bill Given Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would require states to establish congressional districts of approximately equal population was approved today by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The action was hailed as "a step of major significance" by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who has been sponsoring a similar bill for 15 years.

The Supreme Court has ruled that present congressional districts in many states are unconstitutional because they fail to provide equally weighted votes for citizens.

Two Americans Dead, Viet Nam Captives Report

By PETER ARNETT

SUOI DA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Captured Viet Cong guerrillas have told interrogators that a U.S. Special Forces officer and enlisted man missing since their unit was ambushed last Friday are dead.

The body of a third American caught in the Viet Cong ambush five miles from this forward Special Forces camp was found near the battle scene Monday.

All three Americans were on patrol with a Montagnard strike force of 100 men, testing Viet Cong strength in the area after arriving to establish a base at Suoi Da.

A Viet Cong battalion hit the unit from entrenched positions, killing 47 Montagnards and scattering other patrol members.

However, Americans here said today the strike force apparently put up a strong fight before dispersing. Counter operations were launched immediately against the guerrillas in an attempt to find the Americans who were at first believed captured.

But after the recovery of the body of the U.S. enlisted man Monday and the capture of several prisoners Tuesday all hope of finding the other two Americans alive was lost.

One prisoner said the body of the U.S. officer was dragged several miles from the battle scene 10 miles north of Tay Ninh which lies to the west of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

This prisoner said the body was photographed in villages and eventually taken to a Viet Cong base area north of Tay Ninh City in a thick jungle. Other prisoners said the enlisted man's body was taken to the same place.

SELL REMBRANDT

LONDON (UPI) — A 1661 Rembrandt painting, "An Apostle Reading," was sold at auction Wednesday to an anonymous buyer for $470,400. It was part of a massive sale of old masters that brought a total of $1,965,000 at Sotheby's auction house.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — There is tangible evidence here that some of our NATO allies are upset about the development of a tough Johnson - Rusk policy in Southeast Asia.

It appears that these are allies with the parochial view that the real Communist menace is confined to the European part of the world. So there is either tepid support, or no support at all, for a U.S. stand which involves commitment of our own armed forces if necessary to prevent a Red takeover in Southeast Asia.

This sort of reaction from our allies is reported to be somewhat disturbing to our policymakers. They are willing to embark on a go-it-alone policy and take on Red China on that calculated - risk basis. But at the same time they would like the strong moral backing at least of the rest of the free world in the present exercise in brinkmanship.

Why it ever was expected when the chips were down in another part of the world besides Europe, our ever - loving allies would rally around us.

These are the same allies that started to look for a neutral corner during the dangerous days of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when a nuclear war with Russia was a real threat.

By and large the same allies have been willing since then to trade with Castro's Cuba, undermining our economic embargo policy.

What is even more discouraging about their present reaction to our new Asiatic stance is that our effort to bring them into line has been aimed at convincing them that the Communist menace is global.

ALLIES SEE CHINA AS A WORLD APART

On the basis of the record for the last 20 years, this should have been apparent. Yet the explanations here for the reluctance of our "friends" to display vital interest in what happens in Southeast Asia go like this:

—They insist on believing that the vital Red menace is the one located in Moscow and pertains to their own "neighborhood." What Red China does is in a world apart.

—Despite the global repercussions of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, they still have to be educated to the fact the free world everywhere faces the same opponent (Communism) and the same issue (subversion.)

There are, incidentally, certain interesting apologies for the way some of our allies specifically are behaving. Britain, for example, is supposed to have so many military commitments elsewhere that we can hardly expect any real assistance from that quarter in the Far East. She has most exacting commitments, in Cyprus, Malaysia, Africa and the Middle East.

France is also in a difficult position, having just ended all her old colonial responsibilities. Further complicating the problem is de Gaulle's neutralist policy for Southeast Asia, which prevents France from giving support to us in the area.

Germany? Well, she has big commitments to NATO. Belgium? This country never had any trade or other ties with Asia, so why should she be expected to go along with us?

But it should be noted that it is not such excuses that disturb Washington as much as another aspect of allied behavior. This pertains to the dealings with the Peking government of Red China.

FRENCH RECOGNITION OF PEKING NO HELP

The recent recognition of Peking by France has made more difficult the U.S. effort to convince Red China that unless it leaves its neighbors to the south alone there could be a war in the Pacific.

The French action led to West German feelers aimed toward diplomatic recognition also in hopes of more trade.

And, of course, the British, who have had an envoy in Peking all along, have always criticized our two - China policy.

This country's major concern right now, therefore, is what is in the mind of the Peking government as it considers the virtual ultimatum to halt further aggression in Laos and Viet Nam.

Would Peking, for example, make the error of deciding the risk worth taking because the free world appears divided? Wouldn't the U.S. have to act alone if it dared act in a showdown. Wouldn't France, Britain and West Germany put the pressure on Washington to compromise?

Peking's intentions certainly cannot be fathomed here at the moment. There is a tendency, however, to be ready for the worst. This is on the basis that Red China may have become convinced that its Communist doctrinaire policy of military and subversive aggression has paid dividends in the past in Asia and is not to be cast aside, especially because to do so would be to surrender to the new Moscow line of "peaceful coexistence."

THE TAX IS COMING—People are buying cigarettes by the case instead of the carton in Colorado Springs these days and when they can't get the cases, they carry 'em out this way. The reason. Next Wednesday the new state cigarette tax goes into effect. Smokers will then be paying three cents more per pack, or 30 cents more per carton for the pleasure of watching their tensions go up in smoke. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Petitions Out for Ballot Proposal Shifting Some Property Tax to Sales

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

(This is the first of a four-part series on the proposed sales tax increased in Colorado — Ed.)

Colorado citizens are likely to be asked this fall to vote on a proposal that would shift part of the tax burden from property owners to consumers.

The proposal includes a one-cent hike in the state sales tax.

The suggested change in the tax burden is in the form of a proposed amendment to the Colorado Constitution, and would go into effect on Jan. 1, 1965, if it gets on the balolt this fall and in turn is approved by the voters in the general election on Nov. 3.

The proposed amendment would:

— Increase the state sales tax by one per cent (one cent on the dollar), thus making the total sales tax three per cent.

— Earmark half of the money raised to help with the payment by cities and towns, and counties of bonded indebtedness and interest that now is being paid by taxes on property.

— Leave the field of sales and use taxes almost wide open for cities and towns and counties, subject only to the approval of electors within the city, town or county.

— Strictly limit the control that local governing bodies have over property taxes by setting limitations on such taxes and requiring either unanimous vote of governing bodies of a majority vote of the property owners affected to go above the limits.

The proposal, which would amend Article X of the state constitution, is being circulated now in the form of petition.

It was introduced into the state assembly, the House of Representatives, but failed to get approval there. Thus it is in the form of an initiated amendment instead of a referred one.

To put a proposed amendment on balmlot this fall, the law requires petitions bearing a total of 46,225 valid signatures. Deadline for filing those petitions with the secretary of state is July 3.

The prime backer of move is the Colorado Council, with headquarters at 1626 California St., Denver. It is a non-profit corporation formed by many government, business and civic organizations to support the dual idea of a sale tax boost and a tight control and limit on local property taxes.

Joseph F. Little, Denver attorney who is a member of the executive committee of the council, said that a total of 5,400 petitions have been distributed sincce the drive for signatures got under way on June 10.

Earlier this week, it was estimated that about 25,000 signatures had been collected so far. As a rule, no petitions ever bears 100 per cent legal signatures. The backers of the plan know this, and so they are pushing hard to get another 25,000 or more signatures.

If you want to sign such a petition, you can find one in any Realtor office in the state, according to the Colorado Board of Realtors, one of the backers of the idea.

It has been estimated by the committee backing the proposal that a one-cent sales tax would bring in about $330 million a year.

Among the organizations supporting the proposed amendment:

Colorado Municipal League.
Downtown Denver Improvement Association.
The Colorado State Chamber of Commerce.
Denver Retail Merchants Association.
Manufacturers Association of Colorado.
Colorado County Commissioners Association.
Colorado Association of Real Estate Boards.
Colorado Farm Bureau.
Colorado Cattlemen's Association.
Denver Hotel Association.
Colorado Association of Building Owners and managers.
The Colorado Visitors Bureau.
Denver Chamber of Commerce.
Savings and Loan League of Colorado.

Males of 22 Prime Target For Females From 18 to 29

More men buy marriage licenses in El Paso County at the age of 22, if 180 licenses sold in consecutive order can be termed an average grouping.

The most popular age for women is 18, with age 21 ranking a close second.

To arrive at these figures, the records for 180 marriage licenses sold at the office of the El Paso County Clerk and Recorder were checked closely. Of the 180 licenses sold — which figure was only a portion of the total, this being June — 35 men of age 22 bough marriage licenses and 32 women of the age of 18 took this major step.

In only six cases out of the 180 did a woman of 18 and a man of 22 have their names on the marriage license.

Most of the 22-year-old men announced their intentions to wed 20, 21 and 22-year-old women, although some agreed to take 24 and 25-year-old wives, and in one case the woman was 29.

The 18-year-old women, on the other hand, selected their future husbands from the 18, 19, 20 and 21 age group, with the majority of the husbands-to-be being either 20 or 21.

In the group of licenses checked, 29 of the men were age 21; 21 were of age 20, 18 were of the age 23, 17 were of age 24.

On the female side, 27 were of the age 21; 24 were 20 years old; 22 were of the age 22, 12 were 19 years old, 16 were 17 years of age, and 5 were only 16.

Surprisingly enough, 25 of the 180 marriage licenses studied were sold to couples in which the woman was the older. The difference in ages ran from one year to as many as 16 years in the case of a woman of 48 who bought a license with a man of age 32.

For the most part, the women who married younger men were in their 30's and 40's, but certainly not all of them. In fact, there were seven cases in which the women were 22 and the men 21.

In 24 cases both the man and the woman were the same age. Most of these were in the 17 through 22 age group.

One girl was 15 and her future husband was 25.

The youngest male to buy a license was 17. There were three of that age and all three of them bought licenses with girls who were also 17.

New Rules for Furniture Buying Are Disclosed

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise

The Federal Government this year took steps where the furniture industry angels wouldn't tread.

The Federal Trade Commission came to the aid of the consumer with a hard set of trade practice rules.

You the consumer are not to be misled, the FTC said, by being told that an item is of sold mahongany, when it is a mahogany veneer or that a piece of maple is maple when it is truly birch. The rules also insist an import actually be an import. The salesman cannot toss around "Danish," if the furniture does not come from Denmark. Here are 20 questions to consider when shopping for furniture:

1. What style, shape and size furniture do you want? How much room space do you have?

2. Is your furniture budget limited? If it is, by dual-purpose items — chests or cabinets that double for dining and folding chairs and tables to move from room to room.

3. If you buy "on sale" items, is the sale final or can you get a refund or an exchange?

4. What is the expected delivery time? Did you check the condition of the furniture before the deliveryman left?

5. Will you want "special order merchandise"? The price is a base figure for the muslin-covered upholstered item, for example. Fabric covering and other changes are extra.

6. If the hardware is not genuine brass, is it tarnishproof or of an attractive ceramic or wood?

7. Do chests and table tops have a stain, heat and burn-resistant finish?

8. Is the wood finish of oil, lacquer or varnish? How much care will each finish need?

9. Is the chest interior finished smoothly? Is there a dust panel between the drawers?

10. Do drawers slide easily? Are there drawer stops on the underside and center guides or a rail to hold them in line?

11. Are the posts, legs and stretchers of a chair or table secured with dowel or mortise-and-tenon joint and glued in place? Are corner blocks glued and screwed?

13. Are occasional chairs smoothly finished underneath and are the seats comfortable? Do they set steady on a bare floor?

13. Does the finish of the leaves match the wood of the table and do they fit smoothly?

14. Is the table stable? Lean on it. It should be well-jointed and braced.

15. Are the table top, legs and chair upholstery easy to clean? Is the upholstery firmly stitched and secured to the chair frame?

16. Is upholstery webbing wide, close together, laced well across the base and secured to the frame? Is the dust cover a heavy fabric, tacked securely and fitted around the legs?

17. Does the frame for an upholstered piece have sturdy corner blocks to reinforce joints? Feel underneath through the dust cover for imperfections. Is the frame a hardwood such as oak?

18. In a kitchen dining set, is the vinyl upholstery fabric-backed for longer wear and resistance to tearing? Will the finish resist rust and chipping?

19. If the furniture is steel, is it smooth and finished where it has been welded? Will the leg tips cut the floor or carpet or are they protected?

20. Are lamps in proportion to the furniture, the room size and ceiling height?

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Selected gains by industrials and rails helped lead the stock market into higher ground early this afternoon. The pace of trading was the most active this week.

A good deal of activity involved American Telephone's new split stock which advanced more than a point following its 1¼ rise Wednesday as the most active stock.

Chrysler was in brisk demand and a fraction higher but General Motors slipped a full point.

Cigarette issues continued soft.

Steels turned mixed after an early rise. Chemicals, airlines and utilities were mostly higher. Building materials and retails tended to decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 310.6 with industrials up 1, rails up .8 and utilities up .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.07 at 828.06.

Texas Gulf Sulphur perked up, gaining about a point. Korvette was an active fractional gainer. Lukens Steel was heavily traded and down more than a point.

Gains of a point or so were scored by Du Pont, Air Reduction, American Airlines, IBM and Polaroid.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregularly lower. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to a shade higher.

British Won't Guarantee Deal With Indonesia

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Buses for Fidel Castro's Cuba —si. Trucks for President Sukarno's Indonesia—no.

That's the reaction of the British government to requests from two firms that it guarantee they'll get their money for sales to Cuba and Indonesia.

Leyland Motors on Sunday will ship the first part of an order of 950 single-decker buses to the Castro regime. The Cubans have an option to buy 1,500 in all.

Vauxhall Motors has signed a contract to deliver 1,000 truck chassis to the Indonesians at a cost of about $3 million.

The Export Credit Guarantee Department, an autonomous government agency, has underwritten the value of the whole Leyland order, which will run to about $42 million if all 1,500 buses are bought. This means that if Castro reneges on his payments, the agency will pay Leyland.

But government authorities report the agency is refusing to insure Vauxhall's deal with Indonesia. This means the order will be canceled unless Vauxhall can find other backers.

Neither buses nor trucks are classified as strategic goods. When the U.S. government complained about the bus deal with Red Cuba, the British said they had no power to cancel an ordinary commercial transaction.

Yet the government is blocking the deal with neutralist Indonesia on the ground of national interest. And this despite the fact that the export credit agency last August insured the sale of 1,000 Dodge trucks to Indonesia.

Economic factors predominate in these assessments of a buying country's credit - worthiness, but political and strategic considerations also play a part.

Cuba is considered a good commercial risk but Indonesia isn't.

With her sugar and tobacco exports, Cuba has long been selling more to Britain than she buys. She has rarely, if ever, fallen down on payments.

The economic outlook for Indonesia has been getting progressively bleaker with Sukarno's undeclared war on the Federation of Malaysia, a commonwealth member which Britain is treaty - bound to defend. Indonesian trade outlets through Singapore have closed. Defense spending has soared.

Cuba may be a threat of sorts to the United States, but Britain does not think Castro actually menaces her interests.

But Indonesia is fighting against Malaysian and British troops. The Indonesians are considered aggressors in London.

Ampex Offer Two Lines of Home Stereo Units

Ampex Corp., now constructing a plant in Rustic Hills Industrial Park, will expand its operations in the consumer tape recording field with the introduction of two lines of home stereo units in the medium-price range.

John N. Latter, Ampex vice president and general manager of the consumer division, said in Chicago the two lines will start at $350. Ampex introduced professional quality tape recorders in 1948 and is the major producer of audio and videotape television recorders used in broadcasting and master recording.

Speaking here at a ground breaking luncheon for the new plant in April, William E. Roberts, president and chief executive officer said Ampex was "moving into the home entertainment field" and had constructed a plant in Chicago to manufacture these products.

Latter estimated the 1964 U.S. retail market for home recorders at more than $90 million. In the past, Ampex recorders have had less than 4 per cent of this market. Latter predicted the home recorder market would rise to $160 million in the United States by 1967.

Ampex, whose main plant and offices are in Redwood City, Calif., also makes stereophonic home music systems and magnetic memory cores and tapes for computers.

French Canadian Demonstration Reported Fizzle

MONTREAL (AP) — Threats of separatist agitation fizzled Wednesday night as half a million French Canadians celebrated St. Jean Baptiste (St. Joan the Baptist) Day in an orderly, six-mile torchlight parade.

Two men and a girl were hauled off by police after they unfurled signs calling for the independence of Quebec from the rest of Canada. But there were no other incidents.

The holiday honors the patron saint of French Canada.

Government Says Average Family 'Doing Better'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — How is the average family making out in the long business upswing? The Department of Commerce says a lot better than just a few years back. But you can start a lot of arguments with that.

For one thing, it's hard to find a family that considers itself average. For another, if the family does admit to the label, it doesn't think the figures the department publishes fit it. Finally, even the statisticians have a lot of ways figuring how the average family is doing.

For instance, the department says that the average American family income before federal income tax was $7,510 in 1963. But the midpoint of income distribution — that is, the point where as many were getting more as were getting less—was $6,140. However, $5,210 was the amount that was more frequently received than any other.

Regional living conditions make a big difference, too, in deciding how the average family income fits today's problems and standards.

Subtract taxes and the amounts the department cites are a lot lower. And they go down sharply if you figure incomes in terms of the purchasing power of the dollar from such a base as 1929 or 1947.

Still, the department says the average family is doing better than in 1929, any way you look at it. Also it's doing better than in 1947, if you prefer a postwar base for comparison.

Studying the welter of figures, the Cleveland Trust Co. says that the average before-tax income has gone up 73 per cent since 1947. Allowing for the rise in the cost of living since then, the bank figures that the real purchasing power of the average family income before taxes has advanced 36.5 per cent.

The percentage of families with before-tax income of $10,000 and more has increased from 9 per cent in 1947 to 21 per cent in 1963.

In contrast, families with incomes less than $4,000 have declined from 44 per cent of the total in 1947 to 29 per cent in 1963.

Who made the orange more tempting than the apple?

JULIE LONDON, STAR OF STAGE, SCREEN AND TELEVISION

Smirnoff did it—with the famous Smirnoff Screwdriver, America's most popular vodka drink. It not only looks like orange juice, it tastes like orange juice. That's because crystal clear Smirnoff, filtered through tons of activated charcoal, blends so perfectly with fruit juice and soft drinks. Just pour a jigger of Smirnoff over ice cubes, fill glass with orange juice and stir. Tempting? It's downright irresistible!

It leaves you breathless®

Always ask for Smirnoff VODKA

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

ARMY CHIEF: Passing over 43 senior generals, President Johnson has named Lt. Gen. Hold K. Johnson, a veteran of the Bataan death march and of battles with the Red Chinese in Korea, as the Army's new chief of staff.

As the vice chief of staff, the President picked Lt. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, 49, who served with Gen. George Patton's 4th Armored Division in World War II.

Abrams also was well down on the seniority list — 34th among the lieutenant generals.

The shifts in the army command came about because the present chief of staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, is being promoted to chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, replacing Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, named ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Abrams, commander of the Fifth Army Corps in Germany, replaces retiring Gen. Barksdale Hamlett.

In nominating Johnson, 52, and Abrams for their new posts the President asked the Senate to consent to their promotions to full general.

CIVIL RIGHTS: House leaders have worked out an agreement that should bring passage of the civil rights bill next week—and may mean Republicans will get the two-week convention recess they have demanded.

After a series of meetings Wednesday, Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., consented to call a committee meeting Tuesday to clear the way for House action on the bill.

Smith, a strong foe of the civil rights measure, said he called the meeting only because "a majority of the members of the committee will, under the rules of the House, convene the committee unless the chairman does so."

Smith said he expected the committee to hold a hearing on the Senate changes in the bill and act on it all in the same day.

SPACE FUNDS: The Senate defeated Wednesday a last-minute effort to reduce by 10 per cent the $2.67 billion "apollo Project" for putting a man on the moon by 1970.

Then the Senate approved 78 to 3 a new authorization of $5,246,293,250 for the over-all program of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The measure now returns to the House.

DENIED REPORT: The Warren commission described as unfounded Wednesday reports it is about to publish its findings in the investigation of John F. Kennedy's assassination.

"The commission has learned of published reports to the effect that the report of the commission will be published within the next few days," the commission said in a statement. "The commission wishes to announce that these reports are unfounded."

It gave no indication when the report would be made public.

SLAVE'S HOME: Honor will be paid today to the memory of a former Negro slave, Frederick Douglass, when the National Park Service takes over custody of his home here.

Douglass, born in slavery in 1817 in the Eastern Shore area of Maryland, became a spokesman for his race in the 19th century.

The 14-room home, Cedar Hill, where he lived for 17 years before his death in 1895 will be deeded to the National Park Service in ceremonies this afternoon.

Segregationist Plan In L.A. Faces Block

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Letters addressed "Dear Patriot" have invited Southern Californians to attend a meeting at a Los Angeles hotel Tuesday to organize a California Citizens Council.

But the plan met trouble when the hotel — The Ambassador — learned the council was to be a branch of the segregationist Citizens Council movement.

Fred Hayman, manager of the hotel, said he was canceling the reservation.

The main speaker at the Tuesday meeting was to be W. J. Simmons, of Jackson, Miss., administrator of the Citizens Councils of America. The letters of invitation were signed Kent H. Steffgen, "temporary chairman."

Steffgen couldn't be reached for comment on the hotel's action.

NAACP Blasted By Other Groups Over Teen Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Wilkins' denunciation of Negro teen-agers involved in a rash of violent incidents in New York as "punks" and "Harlem and Brooklyn Morons" has drawn fire from other Negro civil rights leaders.

Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in a recent column in New York's Negro weekly, the Amsterdam News, wrote that "the Negro punks have smeared their race, but good."

He charged they were "undercutting gains made by hundreds of Negro and white youngsters who went to jail for human rights."

Wilkins also criticized Negroes who "offer the same old threadbare excuses to cover up pure, unadulterated, vicious crime."

Richard Henry, president of Detroit's Group on Advanced Leadership, referred Wednesday to Wilkins' remarks as "intemperate, ignorant and unfortunate."

Charles Stone, editor of the Chicago Denfender, a Negro daily, called the remarks "typical Wilkins vitriol" showing "an immaturity which is characteristic of his entire administration of the NAACP."

Stone said Negro gains also are undercut by such crimes as "bombing a church in Birmingham or killing civil rights workers." He added: "When Wilkins singles out this particular phase he is showing an inverse racial prejudice. He is trying to say, 'I hate crime more than you white people do.'"

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said he also deplored violence. "But I think it is important for all America to see there are not double standards used in judging these young men.

"We should condemn white hoodlums just as much as we do Negroes. The press has a responsibility not to identify criminals by race whether they are white or Negro."

In New York, Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, referred to his recent joint statement with Alexander Allen, Urban League director in New York. The statement said: "Our call for community action is not to make the ghetto safe for white citizens alone, but to make all of New York City safe for all its citizens. There has always been crime and rioting, especially wherever full citizenship, liberty and opportunity were denied."

Denver Youth Admits Slaying Of Old Woman

DENVER (AP) — A 16-year-old schoolboy walked to police headquarters Tuesday night and admitted, police said, a brutal slaying unsolved for 15 months.

"My conscience bothered me," Kelly Charles Smith was quoted as saying.

Detective Jack Groginsky said the youth admitted orally that he beat to death Mrs. Dola Tufford, 79, in the living room of her home in late March 1963.

As Police Capt. Glen Archer was getting into his car in front of the downtown Denver police station Tuesday night, he said young Smith approached and asked, "Mister, are you a policeman? I want to confess to a murder."

The boy said Mrs. Tufford, a neighbor woman whom he had known all his life, spotted him trying to steal a car in the alley behind her home.

Groginsky quoted the boy as saying, "She yelled she was gonna call police."

Smith was quoted as saying he saw a rock "and I kept hitting her and hitting her."

Choir Director Admits Setting Fire to Church

BLUFF, Utah (AP)—Sheriff's deputies say a volunteer choir director has admitted setting fires that destroyed an Indian mission chapel in this remote southeastern Utah town in hopes of getting new mission facilities.

"He said maybe they'd build a new mission if the old one came down," said Sheriff Ray S. Cahoon.

Charged Wednesday with second degree arson was Donald L. Marshall, 24, a religion instructor and choir director at St. Christopher's Episcopal Mission.

PEST TRIUMPHS — Alfalfa weevil, above, new in Illinois this year, has spread to 10 of the state's southern counties. Infestation is extremely difficult to fight.

Movie About Surfers Proves Great Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Bruce Brown, the man who produced "Slippery When Wet," "Barefoot Adventure" and "Waterlogged," presented the world premiere of his latest film "The Endless Summer" this week.

Haven't heard of Bruce Brown or any of those films? You must be an earthbound square, man. Any hotdogger (surfing bug) knows that Bruce Brown is to surfing what John Ford is to Westerns, what Michaelangelo was to ceiling painters.

"The Endless Summer" has sold out four nights this week at the Encore Theater where audiences of tanned, taffy-haired young people and a few elderly types have gasped and cheered at surfers skidding down Matterhorn-like waves on foam-and-fibre glass boards. It is the sixth annual film of Brown, who went around the world to shoot two young surfers in Senegal, Ghana and other places that had never seen a surfboard.

Brown, 26, and blond, has been riding the crest of the surfing craze that has become a religion for thousands of California teenagers. Through surfing music and magazines the fad has spread to other parts of the country.

"The surfboard companies are getting lots of orders from the Midwest," Brown reported. "The sport of riding the wakes of speedboats is catching on. But some people buy the boards to float in swimming pools, or just for show. I once saw a sports car that had a board bolted on the top — obviously a status symbol."

Brown intends to spread the surfing gospel eastward. He leaves on Monday with a crew of champion surfers to show "The Endless Summer" and ride the waves of New York, New Jersey, Virginia and Florida.

"The sport is catching on more and more in the East," he commented.

Brown operates his one-man film industry from his office at Dana Point, 50 miles south, in the heart of the high-wave district. He is his own cameraman and cutter and narrates the action in 100-150 one-night stands per year.

He makes frequent trips to Australia, which is the second most enthusiastic surfing country. Others are France, South Africa, New Zealand and Peru. His films also are shown with a recorded narration, and each can gross as high as $200,000.

Soviet Empire Shown In Photograph Display

OSLO, Norway (AP)—An exhibition of photographs called "The Soviet Empire from 1917 until Today" is showing in Oslo.

But the exhibit, assembled by the refugee organization "Assembly of Captive European Nations," will cose Sunday, the day before Soviet Premier Khrushchev arrives. It is being shown in a building next door to the "Artists House" in which a Soviet - Norwegian historical exhibit will be shown during Khrushchev's visit.

The photographic exhibit has been shown in the United States and Italy. It is sponsored in Oslo by two conservative newsmen and a youth committee opposing Khrushchev's visit.

RED RIPE ORANGE

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—First-time visitors to Sicily are often surprised when they order orange juice and get a glass of something which looks like tomato juice instead. But it isn't tomato. It's the Sanguinello orange Sicilians prefer above all others.

The Sanguinello looks like an ordinary orange on the outside, with only the faintest blush of red, but inside it is extra juicy, extra tasty and red as a ripe tomato.

Operating Auto Take Big Bite Out of Budgets

By AILEEN SNODDY
Sharp Shopping Columnist

Owning and operating an auto takes a big bite out of the family budget. For non-home owners it is the largest purchase of their lifetime. With car owners trading constantly for new and used cars, it is a continuing expense.

Often the monthly payments for a car dictate what else a family can do or have. This is true especially for those in the $4,000-to-$5,000 annual income group (the largest number of households in the United States). Of this group, 85 per cent own at least one car and 17 per cent own two or more.

Here are 20 major points to consider in car shopping:

1. Can you afford to make a down payment (including trade-in) of at least 1-3 of the total price?

2. Did you select a car within your budget? Consider original cost, upkeep, license, insurance, repairs, oil, gas, necessary repairs if a used car.

3. Can you hold the payments to two years? Do the monthly payments add up to the total quoted for a new or used car plus only the legal finance charges?

4. Did you investigate auto loans with an auto dealer, finance company, credit union, bank or insurance company for the lowest financing costs? Did you ask for both percentage and dollars and cents figures from all?

5. Does the contract detail make, model, serial number of finance charges? Are all spaces on the contract filled in and did you receive a copy before leaving the showroom or lot? Is the total the same as the price quoted by the dealer?

6. Is the car new, reconditioned, a demonstrator, a former taxi, repossessed? Did the dealer spell out conditions for each in the contract?

7. If you make a deposit, will it be refunded if the contract is refused by a finance company or the dealer?

8. Are the suggested prices for the car and accessories listed? Are servicing and transportation costs listed? Did you compare all these with competitive firms around town?

9. Do the dealer's ads exaggerate and did he try to sell you another car and not the one he advertised? If so, shop elsewhere.

10. On a used car do the upholstery, front floor boards, foot pedals show excessive wear or are they spanking new? Both conditions may mean poor care and high mileage.

11. If a private owner, does he have clear title to the car?

12. Are the tires the originals or of many makes and at varied stages of wear? These are better indications of mileage than most speedometers.

13. Do the wheels brake evenly? Is there too much play in the steering wheel? Are the wheels properly aligned?

14. Did you drive the car, check motor sounds, transmission, brakes, acceleration, idling?

15. How was the car used?

16. Did you check for ripples in the body, along the doors and near the roof line? If present, the car may have been in a major wreck.

17. Before closing a deal, did you have your mechanic go over the car?

18. Did you check for possible lower insurance rates on compact cars?

19. If you are a single male under 25, can you get an insurance discount based on safe driving record?

10. If your car is worth less than $250, do you need collision insurance?

Boost Expected In Buying of Houseware

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise

We all have more money each week this year because of the income tax cut.

If we follow the old economic rule that the more money you have the more you spend, this year should be a good one for makers of small appliances and housewares. Manufacturers currently turn out 166 electrical appliances. Most are in the "small category.

The iron, coffeemaker, fry pan and toaster have become as important to our daily routine as the butter churn was to great-grandmother. Added to these are such things as knife sharpeners, ice crushers, hair dryers and electric slicers. Just as great-grandmother demanded wear and performance from her "appliances," today's homemaker wants serviceability coupled with good design. Here are 20 points to consider when shopping for appliances and housewears:

1. is there an over-the-counter warranty for replacement for all small appliances made by a company or only for specific appliances? How long is a warranty or guarantee in effect?

2. Does the vacuum cleaner come with the right attachments for your specific cleaning needs? Is it maneuverable, with long cord, suction regulator and attachments easy to assemble and disassemble?

3. Does an upright vacuum cleaner have a good three-way cleaning action (agitating, brushing and suction) for the best rug or carpet care?

4. Is an iron the right weight for you? If a steam iron, does it have at least 12 to 19 holes, well-positioned to spread steam evenly?

5. Is the tank capacity of the iron at least 7 ounces to cut down on constant refilling?

6. Is there a fabric-heat setting and if a steam iron, is it convenient to fill? Can you use tap water?

7. In fry pans, is there a temperature guide and a removable control for easy washing?

8. Is the fry pan treated to cut down on sticking of food?

9. Are the slots of a toaster large enough to take muffins, over-sized bread slices?

10. In a blender, does capacity mean "to the brim" or is it at a realistic level?

11. Does the blender have a two-piece cap and removable base that does not chip?

12. Is the speed of the motor adequate to handle heaviest consistency?

13. Is a mixer being sold as a stand mixer when it is really a hand mixer?

14. In mixers, is there a detachable cord or one that stores in the machine? Is the handle best for you and is the beater ejector conveniently placed?

15. In an electric coffeemaker, is there a strength control, a coffee level indicator, a warning element?

16. What is the true cup capacity? Is it figured on a four or five-ounce cup?

17. If the coffeemaker is stainless steel, are the pump and basket stainless steel, too?

18. Is the cookware easy to clean and relatively stain resistant? Is it designed for serving?

19. Will the handles be cool to touch and are they secure?

20. Are the pots and pans well-balanced? Do the covers fit tightly?

It has been estimated that Americans spend $35 million a week for daily newspapers.

PLAYING AIRPLANES — Britain is playing with model airplanes, but with a method to its madness. Linens Are Long Term Investment For Housewives

By AILEEN SNODDY
Sharp Shopping Columnist

The feminine attitude toward linens hasn't changed since the young bride-to-be and her relatives spent months, even years, sewing her linen trousseau.

The change is in how the 20th century woman acquires essential bed, bath and kitchen linens. Now she buys them. Since they are such a part of daily living, linens are taken for granted. But they are a long term investment.

Getting the most for your money when shopping for linens is easier when you look for specific quality features. Here are 20 questions to help you build a serviceable linen closet:

1. Is there a thread count on the towel or sheet label? The higher the count the better.

2. Do some sheets feel lighter when lifted than others? Lighter weight means a finer grade of sheeting.

3. Do snags or loose threads show in sheets and pillow cases when you hold them up to the light? Check for an even texture in the weave.

4. Are the hem wide, with close, even stitching and nicely finished corners?

5. Are the sheets large enough to fit your beds? Sheets too small wear out faster and don't protect the blanket or mattress.

6. Are the corners smooth on towels when you hold them up? A well-woven towel shows even specks of light. In an uneven weave, the light is spotty.

8. Does the towel feel soft to the touch and have fine, close looping, a tight underweave and sturdy selvages finished edges?

9. Is the towel heavy but loosely woven? Look for a tight weave before you look for weight.

10. Are the dish cloths knitted with a lock knit construction to prevent unraveling? Do the dish towels have well-stitched ends?

11. Are the dish towels soft, flexible and relatively lint-free?

12. Are the tablecloth hems neatly and closely stitched and the corners mitered? Is the weave close?

13. Is the nap of a blanket deep or does it pill or shed when you rub your hand over it?

14. Are the blanket bindings securely sewn?

5. If the blanket is unbound, is it hemmed or are the ends sewn firmly with overlocking stitches?

6. Are the blankets shrink-resistant and mothproofed and of a fiber with low flammability such as wool or acrylic?

17. Did the filling of a comforter or quilt shift when you shook it? (It shouldn't.) Is the cover closely woven, edges well bound and will the material fade

18. Did you test for excess sizing, a special starch, to disguise inferior goods? Strike a sheet, dishcloth or tablecloth against a hard surface or rub a part of it together. Powdering shows excess sizing.

19. Are you interested in seconds or irregular? These can be good buys if the flaws are not in the area of greatest wear such as the center.

20. Do you take your linens to the laundry? Buy lighter weight, finer grade items to cut down on the per pound cost.

Woman Atheist Says She Fled For Her Life

HONOLULU (AP) — Atheist Madalyn Murray's family has moved into a temporary home in Honolulu after receiving various offers of shelter—including one from a church.

The Rev. Delwyn Rayson, a Congregationalist minister, said he hoped the embattled Maryland atheist "finds peace and happiness in Hawaii."

The Unitarian Church said it would offer the Murray family refuge.

Mrs. Murray, her mother, Bonna Mays; her brother, John D. Mays Jr.; sons Garth, 9, and Bill, 18; and Bills bride, the former Susan Abramovitz, 17, arrived in Hawaii under assumed names Tuesday.

The family fled Baltimore after a fracas there with police and went to Hawaii seeking religious asylum.

Mrs. Murray, 45, a divorcee, won a court suit last year that brought a Supreme Court ban on compulsory prayers in the nation's schools.

The family settled into a temporary home Wednesday but kept the address secret.

When Mrs. Murray learned that Hawaii's governor, John A. Burns, is a Roman Catholic she exclaimed:

"Oh, no. That's all I need." She accuses the Roman Catholics of leading the fight against her.

Governor Burns, however, said Mrs. Murray may live in Hawaii indefinitely, unless she has violated Maryland laws requiring her extradition.

Several members of the family are charged with assaulting Baltimore police. But Maryland's attorney general, Thom-A SB. Finan, visiting in Hawaii, commented Mrs. Murray "is not worth extraditing back to Maryland."

As he left the islands Finan added: "Hawaii is too nice a place to have her inflicted upon it."

The family's hasty Baltimore departure sprang from trouble with the police following the marriage of Bill Murray to Susan Abramovitz, 17. Susan's parents accused Mrs. Murray of inducing Susan to abandon her Jewish faith.

When police served a court contempt citation on the bride, accusing her of violating a judicial order to stay away from the Murrays, a melee broke out.

Mrs. Murray said she left Baltimore with her family Tuesday because "we are fleeing for our lives."

Premier Says Crisis In Italy Is Fading

ROME (AP)—Premier Aldo Moro said Wednesday night that Italy's economic crisis is gradually being overcome. But he warned against "easy optimism" and cautioned that "the period of austerity" is not over.

The premier told the Chamber of Deputies that the balance of payments was in the black at the end of April for the first time since September, 1962.

Nikita Is Undermining U.S. Position in World

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — While the United States builds "bridges" of trade and friendship to Romania and other Red countries, Nikita Khrushchev is undermining America's international position.

By now it should be clear even to President Johnson's most optimistic experts that the Russians do not really want a settlement in Viet Nam and Laos despite their lip service to neutrality.

Khrushchev, as usual, wants to kill two diplomatic birds with one stone. As long as the United States is embroiled with his Red Chinese rival Mao Tse-tung in Southeast Asia, the Soviet Premier has a free hand in Europe. His great ambition in Europe, of course, is to destroy NATO.

This is old Russian strategy. It was practiced by the Russian Czars in the 19th century when Britain was the leading Western nation. A Russian diplomat wrote 75 years ago:

"The weaker England is in Asia, the more she will be conciliatory in Europe."

Moscow's rulers employ the same strategy against today's leading Western nation.

Immediately after his triumphant tour of Egypt, where he castigated the United States, Khrushchev met in Moscow with Harold Wilson, leader of the British Labor Party. Wilson is likely to be Britain's next prime minister. He has long advocated "disengagement" in Eastern Europe which would in effect mean a neutral West Germany. In this, he sees eye-to-eye with Khrushchev.

Now the Soviet Premier is carrying his anti-American and anti - NATO campaign to the Scandinavian countries. He obviously aims to convince the Scandinavians that they should deny their territory to NATO's nuclear defense.

Although only Denmark and Norway are NATO members, all Scandinavian countries have influential groups which are violently anti - American and anti-NATO. In their view, it is "better to be Red than dead." Many Scandinavians will thus listen eagerly to Khrushchev's vow to keep Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland out of the cold war as a "nuclear free zone."

It is in West Germany, the key continental NATO country, that Khrushchev hopes to gain his greatest diplomatic victory, while America confronts Red China in Asia.

The Soviet Premier is aware that the West Germans are disturbed by the secret negotiations between the United States and Russia. This is the real reason why Bonn's Chancellor Ludwig Erhard came to see President Johnson twice within six months. The Germans suspect that the United States, encourmany must quit NATO and deal with Moscow at the expense of German unity.

Khrushchev deliberately feeds these suspicions through his diplomats and agents. Thus, an increasing number of influential West German politicians urge Chancellor Erhard to ignore the United States and NATO and deal directly with Russia.

Erhard should "go on his knees to Moscow," said Walter Scheel, West German minister of development and aid. He made the statement at the recent national convention of the Free Democratic Party which holds the balance of power in the West German parliament.

Elder statesman Thomas Dehler said bluntly that West Germany must quit NATO and dea directly with Moscow to win German reunification.

Since French President de Gaulle is already working against NATO, the defection of the Germans could be a death blow to the Western alliance and to the United States policies in Europe.

This is the stake for which Nikita Khrushchev is gambling while the United States builds economic "bridges" to Russia and her satellites.

Racial Barriers Fall in Prince Edward County

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP)—One of the last barriers has been cleared away for reopening public schools in Prince Edward County, closed five years ago to avoid desegregation.

The County Board of Supervisors, acting under a federal court ordered voted 4-2 Tuesday to appropriate school operating funds for this fall.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oren R. Lewis, carrying out a mandate from the U.S. Supreme Court, had given the Board of Supervisors until Thursday to act.

The $189,000 county appropriation, plus state funds, will provide classes for about 1,600 pupils — the number of Negro school - age children in Prince Edward.

Public schools will be operated "without racial discrimination," said the board, but most white children are expected to continue classes in the private, segregated schools they have attended since 1959.

The supervisors raised personal and real property taxes from $1 per $100 to $2.50 and doubled the 30 cents per $100 merchants capital tax. Judge Lewis had ordered the supervisors to levy taxes if necessary to raise school funds.

The County School Board had asked for $339,000. The $189,000 is less than a third of the $739,000 in state and county funds appropriated for public schools the last year the county operated them.

County School Supt. T. J. McIlwaine, said he did not know if the $189,000 voted by the supervisors would be adequate.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D..Ph.D.

Harv Morgan asks about the other unpleasant medical side effects of smoking, so scrapbook this case. You Scout Leaders and hygiene teachers can put this simplified medical explanation to good use. And so can all you athletic coaches.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-402: Harv Morgan is the dynamic emcee of a 90-minute radio show called "Contact" that runs on KYW at Cleveland.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "you say that heavy smokers lose much of their sense of smell.

"So that's why my wife's pot roast tasted so different last week that I thought she had used an entirely new recipe.

"I didn't realize how much enjoyment of life I was losing because of my addiction to tobacco.

"What other ill effects follow chain smoking?"

TOBACCO EFFECTS

"Tobacco cough" is one. Many women, as well as men, have husky vioces and a moisture vibrato even when they breathe (or snore).

For tobacco smoke produces irritation of the mucous membranes of the throat and windpipe, as well as bronchial tubes.

You housewives know the first effect of irritation, for what happens when you peel onions? Tears result!

Why? Because the irritating volatine oils affect the surface of both eyes and start the production of excessive tears.

Well, that same thing occurs in your throat and lungs! For the irritants in the hot smoke cause more moisture to be secreted all over the lining of those mucous membranes.

Thus, you have what we medics call a mild "wet" lung.

But your terrific bouts of coughing usually occur when you change your position suddenly from the vertical to the horizontal or vice versa.

If you wish a more complete and illustrated medical explanation of this "tobacco cough" problem, go to your library and consult Chapter XXI in the 1964 edition of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

But I'll try to digest it briefly here.

The thicker fluid finally is painted rather uniformly all over your throat and windpipe, after you have been standing for awhile.

But the moment you lie down, gravity starts peeling off that excess liquid.

For in the reclining position, the top surface of your windpipe is horizontal, like the ceiling of the room.

Since it is coated with an extra thickness of mucous, that liquid begins to pull away in drops.

And this gravitational "peeling off" serves to tickle the "ceiling" or top surface of your windpipe.

That is doubly true because the windpipe is lined with cells that have tiny microscopic hairs (called cilia) that sweep dust and soot upwards.

As these drops of mucous thus pull loose from these cilia, they produce coughing until your neighbors may actually wonder if you don't suffer from tuberculosis.

But after 5 to 15 minutes, gravity has caused this "ceiling" to hang down, much like the stalactites in Mammoth Cave.

So the tickle stops and you then may sleep soundly. But the moment you awaken next morning and jump out of bed, those drops of mucous swing back against the vertical sides of your windpipe and again tickle it.

Send for my medical booklet "How to Break the Tobacco and Liquor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to covertyping and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

'SLAVES' DO BIDDING

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Seventh-grade students, dressed in tunics acted as slaves and served a Roman meal to upper-class Latin students of Urbana Junior High School.

Eighth and ninth graders attended the banquet as Roman citizens, the girls wearing stoles and the boys clad in togas. Roman decorations, food and entertainment were featured.

Ambulance Attendants Argue About Patient

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)— Two different ambulance companies were called after a man collapsed Tuesday in a suburban store.

Police said two ambulances arrived simultaneously and each driver grabbed an arm of the patient while they argued about who was going to haul him away.

Then a physican arrived. He told the drivers that neither was needed, because the man didn't have to go to a hospital.

Fill tiny paper or foil cups with whipped cream and freezer store; when sold, wrap appropriately and re-store. They'll be handy to have on hand for many summer desserts.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Meat-and-potato men who scorn salads should take a cue from rabbits, says Dr. W. W. Baer, director of the health education department of the American Medical Association.

"Don't dismiss salads lightly," Baer says. "Look at what such food does for the male rabbit. He's light on his feet, has no paunch and maintains a lively romantic interest."

Big Crow Is Blamed For Starting Blaze

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP) — Fire broke out above the ceiling of a porch at Mrs. J. M. Ragland's rooming house.

Blacky, a big crow that is a neighborhood pet, perched on the roof and watched firemen put out the blaze.

Firemen could find no reasonable cause of the fire, so they arrived at this guess:

Blacky had picked up a lighted cigarette or cigar and dropped it into a crack of the porch roof.

Fess Parker Gets Used To City Ways

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ten years ago, a young Texan without much more to his name than the guitar on his back suddenly found himself famous as Davy Crockett.

His salary for making three one - hour television shows as Davy was $350 per week, to which was added $150 a week for signing away his future rights to the films. In all, he earned about $6,000 as star of one of the greatest succeses in television history.

Fess Parker will be drawing aproximately $6,000 in his first week as Daniel Boone in the new NBC series produced by 20th Century-Fox.

Times have changed — and thank heaven, sighed Fess as he relaxed before this week's start of the hour series. His relaxing grounds are impressive: a rambling, tile-roofed hacienda in the higher reaches of hilly Bel-Air.

His talk may still be backwoodsy, but Fess has cotton to city ways. "We're still working out a couple of items in the contract," he reported. "One of them has to do with merchandising, and it's mighty complicated. But I'm sure we'll find a solution."

That's for darned sure. If "Daniel Boone" succeeds—and there's a lot of important money riding on its chances—its backers foresee a boom in merchandising products with the Boone imprint. All those unsold Crockett coonskin caps will be on the market again.

That brought up the question: Just how different will Boone be from Crockett?

"Not very," Parker confessed. "This show probably wouldn't be going on the air if NBC hadn't broadcast the three Crockett films at the end of last summer. They created such a sensation all over again that a new series was suggested.

"We went to Disney's with the idea, but they weren't interested. Because of contractual matters, they wouldn't sell the rights to the character."

The solution was "Daniel Boone," which is being made with producer Aaron Rosenberg as head man. The hour adventure means plenty of work for Fess.

"But I don't mind work," he said. "I figure I've had a nice 10-year vacation. Now it's time for me to get back to business."

He hasn't really been that idle since the advent of Davy. He made a few features for Disney and some others on the outside. He starred in a television series last season, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which expired after 26 weeks—from malnutrition of the budget, Fess said.

He has also developed a large trailer park in Santa Barbara, where he maintained his residence until "Daniel Boone."

Dulles Claims Europeans Do Not Understand

ROME (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has written an Italian magazine that much of the European press seems to misunderstand his foreign policy views. He said he was substantially the Dwight D. Eisenhower - John Foster Dulles policy.

The Arizona senator, now seeking the Republican nomination for the U.S. presidency, wrote to Lo Specchio, a conservative weekly. It published the letter in its current issue.

"Because so many of the European press seem to misunderstand completely my foreign policy position," Goldwater wrote, "I am enclosing with this letter a copy of an article I did for Life magazine which I believe European editors will find acceptable in that it is substantially the Eisenhower-Dulles policy.

"I want to lay particular stress on the importance I attach to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the necessity for the United States to provide that organization with modern weapons and with a continuing confidence in their purposes."

In his article in Life, Goldwater said America's allies were right to suspect U.S. bilateral talks with the Soviet Union. He cited the limited nuclear test ban treaty and said it was obtained at the expense of France.

He also said all NATO forces of all nationalities should have nuclear weapons.

Cypriot Leader Seeks Union With Greece

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The return of Lt. Gen. George Grivas, former Greek underground leader whose guerrillas battled British forces on Cyprus for four years, could mean a renewal of the Greek Cypriot drive for union with Greece.

The 66-year-old hero also could help bring the thousands of Greek Cypriot irregulars roaming the island under control.

The announcement that Grivas had returned to Cyprus for the first time since he went to Athens five years ago caused mixed reactions.

A spokesman for the U.N. peace force said the general's presence was not regarded by the United Nations "with any particular alarm." But U.N. officers said privately tension would be increased.

The island's Turkish Cypriot vice president, Fazil Kuchuk, also took a calm public view. to worse."

American officials appeared to welcome the arrival of Grivas since he is an extreme anti-Communist who they felt would undoubetedly oppose Communist influence on the Greek Cyprist government. President Makarios has avoided committing himself to the Communist bloc during the civil strife on the island but anti-Western feeling runs high among Greek Cypriots and the Soviet Union is supporting his regime.

The Athens government said Grivas came to Cyprus on his own initiative to "contribute to the restoration of normalcy and peace."

There was speculation, however, that he was invited by Makarios, who was co-leader of the independence fight but quarreled with Grivas over the independence settlement.

If he is appointed commander, Grivas might be able to control the irregulars who spark many of the gun battles that continue on the island.

Grivas has been a professional soldier for more than 40 years. Although born a Cypriot, he took Greek citizenship in his youth and served many years as a staff officer in the Greek army.

A colonel when the Italians and Germans overran Greece in 1941, Grivas went underground and headed a right-wing group that fought the Nazis for four years. In the Greek civil war of 1947-49, his outfit battled the Communists.

Assuming the nom de guerre of Dighenis, a legendary Byzantine hero, Grivas launched guerrilla operations in 1954 on Cyprus, then a British colony.

So successful were the hit-and-run attacks and ambuscades of his EOKA underground that the British put a price of $28,000 on his head.

In 1959, after the Cyprus peace settlement, the gaunt, gray-mustached, 5-foot-3 fighter received a hero's welcome in Athens. The late King Paul gave him the Medal of Bravery and Parliament made him a lieutenant general with full pay of $300 a month for life.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: Why do you make so much of the Cross in your sermons? —P. W.

ANSWER: The cross shows how evil men are without God's grace. Christ was crucified, not by criminals but by the "best" people of His day. The cross underscored the vile depths to which human nature can sink. And the "best" today are capable of crucifying Him afresh.

The cross also revealed the love of God and made clear that His love is unchanging, regardless of our evil. And it showed God's power to change evil to good, to use the "wrath of men to praise him," to bring victory out to death.

The cross also forms a pattern for Christian living. The ultimate in surrender is to say, "Not my will, but thine be done." We "live by the faith of the Son of God who loved us and gave himself for us."

In the cross is also the mysterious power of salvation. That is why Paul exclaimed, "I glory in the cross."

Don Young, state district forester, started spraying bark beetles June 8 in the Chipita Park area. Four and five crews with 20 men in each crew are working every day to spray the infested trees before the beetles emerge the last of June and move from tree-to-tree. If unchecked they will multiply into tremendous numbers. The trees containing these beetles are doomed, and spraying will not save them, but it will prevent the spread of beetles to other trees. Contributions from all property owners to the Pine Tree Fund, in care of the Chipita Park Homeowners Association will be welcome.

The Friday weekly card party at 1:30 p.m. in Marcroft Hall was attended by 20 women playing bridge and four pinochle. Prizes in bridge were won by Miss Marion Sawyer and Mrs. E. L. THREE-FOUR TIME

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — There's a four-piece trio playing for weddings and other occasions in this area.

The group, known as the "We Three Trio," started out with Archie Slater on the electric guitar, Howard Hart playing the trumpet and Gordon Schaefer as drummer. Now they've added Al Ackerman and his electric organ, and they're called the "We Three Trio Plus One." But their theme song remains "We Three."

Green Mountain Falls News

By CAROLYN McADAMS
MU 7-9065

Auction Day at Brockhurst Boys Ranch will be Sunday afternoon starting at 1:00 p.m. Don Gilbert wil be autioneer. Frank Van Arsdale, ranch manager, and Roy Jones, have been collecting items to sell. There is still time to send discarded pots, pans, furniture and such. This is the big money making project for operating expenses. Visitors are welcome at the ranch, especially on the second Sunday each month when an open house is 2 to 5 p.m.

Green Mountain Falls, outdoor heated swimming pool was opened for the season June 13. Bud Ryser of Crystola is the life guard and D'Esta Harris is the cashier. Hours are 9 to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. The pool is heated with a temperature averaging 75 degrees, and is surrounded with glass. There is a filter system meeting required health standards.

Mayor Orville Houchin had 100 percent attendance of the town council members at the bimonthly meeting June 15. A lengthy discussion was held regarding two dwellings that were not properly surveyed years ago and were built on part of the town streets. Some fifty or more buildings in the town are in the same predicament. The council voted against issuing future building permits until a certified statement from a credited surveyor has been given for the property in question. The $1,000 goal for the Pine Tree Spray Fund has been reached by the residents of Green Mountain Falls. Some 20 men in each crew have been spraying in the Ute Pass area. The work must be done by the last of June, when the beetles emerge from the infested trees to fly to others. Many of the pine trees will be dead from beetle infestation, but this spray program will protect for future years. L. D. Martin, town marshall, will be on full patrol duty until Sept. 1.

The sincere sympathy of residents of Ute Pass is extended Mrs. Penny Tillman and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tillman, in the death of Edward Tillman, who was killed instantly in a plane crash Saturday morning. The cause of the fatal accident could not be determined.

Sgt Robert Phledger (ret.) and family are the new owners of the former James Pickett residence. He is employed at the Edwards Grocery Store. The Pickett family is presently living in the Hitchin Post club house.

Mrs. Robert Beal, director of the Youth Group of Church in the Wildwood, has announced that only called meetings will be held this summer.

The Junior Guild will meet Tuesday evening, for a Hawaiian Party in the home of Mrs. Robert Beal. Final plans will be made for the annual Fashion Show Tea, scheduled for July 9, at 2:00 p.m. in the Community Building. Co-chairwomen are Mrs. Beal and Mrs. Beverly Page. Fashioned styled by Hanro of Switzerland will be modeled by children and adults. The finale will be the wedding gown worn recently by the former Miss Jeannie Cowen of Cascade. Mrs. Jonell Ewart will be in charge of the tea table and Mrs. Wini Pyle featuring an art show. Tickets are $1.25 and may be purchased from members or at the door.

Five tables were set up for the bridge and canasta players at the Wednesday social afternoon in Fellowship Hall. Dessert was served by co-hostesses Laura Jones and Margaret Jackson. All women in the area are welcome. Prizes were won by Mrs. Beulah Raupe of Dallas Tex.; Mrs. Dorothy Reasor, Woodland Park; Mrs. Leta Heinzman, Kansas City. Miss Mary Haymaker of Wichita, a summer resident for many years will be the instructor for the Adult Bible class. It will meet in the Church Sanctuary Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. The Epistles, making up the 21 books of the New Testament are being studied.

Children's Church began June 14, in upstairs Fellowship Hall, Church in the Wildwood at 9:30 a.m. and will continue for twelve Sundays until August 30.

FIVE WOOD GETS ACE

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. Douglas McKeller of Louisville used her five wood to good advantage on the 150-yard 18th hole of the Old White course. Her tee shot went into the hole for her first hole-in-one in 15 years of golf.

Witnesses included her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Whitsett, also of Louisville.

LITTLE LAWYER

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Cross-examination of witnesses by a 10-year-old African boy in a magistrate's court near here prompted the magistrate to say afterwards: "His performance would have been a credit to a practised criminal lawyer."

Charged with stealing a radio, the boy kept three witnesses under close examination for more than four hours.

But it was not enough. He was found guilty and sentenced to six cuts with a light cane.

The magistrate told the court: "I want to comment on this boy's unique performance in keeping three witnesses at pointed cross-examination for more than four hours. His performance would have been a credit to a practised criminal lawyer. Unfortunately he could not destroy the evidence of the person who saw him take the radio."

WYOMING ON THE IMPROVE

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Tom Asbury, a 6-foot-5 athlete from Denver, is expected to bolster the University of Wyoming's basketball fortunes next season.

Asbury averaged 19.9 points as a freshman last season when he led the Wyoming frosh with 278 points.

George Peck, also 6-feet-5, from Batavia, Ill., should be a big help. As a freshman last season he averaged 12.5 points in 14 games.

Telegram From Son Proves to Be Phony

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)--Richard Loss received a telegram from Seattle, Wash., asking for $100. It was signed by his son, Richard Loss Jr.

Loss wired the money. Then he realized something was wrong. His son lives in Princeton, N.J.

Loss checked with Loss Jr. and found he hadn't been to Seattle.

Loss lost no time in contacting authorities. It was a phony wire, they said. The $100? A total loss to Loss.

First permanent English colony established in North America was at Jamestown, Va.

'No Magic Answers' Seen In Viet Nam Warfare

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We have no magic answers, but we are determined to do our best."

So says career diplomat U. Alexis Johnson, who is flying to Saigon Friday to take over the American embassy post being vacated by Henry Cabot Lodge, until Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor arrives in the Asian country.

Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was selected Tuesday to replace Lodge as ambassador. Johnson will serve as his deputy.

"Both Gen. Taylor and I are approaching this assignment with a great deal of humility," Johnson said in an interview.

While the big-framed, jovial, 55-year-old Johnson professes to know no magic answers, he is taking with him almost three decades of professional diplomatic experience—much of it on Asian affairs.

This experience, which has brought him to a top rung for a career diplomat in the State Department, as deputy undersecretary for political affairs, has convinced Johnson that nothing is saved by giving up an area to the Communists. It only increases the costs in blood and money.

Johnson served as the coordinator of the U.S. delegation at the 1954 Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina, where the decision was made to divide Viet Nam into two parts, with the Communists controlling the north.

Johnson's associations with Taylor have been long and close, dating back to 1935 in Tokyo, when Taylor was a captain and Johnson a vice consul.

The association became particularly close under the Kennedy administration. Taylor, as the president's military adviser, and Johnson worked on the whole range of problems involved in counter-insurgency operations.

Johnson was born at Falun, Kan., Oct. 17, 1908. He attended Occidental College and studied at the Georgetown University school of foreign service.

After service in Seoul and Tientsin, he was transferred to Mukden, where he was interned by the Japanese in 1941 at the outbreak of the Pacific war. Exchanged in the summer of 1942, Johnson was assigned to Rio de Janeiro, then was sent to Manila as consul after its liberation.

After Japan's surrender Johnson received the Medal of Freedom for his work with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in the repatriation of prisoners of war and civilians from the Philippines, Japan and Korea. He attended the Japanese peace treaty conference and served as ambassador to Thailand before his appointment in 1961 as deputy undersecretary of state.

GUEST OF HONOR

NEW YORK (AP) — "The best part of these birthday parties are the kisses I get from the ladies," remarked Edward Everett Cauthorne as he celebrated his 102nd birthday at the Neponsit Home for the Aged where he lives.

Attributing his longevity to eating sparingly, Cauthorne — the oldest living alumnus of Harvard College, class of 1882—added: "I've lived for 50 years or more without eating more than two meals a day. And I didn't starve."

NOT NEEDED ANYWAY

ROME (AP)—Rome's firemen have gone on one-day strikes twice so far this year. It made little difference. There were no city where Nero once fiddled while watching the flames.

Linda Is Shown Ophelia Makeup By Liz Taylor

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Linda Marsh may be the most obscure Ophelia since the unknown boy who played the role when Shakespeare's "Hamlet" went before a first night audience circa 1600.

But she is the only Ophelia who was instructed by Elizabeth Taylor in the art of make-up for the mad scene, capped by her suicide.

Linda was a comparatively unknown New Yorker with a couple of off-Broadway flops, a few television appearances and a major role in Elia Kazan's movie "America, America" behind her, when Sir John Gielgud selected her to play Ophelia on Broadway opposite Richard Burton. Since then, life has not been dull.

Her first day at rehearsal turned into a circus when a crush of newsmen, photographers and press agents surrounded Burton and Elizabeth Taylor during a Toronto news conference.

"That day was divided into two parts," Linda smiled. "The first part was a press conference which overshadowed the second part (the rehearsal) to put it mildly. I have never been faced with anything like it.

"I got off the plane from New York and headed for the theater where I was told I was to meet Richard Burton for the first time. There were such mobs of people I couldn't even see him, but I figured if I followed the beams of light I would eventually find him.

"What followed defies description. There were a lot of people, a lot of stars—and me, whom no one knew much about. I kept trying to be as inconspicuous as possible. But people kept trying to get us together to take our picture, and I kept saying ridiculous things like 'Why?' "

Linda says she was absolutely terrified when the first reading of the play finally began. And who can blame her, since the cast includes such names as Hume Cronyn, Eileen Herlie, Alfred Drake, George Rose, George Voskovec and William Redfield. It is the presence of actors like these that have sent Linda's name right down to the bottom of the cast and omitted a biographical mention of her in the program.

But Burton's attitude at that reading eased Linda's anguish a good deal. "The terror didn't leave until four days after rehearsal began," she said. "But during that first run-through of 'Hamlet' someone timed us with a stop watch. Everyone there was nervous."

Linda was born in New York City, the daughter of former Ziegfeld dancer Liska March and physician Arthur Cracovner. She wanted to take her mother's stage name of March, but the actor's union already had a Linda March. So she compromised and became Marsh.

"I don't remember ever wanting to be anything but an actress, although when I was very young I used to say I wanted to be either an actress, an air line stewardess or a counter-spy. Obviously direct off-shoots from too many radio and television programs."

Linda met Elizabeth Taylor after the show had been in rehearsal a week, and she found her very helpful.

"She put on the special make-up I use for the mad scene every night until I caught on how to do it myself. She is an expert with make-up, and she knows how to achieve that white, hollow-eyed look, because she has done several mad scenes in movies.

"The first time she worked on me I didn't know her background is art, but I could tell from her touch that she painted. She is very knowledgeable about the bone structure of the face and what to do with it."

Space scientists are looking into feasibility of an Earth-to-Venus-to-Mars-to-Earth trip, according to Britannica Book of the Year.

Bob Barker Tells About Teenagers

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The truth is that Bob Barker doesn't dig teen-agers, and the consequences are that they will resent his speaking out against them.

Barker, the handsome emcee of television's daytime "Truth or Consequences" show, thinks video caters too much to teens and pre-teens.

"Why the heck does everyone worry about teen-agers these days," he asks. "Nobody worried about us when I was a teenager. We were expected to please our parents, now it's the other way around."

After eight years and almost 2,000 segments of his audience participation show, Barker has become a keen student of human nature, including teenagers. Because his show is seen at mid-day five days a week when ages 6-18 are in school, Barker doesn't have to appeal to the little, er, ah, darlings.

For this he is grateful.

"When I was a kid the worst thing we did was steal a watermelon, or maybe climb on somebody's horse for a free ride," he said. "Now they get on a subway and knife somebody.

"Because they have a great deal of money to spend and have become an important market, teen-agers can be found on almost every television series. Music is turned out strictly for them. Single recordings, in fact, aimed at girls 12 years old."

Barker, a native of Mission, S.D., grew up in Springfield, Mo. He and his wife have no children.

"If I did have," said the 38-year-old emcee, "I'd be an old-fashioned father. I'd see that my teen-agers didn't have zip guns unless they earned the money themselves

"and I'd make sure they kept all their hubcaps in the garage, not in the house."

Barker doesn't write of all kids. During the summer months teen-agers comprise a sizeable segment of his studio audience. From time to time they participate in the stunts and games in the show.

"Some of the youngsters we've had on the show have been wonderful examples of well-mannered, bright kids," he said.

"If children are instilled with a proper sense of values and a respect for their parents and home there's no reason why they shouldn't sail through teens without any trouble."

In his own way Barker has a solution to the problem. Instead of raising children he and his wife are bringing up three flop-eared basset hounds. So far not one of them has brought home a zip gun or pilfered hubcap.

U. S. Says Atom Inspection Not Necessary

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today presented a three-point inspection plan for "verification without intrusion" if the nuclear powers agree on a cut off in the production of fissionable material for weapons.

The chief U.S. delegate, William C. Foster, told the 17-nation disarmament conference the American plan does not require inspection of nuclear stockpiles.

The plan is a followup to President Johnson's call on Jan. 21 for a cutoff. In April the United States and the Soviet Union announced mutual, unpoliced reductions of nuclear material for arms uses and Britain announced it had stopped all such production.

The proposed American system would subject three types of facilities to inspection: U-235 separation plants, which produce enriched uranium; nuclear reactors producing fissionable material and chemical separation plants.

Chimpanzees are said to use a large variety of calls, including a low-pitched "hoo" of greeting.

The Picturephone Centers are in Grand Central Terminal, a Chicago office building and the National Geographic Society building in Washington.

Dynamite Blast Urged For Canal Research

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission touched off five 20-ton dynamite charges to see what kind of a canal can be dug with high explosives.

The charges, detonated underground Wednesday, carved a deep gash 300 yards long, moving several thousand tons of dirt.

An AEC spokesman termed it a complete success. The reason for the test: To see how atomic energy might some day be applied to canal digging.

South Africans Refuse To Appeal Sentences

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Nelson Mandela and seven co-defendants will not appeal the life sentences given them on sabotage charges last week.

Defense Attorney Abraham Fisher said that during the trial, Mandela, Walter Sisulu and Govan Mbeki had accepted full responsibility for their actions, so no question of appeal arose.

He said even if an appeal reduced the sentences of the others, "No purpose would be served because of Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster's vested power to detain indefinitely people who have served their sentences."

Bethel Gets Big Chance to Show Her Real Talent

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — The last television season was a memorable one for lively, pretty and talented Bethel Leslie.

She appeared in 22 of 25 episodes of "The Richard Boone Show" and wound up with an Emmy nomination as best actress, five false noses and one pair of mink eyelashes.

During the season Bethel played everything from a seductive ax murderess to a dumb gangster's moll, to an Irish scrub woman, through a whole series of witchy mothers.

"One part — that of a Mexican — was cut from one show. I think my favorite character was the Irish scrub woman. I looked like a frozen robin in the make-up."

When Bethel was cast as the gangster's moll, she wanted to play the part as an Italian with a Roman nose. "But I was told I couldn't wear a Roman nose because I wrinkle my forehead when I talk. Then the character was switched to a Judy Holliday type, and I wore an upturned nose. After five different noses through the season, I switched to mink eyelashes. I also had lots of wrinkles added from time to time.

"But what was really depressing was playing Laura Devon's mother with no makeup at all. I was soothed over that by being told 'This is 1964, and mothers don't look old, tired and wrinkled.'"

Right after the Boone show closed production, Bethel was offered a script for "The Fugitive."

"I only read as far as the description of the character I was to play. It said she was wearing Capri pants one size too small. I said 'I'll take it.' When you're Bethel Leslie and stuck playing Bethel Leslie parts, you can have great fun in a role like that. Besides, I'm tired of being told I'm not sexy."

Bethel was born in New York City, the daughter of a lawyer and a newspaperwoman. But she says she always wanted to act.

"I announced very early that I was going to be an actress, but I don't know if I would have had the guts to follow through if I hadn't fallen into it."

She fell in by jumping in a swimming pool. A friend of her brother's, than a Yale student, had done some acting, so a plot was arranged whereby producer-director George Abbot a family friend, would weekend at Southhampton with the family, and meet the would-be Thespian. But it was 13-year-old Bethel, busy swimming the length of the pool, who caught his eye.

"I was offered a part in the road company of 'Kiss and Tell.' But I had finally made two friends in school (I was most unpopular in school) and I didn't want to leave them. Then Mr. Abbott said he was doing a Broadway show and there was a part in that for me. That way I could act and keep my friends."

Bethel is totally lacking in actor's ego, perhaps because her family has never been too impressed with her work. "I played Portia in 'The Merchant of Venice' in school and I asked my brother, after one performance, if I was good. He said 'I don't know. I couldn't hear you.' And he was sitting in the first row.

"Another time after a performance, I asked my father if I was all right. He said, 'Well, you were still on your feet when the curtain came down.'"

Comedies Can Be 'Prisons' For Video Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of television viewers of the New York area were scandalized recently. There was that nice, golf-playing Dr. Alex Stone, who as everybody knows had been married for years—seven years on the ABC "Donna Reed Show" alone—chasing around everywhere in the company of a good-looking brunette.

The truth is, Dr. Alex Stone—the character played by Carl Betz—was on his honeymoon and the first part of a trip that will take him and his bride, Gloria, to Greece, Italy and Britain. The honeymoon is long overdue, for Betz and his artist wife have been married for six months.

Television situation comedies, particularly those with the eternally popular family set-ups, can easily turn out to be mink-lined, air-conditioned prisons for actors. Not only does the constant exposure of an actor in one role year after year tend to typecast him in the industry but the character is likely to obscure the performer.

Betz, a Pittsburgh native who started playing summer theatre stock near his home town, is aware of the difficulty and works to prevent such a fate. Last season, for instance, he devoted five months—every weekend night from Thursday on—appearing on a Los Angeles stage in two avant-garde plays, Samuel Beckett's "Krapp's Last Tape" and Edward Albee's "The Zoo Story."

"It's my way of keeping my sanity," Betz explained with a smile. "After such a long time in one part, an actor is in great danger of playing so casually—giving such a naturalistic performance—that it is almost lethargic."

Betz (whose hobbies are tennis and baseball watching) believes that predicting the success of a television series is rather like handicapping a horserace. The best horse, under certain conditions, usually wins.

The Donna Reed Show when it started seven seasons back had a slow start. In fact, it was on the verge of being canceled when it began, slowly, to build its audience.

Through the years, Alex Stone's family has had considerable change. A daughter, played by Shelley Fabares, outgrew her role and departed—ostensibly to college, but actually out to a career on her own. Patty Petersen, aged 8, was introduced originally as a visitor, but now has been integrated into the cast as the Stone's own—"People have accepted it and I never get mail asking about the foster child thing."

Betz gives all the credit to Miss Reed and her husband, Tony Owens, producer of the show.

"They know exactly what they are doing," he said. "The writers of the show, for instance, are quite aware that Donna is the star of the show and have a tendency to give her most of the important lines."

After his honeymoon, Carl will return in August to take up his usual responsibilities.

Mixed Nationalities Seen in NATO Force

LONDON (AP)—Britain plans to sound out North Atlantic Treaty Organization members on a proposal to man NATO nuclear planes and surface installations as well as ships with crews of mixed nationalities.

British officials said the proposal will be presented, probably next month, to the committee of eight NATO nations in Paris which is studying all phases of the plan for a mixed-manned fleet of Polaris surface ships originally sponsored by the late President John F. Kennedy.

The British propose applying the multilateral idea to:

1. Land-based weapons systems, already operational under American and British management.

2. Britain's strategic V-bombers, already assigned to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and could become the framework of an international strike force.

3. A network of mobile medium and short-range missile launchers which could be manned by interallied units. They would be mounted on trains and scattered about Western Europe.

India Will Go Into Food Grain Business

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Indian government is going into the food grain business to keep prices down despite the country's serious shortage.

Food Minister Coimbatore Subramaniam told an emergency meeting of state governors Wednesday the government will set up a state trading corporation to buy food grains from farmers at fixed prices, sell to retailers and fix consumer prices.

Spring crop failures are blamed for the food shortage.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said 3 million tons of American wheat can be made available to India in the next seven months under existing trade agreements. Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told the governors Pakistan has offered 100,000 tons of rice.

Questions Are Asked to Aid Buyers of TV

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise

The house or apartment without a television set is a rarity. More than 49½ million homes have at least one set and many have two or more. Most recent incentives to buy new ones are lower-priced, quality color sets and the inclusion of UHF (ultra high frequency) channels.

But television is not the only home entertainment device bidding for our dollars. Stereo high fidelity systems have lured millions. Unfortunately, this area can be so confusing that it is a difficult one for the beginner. Here are 20 shopping pointers:

1. Can you afford to make a large down payment to save on finance charges?

2. Are the television set controls up front and conveniently placed?

3. Are the speakers in front to avoid throwing most of the sound into other rooms?

4. Is the picture bright and contrast sharp?

5. What are the number of volts per inch of tube? Figure 1,000 volts per inch for better picture.

6. Is there an Underwriter's Laboratory label or seal on the equipment?

7. Is the tube face exposed and specially coated for easy cleaning and less reflection or is the tube covered by "safety" glass that collects dust and cuts down on contrast?

8. Are there two knobs indicating the set is one of the new ones equipped for both UHF VHF tuners?

9. What are the warranty and service provisions for a black-and-white or a color television set?

10. Is delivery included in the purchse price?

1. Does the dealer know the area in which you live to determine quality of reception?

12. In a hi-fi stereo set, did you feel the grille cloth to see how big the speaker is? Generally, the larger the speaker the better the sound.

13. Is the cabinet of a stereo console long enough to give good sound separation and of good, heavy wood to cut down on feed back?

14. Is there a last record stop and manual position on the record changer? Is the changer table spring mounted?

15. When buying components are the components matched to play well together? Are they made by a reputable firm?

16. Is your hi-fi stereo budget in proportion to the size of your record library?

17. Can you afford to spend 1-3 to ½ your total budget for speakers?

18. Can you afford to buy the best record changer, tone arm and cartridge when assembling components?

19. Do you want long use from a tape recorder or do you want a toy?

20. Does the tape recorder have a guard against erasure, an automatic shutoff and a tape lifter to cut down on wear?

There are at least 100,000 different species of the butterfly, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

SAFETY'S SAKE

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet press disclosed Wednesday that dictator Josef Stalin had V. I. Lenin's embalmed body secretly evacuated from Moscow all the way to Siberia during World War II for safety's sake.

Enclosed in a special coffin, the body was transported during the hot July days of 1941 to Tyumen, eastern Siberia, about 1300 miles from the capital.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

What the Preamble Means

Virginia Decourcey's letter to the editor (see today's Open Parliament section) may have posed questions to our readers rather than to ye editor. Since we are unable to determine whether her questions are directed to us personally, or to our readers generally, we are going to endeavor to respond as though they were directed to us.

Do we reallly understand our Constitution, or even the preamble? We are not certain that we do. We have spent many hours puzzling over some of the things that are included in both the body of the Constitution and the preamble.

We have also read a considerable amount of history in relation to the period in which the Constitution was written. Also, we have read the biographies of some of the men who participated in drafting it, and we would still hesitate to claim to be an authority on the subject.

Thus, while making no claim either to a definitive approach or to being capable of uttering the last word on the subject, we are entirely familiar with the ideal that is in Miss Decourcey's mind as she pens her praise of the document. And we would want very much to sustain Miss Decourcey's idealism.

Unfortunately, we cannot support a blind adulation. A love of country is a desirable emotion. But it must be based on facts from which opinions can be reasonably drawn. And a reading of Miss Decourcey's letter convinces us at once that whereas we may not know all there is to be known about the Constitution, Miss Decourcey also may benefit by further study.

"Could you tell me what it means to you?" Yes, we can do that. The Constitution provides the base of all legal enactments in the United States. The instrument is a document which contains a grant of power to various segments of the governmental structure. Certain powers are granted to the Congress, others to the Chief Executive, still others to the Supreme Court and such inferior courts as may be established.

The Declaration of Independence, which we commemorate on July 4th, precedes the Constitution by more than a decade. The Declaration of Independence is not a legal enactment, but a statement of high principle and purpose. It differs from the Constitution, in that the latter is a mechanical instrument specifying the actual workings of our own governmental structure.

Thus, the idealism which Miss Decourcey expresses should rightfully be offered to the Declaration and not the Constitution. Although the first amendments to the Constitution are in much the same spirit as the Declaration, neither the preamble to the Constitution nor the body of the Constitution is.

But let us take the statements from the preamble which she emphasizes and examine them with some degree of objectivity.

"We the people of the United States . . ." this phrase is highly questionable. No less a patriot than Patrick Henry had occasion to challenge it when it was offered at the ratifying convention set up in Virginia. Said Henry: "I have the highest veneration for those gentlemen (who drafted the Constitution) but, sir, what right had they to say 'We, the people?' Who authorized them to speak the language of 'We, the people,' instead of 'We, the states'? If the states are not the agents of this compact, then the instrument must provide for one great consolidated national government."

We draw to Miss Decourcey's attention the fact that "We, the people" is also the opening phrase in the Charter of the United Nations. It is no less questionable in this instance. The United Nations is a formalized umbrella among the sovereign nations of the earth. The parallel is precise. No individual citizens voted to approve the U. N. Charter. It was a document approved by member states and not by "we, the people." Yet, it begins with the obvious intent to create the impression that "the people" have spoken.

The same phrase at the beginning of the preamble of the Constitution has the same dubious history. Nor was Patrick Henry the only man to notice this. The fact is that it was states and not "we, the people" who had to be drawn into line for ratification of the Constitution. And contrary to Miss Decourcey's bright assumption that the Constitutional "beliefs were those of each and every man of our early country," there were many who opposed the Constitution and on solid grounds.

Among those who at first were hostile included John Hancock, Samuel Adams, George Mason, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Elbridge Gerry, etc., etc.

Open Mind

Thomas Huxley has reminded us that we should approach a fact as though we were children, sitting down humbly before it and permitting it to make its fullest impression.

Facts We Should Know

It often comes as a surprise to Americans who have been nurtured in government-controlled and dominated educational institutions when they learn that the people of this country never did get a chance to authorize or approve of the Constitution. Although the document begins with the assurance "We, the people," the fact is that the people never did have any say about what the document contained.

The history of the ratification of the Constitution is instructive. Delegates sent by the respective state legislatures arrived in Philadelphia for the authorized purpose of converting the Articles of Confederation into a government. The Articles fell short of sovereignty. There was no power to tax; no power to coerce. The Articles provided nothing more than a formalized compact among the separate states, for the purpose of implementing the war with Britain. The war ended (1782) and the treaty signed (1783), now it was time to think in terms of possibly strengthening the Articles (1787) when the Philadelphia convention opened.

But the delegates were in for a rude shock. Skillful planners were already determined to junk the Articles and to establish an entirely new form of government. This was contrary to the instructions some had received and they left the convention since they had been authorized to do no more than consider the Articles.

Those delegates who remained were supposed to bring the "findings" of the convention back to the state legislatures which had authorized their trip to Philadelphia. There, the legislatures would review what had transpired and decide whether or not to approve the Philadelphia efforts.

The fact is that the delegates, who thus could be said to be representatives of "the people," never did get to bring the new instrument back for state legislative approval.

Article VII within the Constitution by-passes the state legislatures and sets up specially selected ratifying conventions. Thus, by no stretch of the imagination was the Constitution a work of "we, the people," or even of the selected delegates of "the people."

Returning to Miss Decourcey's letter, she categorized the Articles of Confederation as something we are all familiar with and an obvious failure. The fact is that very few people have ever bothered to study the Articles, and those who have are, in some cases, certain that no further government would ever have been required. The Articles were set up to get the young country through the war successfully. This had been achieved. Far from being a failure, the Articles had been an outstanding success. And it had achieved its purpose without a grant of coercive power.

Miss Decourcey is correct that the Confederacy was powerless to supervise quarrels between the states. Had we remained under the Confederacy, there is no doubt the Civil War would have been impossible. Also, it is quite likely that a number of other wars in which we have participated might not have blossomed as they did. Certainly, with the Articles we would not have seen a "Civil Rights Bill" emerging, nor would we have found the taxing powers which have poured American billions into the governments of the rest of the world.

The phrase "insure domestic tranquility" is included in the preamble and Miss Decourcey takes note of it. It is a good phrase. But our "domestic tranquility" with the Constitution in force, is now so great that in our largest cities people are fearful of wandering around after dark. Crime is on the increase and talk of more war is everywhere. Where is the domestic tranquility?

"Provide for the common defense." Miss Decourcey is correct again. The purpose of this phrase was to open the door to the operation of a central military agency, powerful enough to encompass all the states. This "common defense" has been invoked on numerous occasions and we are still paying the costs of these massive efforts at international war which have involved us with Britain, Mexico, the Philippines, Spain, Panama, Germany, Italy, Austria, Korea, Russia, China, Japan, parts of Africa and parts of Central America.

Next we are instructed by Miss Decourcey that the "promote the general welfare" phrase must serve to provide for majority rule. If her interpretation is correct, then this is the phrase that means that minorities can have their rights stifled by majorities. Instead of a land of equal rights, as envisioned by the Declaration, we are to have a majority decision, translated into a monopoly of control.

The Local Scene

Sourdough's Soliloquy

By RUFUS L. PORTER

While the bannock's bakin'
And the coffee's gettin' hot
A rhyme I'll be a-makin'
About a world that's gone to pot—
A little ahead of schedule,
From the info that I've got.
If the writers ain't mistaken
'Twill be better off forgot.

But the Three Apostles stand
 here
Without no doubts nor fears,
Like they have been a-standin'
For fifty million years.

The morbid howl disaster,
We're goin' to hell, they say,
And we will get there faster
If we listen to them bray;
For so the fools have hollered
Since man started on his way.
But God is still our master
And mankind is here to stay.

And the Three Apostles stand
here,
A glory to His name,
Like they have been a-standin'
Since before old Adam came.

Man has made hot history
Since his first recorded time.
Its pages all are blistery
With wars and blacker crime.
Yet some things in his record
Strike me as bein' sublime;
And far the greatest mystery
Has been his will to climb.

And the Three Apostles stand
here
To teach him to be strong,
Like they have been a-standin'
For countless eons long.

I have been asked by several readers how to find the Three Apostles and especially the fabulous "hanging gardens" I mentioned in a recent column. The answer is, "It ain't easy." But, they can be found.

About three miles this side of Granite, Colorado, on Highway 24 you will pass Otero Dam. Here you turn off on a dirt road that skirts the dam and follows Clear Creek for eight miles to the ghost mining town of Vicksburg. From here on to the ghost town of Winfield, six miles farther upstream, the going gets rougher, but any car can still make it. At Winfield the creek divides into the "North Fork" and the "South Fork." Take the South Fork, but don't attempt to drive unless you have a jeep or a high clearance pick-up, and be prepared to get bogged down a time or two. It pays to have chains along, unless you have a four-wheel drive outfit or a horse.

You drive or walk (I walk) up the South Fork about four miles, enjoying some of the world's grandest scenery along the way (you should have been enjoying it ever since you left the highway) and that's as far as you go without taking to shank's mares.

After about the third mile you come in sight of the Three Apostles standing shoulder to shoulder, looking remote and inaccessible, but magnificent beyond belief.

Now, the going really becomes arduous. You head for the ravine between the two west Apostles, following a branch of the creek, but staying away from the heavy brush as much as possible, for an estimated (my estimate) distance of two miles, climbing steadily, and you will come to the foot of the Apostles and, if you have headed right, you will find yourself in the meadow below the hanging gardens, which will be to your right, or the west.

There is an easier way to make the approach, but it is much longer and would be impossible to explain. I'd have to show it to you. There is also another way to get a grand view of the back side of the Three Apostles, possibly an even finer view than the one I have described. But I wouldn't advise you to try to climb them from that vantage point.

To see them from the other side, you drive up middle Cottonwood Creek for about 12 miles after leaving Buena Vista, until you come to a forest service sign that says, "Texas Creek, six miles." Texas Creek is on the other side of the continental divide, but if you have a four-wheel drive job (a pick-up won't do here) you can make it to the top of the divide and look across a mighty gulch to the Three Apostles, and a grand view it is, and worth it even if you have to walk which I do. I won't mention the fishing in the area — I'm saving that for myself. This trail takes you behind Mt. Yale and Mt. Harvard. Anybody need a guide?

I could go on all night about things in the vicinity of Vicksburg, Winfield and the Three Apostles. For instance, there is the most beautiful gem of a blue lake on God's green earth — but I'm beyond my space limit now.

P.S. I could carry on in the same manner about other places in the Colorado Rockies. I just happened to get started on this particular area.

The Master Politician

By TOM ANDERSON

Americans for Constitutional Action numbers among its trustees such great Americans as Admiral Moreell, General Fellers, Charles Edison, Edgar Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover, Dr. Thomas Parker and Alan B. Kline. ACA publishes a regular index of voting records of congressmen and senators. The ACA index of votes cast by Senator Lyndon Johnson from 1955 to 1960 shows that Senator Johnson's voting record was more socialistic than Senator Kennedy's. Here are the Johnson scores:

VOTING RECORD

Ten per cent of the time he voted for safeguarding the God-given rights of the individual and promoting sound economic growth by strengthening constitutional government, and against a socialized economy and centralization of government power. Eight per cent of the time he voted for sound money and against inflation. Five per cent of the time he voted for the private competitive market and against government interference. Thirteen per cent of the time he voted for local self-government and against central government intervention. None of the time he voted for private ownership and against government ownership. None of the time he voted for individual liberty and against coercion. And a whopping eight per cent of the time he voted to protect our national sovereignty.

The conservative cause suffred a great blow with the murder of John Kennedy. Because many poorly informed, wishful-thinking Southerners now believe Johnson is a conservative. Johnson has always been a master politician who can talk out of both sides of his mouth at the same time. Johnson is more dangerous than Kennedy because both would take us down the same socialist drain, only slower. Johnson will force the same kind of "civil rights" bill through Congress as Kennedy planned but could not have passed. And Johnson won't unsheathe the bayonets to do it.

CAMPAIGN TALK

While campaigning as a Southerner in 1948, Johnson said: "This civil rights program, about which you have heard so much, is a farce and a sham — an effort to set up a police state in the guise of liberty. I am opposed to that program. I fought it in Congress . . . I am against Fair Employment Practices,' because if a man can tell you whom you must hire, he can tell you whom you cannot employ. I have met this head on."

Will the real Lyndon Johnson please stand? No other politician can rival Johnson's record for consistency. He is consistently on every side of every question. He is all things to all people — except Bobby Kennedy, who wants his job. Johnson is not nearly as anti-poverty as he is anti-Bobby.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 526: "What is the definition, implied and in practice, of 'altruism'? Is altruism not counter to Christian concepts?"

Answer: Webster's defines altruism as the "uncalculated consideration of, regard for, or devotion to others' interests, sometimes in accordance with an ethical principle." Funk and Wagnalls says it is "the instinct and emotion which prompt to action in behalf of others, together with the action thus prompted."

Both definitions seem to leave out the thinking process. If our understanding of Christian teaching is correct, Christianity advocates that individuals do unto others as they would be done by. It is not "uncalculated" nor because of "instinct and emotion."

We would contend that an individual has a right to do as he will with what is rightfully his, even though he gives away everything because of instinct and emotion. However, when individuals attempt to do as they will with what does not belong to them in the name of altruism or charity, they are crossing the line and invading the right of the individual whose property is being taken without his consent. This clearly is a violation of the Golden Rule.

THE CONSTITUTION

To the Editor:

Do you really understand our Constitution, or even the preamble to the Constitution? Could you tell me what it means to you? Whether you could or could not, I have decided to state my beliefs, in my writing, on what the preamble to the Constitution means. You will remember that the famous words are as follows:

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for a common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America."

Let's take the first statement: "We the people of the United States. . ."

Our Constitution starts with these famous words, "We the people". In a world that was governed by but a small handful of people, our young country's basic belief was that of the rights of the common man. This Constitution was written by but a small handful of men, but its beliefs were those of each and every man of our early country. A country that believed that freedom was the basic right of all people and should be starved by no one.

"In order to form a more perfect union. . ." We are all familiar with the Articles of Confederation, our country's first government. When this government was considered too weak and an obvious failure to the wise men of our early country they set about "to form a more perfect union," a stronger government with new laws, new ideals, and new hopes.

"Establish justice. . ." To this we must refer back to the Articles of Confederation. This government had no courts and no way to settle quarrels between the states and, or, the private citizen. The Confederate government was powerless to supervise the states or the states' dealings. Before our Constitution was written, our 13 original states were like tiny countries held together by a single thread. For instance, in our Constitution we have the right to trial by jury. People under the Confederacy might have felt they were entitled to this right but there was no written guarantee in our latter government.

"Insure domestic tranquility . . ." This like the phrase before has much to do with our halls of justice. Our former government had no written right stated in its laws, that the central government could interfere with or supervise the dealings of one state with another state. How could a young country with untried ideals get along with other countries if it could not get along within itself?

"Provide for the common defense. . ." This has primarily to do with the defense of our country. I have mentioned before that our early land was like 13 tiny countries held together by a single thread. If we were to protect ourselves against the enemy then we must unite the country "for the common defense." If the country was at war it was the entire country, not just a few states. If we were to fight, we would fight for the common interest.

"Promote the general welfare. . ." In order for a country to survive and not be troubled by rebellion it must serve the common interest. "To promote the general welfare," it must act on the beliefs of the majority, not the minority, or the ruling class.

"And secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. . ." When our country won the revolutionary war it was merely one battle for the great cause of freedom. When a nation becomes free, it must still fight for its ideals and principles. It must still fight not only the obvious outside enemy, but also the dangerous radical in our own society. The fight for freedom is not one short battle that is fought and done with, but a series of battles dedicated to the life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness for the common man.

"Do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

SUMMIT HOUSE

To the Editor:

I wish to express to you my sincere thanks and appreciation for the excellent coverage your newspaper gave to the dedication ceremonies of the new Summit House on Pikes Peak. Your very fine stories certainly will do much to publicize our Pikes Peak Region and this world famous attraction which Colorado has to offer.

We in the City of Colorado Springs are proud of the new Summit House, and the part our local citizens played in its construction. It is a facility which has long been overdue. We now have something that we know our many tourists will enjoy. We are equally proud no tax monies were needed to construct this facility, since the building will be paid for by the tolls collected from the Pikes Peak Highway.

I do appreciate the fine work of Stan Payne in presenting this coverage. Again, many thanks to you.

My very best wishes.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

To the Editor:

In a recent newspaper article I read where the United States Supreme Court overruled the individual conscience of a woman and she was given a blood transfusion against her will.

I am not a member of this particular group who hold many views which I could not accept, but I wonder if a principle is not involved here that involves all Americans.

If the Supreme Court can overrule the religious beliefs of one group, what guarantee do we have that all other religious groups will not also be included in this practice?

As a Christian seeking to be subject to my government and pay taxes as is clearly taught in Romans 13:1-7, I also pray for those in positions of leadership as is taught in I Timothy 2:1-4. I am concerned, however, with the same situation that arose when Shadrach, Meshack and Abednego had a choice of continuing to be subject to a king who infringed upon their religious convictions and tried to force them to bow down and worship an image made of gold (Daniel, Chap. 3). Daniel, also a leader in government, was thrown to a den of lions because of his first loyalty to God (Daniel, Chap. 6).

Above the Supreme Court of this nation there is the Supreme Court of Heaven. May the God of Daniel give us wisdom and understanding in these trying days.

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matthew 7:7).

MOST IMPORTANT

To the Editor:

I have had some response to my effort to pity the folks in Montana flood district and Missouri flood district. No one knows without being actually caught in a bad flood the hopeless devastation and despair that follow the loss of home and furnishings and sometimes loss of life of loved ones and crippling of others.

But to my mind the most important thing now is this Civil Rights Bill that our foolish President and his yes-men are trying to force onto the American public. The U. S. News and World Report has an article in the June 29 issue, page 79, that tells the troubles this law will cause all employers, labor unions and employment agents.

An employer could land in jail and a heavy fine on the following complaints:

1. A Negro's complaint that he was not hired on account of his color.

2. A woman's charge that she was not hired because she was a woman.

3. A Negro's charge that he was not hired because of his race.

4. A charge that whites were favored over blacks in pay raises and promotions.

5. A charge that men were favored over women on account of their strength, or that women were favored over men on account of attractiveness.

6. Complaints that a firm favored one nationality, or discriminated against others.

7. Charges that Catholics, or Protestants, or Jews were denied jobs on account of religion.

8. Labor unions cannot advertise for white workers and cannot show any discrimination against minorities when referring workers to jobs.

The new law poses problems for 26,000 employers and 30 million employees. Employers must prove themselves innocent, even if they did not discriminate. They will have to keep detailed records, to show why an applicant was denied a job, or show why a worker was not granted raise or promotion.

The law is administered by a five-man Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. It is to have power to tell employers, unions and employment agencies what records they must keep, and what reports must be filed. (This record keeping alone will be an enormous expense on any business.)

The complaints can be filed on any of these and other charges, and whether they are valid or not they can cause a lawsuit that will cost an employer much money and time and worry. States that have fair employment laws can try the cases, and if not settled to suit the worker, a Federal trial may be allowed, so the poor employer can spend much time and money to satisfy the unsatisfiable worker. Even if a worker wins a job in this way he will probably be an unwilling worker and a detriment to the business of the employer. A businessman cannot make a profit with helpers that hate him.

Government can't run any business profitably. The Post Office raises prices annually, and gets a bigger deficit for the taxpayers each year. If this bill goes through, it will be a harvest for lawyers and judges, but will ruin many good businesses, and will cause many, many people now employed to lose their jobs. When they see how it works out, the workers of all colors and religions will raise a wailing that will reach to high heaven. If they sue an employer, he will never hire them for long, and no other employer will hire them. This is only one of the aspects of this monster Civil Rights Bill. It is the worst bill ever before the Congress, pushed by the worst President. Vote it down, congressmen, or we will vote never more for you.

PUZZLED

To the Editor:

Just why Governor Scranton and others are for this heinous Civil Rights Bill which would make the state the master instead of the servant of the people, is hard to see—just as difficult as trying to figure why anyone calling himself or herself an American wants to vote against the honorable Barry Goldwater. Here we have the chance to get a real American, unafraid, as President rather than one who toadies to "liberal conservatives."

One More Time

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

The most frustrating aspect of column writing is caused by a lack of understanding. Granted, my efforts aimed at communicating ideas are not always transmitted on a wave length which might make the reception loud and clear but, unfortunately, I'm not personally familiar with all of the wave lengths of the people who are willing to take the time to read what I have to say. There's also the fact that not all of the readers are familiar with my wave length, either.

There's also static. In this instance, static is created by much previous experience, both good and bad, of everybody concerned. I once knew a man who used a particular expression for emphasis: "You know I never take advantage of anybody." Now, I must admit to a weakness. Since my former acquaintance made a practice of taking advantage of everybody, I'm ready to run every time somebody suggests they are not about to take advantage of me. Of course, there is also a slight insult implied because the attitude suggests that I've been saved only through the good intent of the guy who might have pressed the advantage which he didn't really gain in the first place.

In a fairly recent outburst, I mentioned the fact that I would thereafter not bother spelling out the Ph.D after my name. Some of the editors use it some of the time, others have, upon occasion, asked for details about my education which I consider to be as bad mannered as asking what I do for a living or were my father and mother married or am I related to Eleanor or True Boardman or any number of things which in my book, are my business. I thought I'd managed a rather tight explanation but several letters changed my mind about that and I've read the column several times trying to discover how I managed to do such a poor job of explaining a simple set of circumstances. It still seems clear to me, not to mention loud, but then I wrote what I had to say in the first place.

Now I have arrived at what seems to be a local conclusion: I'll quit thinking about the problem and simply try to do a better job of communicating and this, in itself, is quite a chore.

A very nice lady was telling us about several things we found to be interesting. I wanted to encourage her to continue but didn't want to interrupt her flow of thought. When a lengthy pause indicated it was my turn to say something, I did, but what I said had nothing to do, exactly, with the subject she found so interesting. After this happened a couple of times I reached up above my head to make sure I wasn't growing horns or long ears because I added a note of confusion when I intended to be helpful by not stepping on her lines. Certainly, she was not providing us with new information but I was interested in learning what she thought about a situation with which I was even more familiar than was the conversationalist.

You may not have noticed this lately but it happens all the time and I'm not sure of the cause, as yet, but I'm working at it. You may be conversing with an old friend or a friend of long standing or an elderly friend of long standing who happens now to be sitting. He may listen to what you have to say with a far-away look in his eyes and if you stop in the middle of a sentence and ask, "What did I say?" you'll discover that your immortal words were falling on deaf ears.

Obviously, it will serve no good purpose if I pause now and ask you what you've been reading but if you do have a fair idea of what you've been reading for the last couple or three minutes, I do thank you. I will afford you the same courtesy if I ever have an opportunity to listen to what you have to say and that gets me back to the freedom philosophy and the good manners which I believe are inherently vital to the cause of freedom. I believe it is courteous to try to understand what the other fellow is trying to explain to you, that it is less discourteous to excuse yourself and walk away than to pretend to listen when you're just waiting to step on the other man's lines.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The American Way

The 'Bridge'

By WILLIS E. STONE

The "Bridge," as it is affectionately known by residents in the Concord, Mass. area, is one of the most historic spots in America. Far too few people are aware of the significance to America of that hallowed spot where the American Revolution began.

We went to the "Bridge" recently and were thrilled as we recalled the courage and absolute faith of those who struggled there in 1775, against the greatest military power the world had ever known.

The arts of subjugation were being applied to the American people, then as now, through innumerable devices. Farmers were told what to plant. Artisans were told what they could make. The people generally were told what they could buy, from whence it would come, and what they would pay. Under these restraints, tumult and unrest developed.

Then came taxes, to extract from the people the capacity to be independent. The most notorious tax was the Stamp Act, opposition to which caused the "Sons of Liberty" in Boston to throw three shiploads of tea into the harbor. To punish the populace, the British Army was sent to infest the city. The British Navy was ordered to blockade the Boston harbor and stop all commerce.

FORCE USED

The Army was ordered to march on Lexington and Concord to punish farmers for daring to plant crops they were told not to plant and for making things they had been told not to manufacture.

The Minutemen (the militia of that time) assembled on Lexington Green as the British marched up. They were ordered to disperse, but didn't do it fast enough and were fired upon. Some were killed on the spot, as others escaped to the woods, licked their wounds and wondered what to do next.

The British troops marched on to Concord where the alarmed inhabitants gathered in the woods, to decide what to do next. However, when they saw the smoke rising from the center of their town, they made their decision and the "Battle of the Bridge" was fought. The rout of the British Army — "the shot heard 'round the world" — initiated the Revolutionary War.

Standing on the "Bridge" the other day and reconstructing the battle, little tingles ran up and down our spine. We were proud of our American heritage. We wondered as we went back to that fateful day which gave us our chance for freedom, if we would have had the courage to be a part of the force that carried the torch of Liberty on that April day in 1775.

We realized that we are involved in the same struggle today. Political encroachments have come again to the American people. Controls, restrictions and prohibitions are again our lot. We are faced once more with the task of restoring equity and justice as a way of life.

We are fortunate now, because our forebears drew up our Constitution to guide us. It has become dormant, but it will work again if we will enforce it. The instrumentality which can give it new force and effect is already available. It is the Liberty Amendment, pending in Congress as H.J. Res. 23 and already approved by the sovereign States of Wyoming, Texas, Nevada, Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina and, in April, 1964, by Mississippi.

You too can stand at the "Bridge" in the cause of Freedom. You can do so in this modern effort through your state committee or by contacting the Liberty Amendment Committee of U.S.A., 6413 Franklin Avenue, Los Angeles 28, Calif. for additional information.

Top Math Student in U.S. Has Versatile Interests

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

CHICAGO (AP)— Richard C. Schroeppel, 16, likes mathematics, bowling, tennis, parties, the Beatles and girls.

Liking math more than the Beatles isn't out of the ordinary in Schroeppel's case: he's the best high school math student in the United States.

Schroeppel, who is being graduated today from Lane Technical High School, learned last week that he had scored first among the more than 225,000 students taking the national high school mathematics test.

"I was sort of hoping to win, but I didn't expect to," said the unassuming, dark-haired youth in an interview.

Schroeppel, who learned to add, subtract and multiply when he was 4, is an old hand at taking—and winning math tests.

While in sixth grade, he won top honors in a high school contest sponsored by the Future Engineers of America and, as a 14-year-old sophomore, placed 12th in the nationwide high school competition.

"This fellow is a genius," enthused Dr. Arthur P. O'Mara, principal at Lane Tech. "Problems that bother the ordinary kid he works almost instantaneously."

Schroeppel, who reluctantly confided that his IQ is "over 200," doesn't let his intellect interfere with his fun. Besides his other activities, he belongs to a swinging teen-age group known, naturally, as The Group, which meets regularly for weekend parties.

No bookworn, Schroeppel explained that he didn't finish first in his class of 700—he was 32nd—because "I didn't want to spend all my time doing school work. I like other things."

Among the things he said he didn't like were fine arts courses.

"My mother forced me to take an art course, but I thought it was a waste of time. It disagreed with me."

Schroeppel is looking forward to beginning his college studies this fall at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass., where he will study math.

"I want a doctorate in some variety of math, but I'm not sure which," he said. "Right now I'm particularly interested in numbers theory."

Schroeppel gives most of the credit for his success in math to his teachers and "a friend of the family who tutored me."

"What I'm really proudest of, though," he admitted, "was going through three-fourths of geometry in one night."

Pawnbrokers Are Planning On New Image

NEW YORK (AP) — Pawnbroking, perhaps the second oldest profession, is hocking its image.

The three gold balls, which are to pawnbroking what the striped pole is to barbering, have to go. This is the verdict of New York's 100 pawn shop proprietors, who have become concerned over their image.

Like anyone concerned over his image, the pawn-now, pay-later business has called in Madison Avenue. The pawnbrokers have hired public relations counsel and Tuesday they held a news conference to burst the chains they say have fettered the industry since the days of Charles Dickens.

"In the public's mind," announced David F. Cohne, resident of the New York Pawnbrokers Association, "the pawnbroker is a Dickensian old man with a skull cap, sitting behind an iron cage in a dusty shop with a magnifying glass in his eye."

This, said Mr. Cohen, is unfortunate.

Today's pawnshop, he said, is a bright, cheerful establishment, as often as not run by a college-educated proprietor, where any lady would be most happy to shop as well as hock.

"Most of our members stock a large variety of new merchandise which is available at discount prices," he said.

And don't think pawnshops are the last refuge of the down and out, said Cohen. There's only one on the Bowery, he said and it's just getting by. A pawnbroker could do a gilt-edged business on Park Avenue if he could afford the high rentals.

"Our customers come from all segments of the economic ladder with most of them in the middle-income bracket," he said. But even though the average loan is $20—usually for jewelry or a watch—it takes $100,000 to open a modern pawnshop.

Did that mean one had to go into hock in order to hock?

Cohen shrugged.

Did the term hock shop offend him?

"Some of the boys might say 'how's things at your hock shop?" to someone in the trade but I won't use the term publicly. It does carry old - fashioned connotations."

The public relations firm had an artist design a new sign — three interconnected spirals — and have opened an office where any one with questions about hock shops can call.

The new sign printed on paper and designed to hang in the window, reserves the motif of the three balls — globuses as they're known in the trade, which dates to the Medici family of Renaissance days, broking has planted its feet firmly in the 20th century.

"There's another factor in getting rid of the old sign," one pawnbroker confided. "It costs me $45 to have a painter gild each globus. And I gotta pay a guy to take 'em down and put 'em up again."

1 OF 5 DRIVERS HAS EYE DEFECTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — One driver out of five, whether he wears glasses or not, has at least one vision defect that affects driving, reports the Better Vision Institute.

The Safety Center for Drivers here, which tests driver license applicants for several New York taxicab fleets, says it has discovered about 10 per cent of the men who believe themselves compentent to drive a taxi test poorer than 20-30 in their weaker eye.

New York City's Grant's Tomb was built by popular subscription, with some 90,000 citizens participating.

This Sunday they will return to action with the Elks taking on Rotary and Sertoma meeting Lions with the double header slated for 1 p.m.

Tonight's schedule in the Junior Men's loop at Memorial Field will see Manitou meeting Woodland Park in a 6:30 game, and Kiwanis clashing with Cheyenne Indians in the nightcap.

In City Softball League play tonight, Benardo's will play Lorig's at 7 p.m. and Ent AFB meets Navajo Hogan in a pair of top games at field 3 at Memorial Park. Field 4 will feature YMCA - Church League games.

The Heavyweight division of Young America League baseball will resume action tonight at Monument Valley Park

Midnight Baseball

Just a few nights ago, players from baseball-minded Grand Junction Junior College were sent onto the field at an hour before midnight and the game wasn't finished before the wee hours of 2:30 in the morning.

A tournament schedule was the main reason for such a late starting time, but there was still another catch to this unusual game. It was played without benefit of any artificial lighting!

How can that be, you might wonder?

Well, the traveling Eagles from Colorado's Western Slope are currently in the midst of the 58th annual Midnight Sun Baseball Tournament at Fairbanks, Alaska, where there's daylight for 24 hours a day. In the game in question, Grand Junction beat the Alaska Goldpanners 10-5 to take over the lead in the unique tourney.

I don't advocate many teams scheduling games at that late hour. In fact, it's the opinion here that many should be started at even an earlier time than is the current custom so that family fans can get back to their castle by a reasonable time — especially since it's evident most games are going to stretch close to the three hour mark.

Among Leaders

The point is that some college age players are getting a big jump on their contemporaries through participation in summertime leagues and tournaments that allow them to ply their talents far past the usual cutoff date of early June. Those having the opportunity to play with "semi-pro" teams such as the Eagles get twice to thrice the experience of those who hang up the cleats at graduation time and they're usually the ones who'll get the second look when it comes to putting signatures on big league contracts.

Actually, with the recent demise of minor leagues around the country, the only salvation for pro baseball — if that's the wish of the fans — is a bit of plagiarism by the sport from the system long used by other sports.

That is, encouragement by all concerned for summertime ball either through locally sponsored industrial teams or strictly collegiate circuits such as the few through the midwest that draw teams from the Appalachians to the Rockies.

Then, if the majority of college teams could continue their play in warm weather after just getting "warmed up" in the spring, the ideal would be to set up a player draft by the professionals with the same format used in football and basketball. It would not only be an encouraging factor in keeping kids in school and stop campus raiding that now is on the verge of the ridiculous with the huge bonus promises, but it would also tend to even up the teams and make a better race for the professionals.

That may seem like a long time off right now — but every year there are more and more thinking along these lines.

As of now, however, for the most part the collegians wrap it up with the final game of the NCAA World Series, which is now an all but permanent fix-

HILL CLIMB DEFENDING CHAMPION—Bobby Unser, seven-time Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb championship division winner, stands beside his Sproul Homes Special, a conventional front engine championship car which is powered by a 327 cubic inch Chevrolet engine. Unser will be the first driver in the 42-year history of the Hill Climb to drive two cars in the July 4th race. In addition to wheeling his Sproul Homes Special up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak, the Albuquerque resident will also drive a rear engine Lotus 23 car in the sports division. Unser will accomplish this double feat via the help of a helicopter; after running the race in the championship car he will be transported down Pikes Peak by helicopter to make another run in the Lotus.

Bobby Unser to Drive Two Racing Cars in Hill Climb

Seven - time championship division winner, Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, will be the first driver in the 42 - year history of the annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb to drive two different cars in the "richest race in the world per mile."

The Hill Climb is scheduled Saturday, July 4 beginning at 11 a.m.

Unser will first drive his Sproul Homes Special, a conventional front engine championship car which is powered by a 327 cubic inch Chevrolet engine. Then he'll take a helicopter from the top of the mountain back to the 9400 foot starting line and get into a rear engine Lotus 23 powered by a 2.7 liter Coventry Climax engine for another trip up the 12.42 mile road.

He is also the first driver to make use of a helicopter. Unser has contracted with Bob Ronnewbrough of Sky Hook, Inc., of Durango, to fly him down in his Bell 47 G 3B supercharged 'copter with its 260 horse power engine. Ronnewbrough has been making a game count of mountain sheep and other animals for the state of Colorado.

Unser is the third defending champion in the fold for the richest race per mile in the world today. The others are 1963 Indianapolis victor Parnelli Jones in a 1964 Mercury Marauder and Ak Miller in a Cobra Ford. All three set race records last year.

He also joins his brothers, Louis J. and Al, as well as his uncle, Louis, "The Old Man of the Mountain" and the all time Hill Climb winner with nine victories, in the race against time. Bobby will be facing Uncle Louie and brother Al in the championship division, while Louis J. is Jones' teammate in the stocks.

Bobby set the race record of 12 minutes, 30 and 6-10ths seconds last year in scoring his sixth straight triumph, which is also a new mark.

He has now won the "race to the clouds" seven of the last eight years. Only the 30 - year - old Indianapolis veteran and his brother Al have ever raced up the 12.42 mile course in under 13 minutes. Al has twice been runner - up to Bobby.

Louis J., the oldest brother, was twice stock car king as was his twin, the late Jerry Unser. Louis was Jerry's chief mechanic both on the "Hill" and when he won the USAC National stock car championship. He also built the engine run of last year. Bobby is using the same engine this year.

Also in the championship division are the drivers who finished second, third and fourth in last year's race. Paul Kleinschmidt, Wes Vandervoort and Roy Walker. Also set are Dale De Witt, Greer Manning, Jack Hahn, Orville Nance, Bob Daly, Bob McLees, Walt Miller, Rick Vermillion, Clark Yowell and Gib Ligon.

In the sports car division, Bobby will be facing Al Daniels, Pat Livingston, Ron Bennett, Jack Coyle, Frank Peterson, Nick Sanborn, Jay Irwin, Larry Doolen and Dick Belitzer.

National Gals' Collegiate Tourney in Semi-Finals

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —Michigan State's Joyce Kazmierski and Patti Shook, a Valparaiso coed from Saginaw, carried state colors into today's semifinals of the National Women's Collegiate Golf Tournament.

Miss Kazmierski was paired against Carol Hockstrung of Washington. Patti was matched against 1962 Canadian junior champion Sue Hilton of Western Ontario.

All four coeds battled brisk winds which raked the 6,024-yard Forest Akers course on Michigan State campus in Wednesday's quarter-finals.

Today's winners will meet Friday for the championship.

Hook Pitches Nine Frames Without Hit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Denver's Jay Hook pitched no-hit baseball for nine innings Wednesday night, but Tacoma tapped him for two hits and a run in the 10th to win the game 2-1 and knock the Bears from the top of the Pacific Coast League's Eastern Division.

Oklahoma City, which beat Seattle 6-2, moved into the division lead.

The Bears, who grabbed the top spot in the division Tuesday, let a Tacoma run score in the first inning through a walk and two errors by shortstop Sandy Alomar.

They tied the score in the second on a single by Phil Roof. Thereafter, through the ninth inning, Hook continued to hold Tacoma hitless while Giant pitcher Frank Linzy scattered several safeties.

Tacoma pitcher Ted Sadowski took over after Linzy was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth and yielded the seventh Denver hit but held the tie. Then, in the bottom of the 10th, Jay Ward singled for Tacoma's first hit and Carl Boles doubled him home for the victory.

Oklahoma City's Dave Giusti gave Seattle three hits and a run in the first inning but then held the Rainiers hitless for six innings while the 89ers built a commanding lead.

Elsewhere, Luis Tiant tossed a five-hitter and posted his 11th victory as the Western Division-leading Portland Beavers defeated Dallas 8-2. San Diego handed Arkansas its seventh straight loss, 4-1. Spokane beat Salt Lake City and Indianapolis downed Hawaii, both by 6-1 scores.

Portland won its third straight in a series with Dallas behind Tiant's pitching and held its three-game division lead. The Beavers started the scoring in the third and led all the way.

San Diego scored three runs in the second, added another in the third and then coasted to victory against Arkansas. Ted Wills held the Travelers to four victory against Arkansas.

Harris Has Dollar Sign at Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Arnie Palmer and Jack Nicklaus used the National Amateur Championship as a stepping stone to golfdom's golden glory—and, now comes Labron Harris Jr., 1962 king of the play-for-fun group, to make his bid.

The 190-pound, 6-foot-3 Oklahoman, who surrendered his amateur status just two months ago is making a run at the established stars.

In three tournaments he has finished in the money twice to the tune of $1,306, and he hopes to boost that figure in the $100,000 Cleveland Open which started today over Highland Park's 6,821-yard, par 71 layout.

The 22-year-old Harris, a mathematics graduate of Oklahoma State University where his dad has been golf coach since 1941, has a dollar sign in his eye in his realistic approach to the game.

"I like to play golf, and I wouldn't have much chance to play as an amateur," he said. "The next 10 years would be required for me to set myself up in some sort of business, and I'd have to give all my time to it. But I think I can make a good living at golf. If I can't I'll find out in a hurry."

Asked if his game had a particular strong point — driving, short irons or putting — he drawled:

"No, it's kind of balanced. I just hit the ball and go get it."

Unmarried, Harris has few financial worries. His dad is picking up part of his expense check, and he gets some backing from a golf equipment manufacturer. He figures expenses run about $250 a week so he's just about even for his abbreviated tour.

Noting that Nicklaus and Palmer, both former amateur winners were currently 1-2 in the money won list, Harris said:

"They are great golfers. You can't compare my game to theirs."

Harris did not play in Wednesday's pro-amateur preliminary in which Don Fairfield got a big break and $800.

Fairfield was not among the 50 pros certified by the PGA but was called in off the practice course to replace injured Ed Furgol. Fairfield and three public links partners carved out a best ball 59 despite a 77 by Don and it stood up for the big prize.

Punchless Dodgers On Offensive Binge

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Walter Alston didn't appreciate the beating his Los Angeles Dodgers took in the National League All-Star poll the other day but it's unlikely he'll demand a recount.

Alston will take base hits over ballots any day and the Dodgers have been on a hit rampage since their shutout in the NL player vote for the 1964 Classic.

The Dodgers, punchless throughout the early part of the season, exploded for the second time in three days Wednesday, burying Milwaukee 15-4 behind a 19-hit barrage good for 32 title bases.

The offensive binge was the biggest thus far for the world champions, topping their 15-hit output in Monday's 10-9 victory over the Braves.

The contributions of Maury Wills and John Roseboro to Wednesday's route undoubtedly soothed Alston's feelings further. The manager was particularly miffed when neither was named to the first or second All-Star teams.

Wills stroked four singles and drew a walk in five times at bat, scored three runs, drove in one and stole his 24th and 25th bases. Roseboro hit a home run, his second of the season.

Each is hitting .295, a mark worthy of All-Star consideration. Joe Torre of Milwaukee, the first team All-Star pick, has a higher average than Roseboro but runner-up John Edwards of Cincinnati trails the Dodger backstop by a point. Wills is hitting 12 points higher than first team nominee Dick Groat of St. Louis and 19 points above second choice Leo Cardenas of the Reds.

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia outlasted Chicago 9-8, San Francisco shaded Cincinnite 2-1, Houston trimmed St. Louis 7-5 and Pittsburgh topped New York 3-1.

The Dodgers' assault on five Milwaukee pitchers helped Don Drysdale breeze to his 10th victory. The big right-hander chipped in with a single and double and drove in a run.

Frank Howard belted his 17th homer and Willie Davis had a double, two singles and four RBI.

The victory left Los Angeles one victory short of the .500 mark and 2½ games behind fourth place Cincinnati.

It also bolstered Alston's case for adding several Dodgers to the All-Star squad he'll manage against the American League on July 7.

John Herrnstein's seventh inning home run proved decisive for the league leading Phillies, who blew an early 5-1 lead. Richie Allen hit a three-run homer for the Phils, his 14th of the year, and Ernie Banks poked his eighth for the Cubs, tying Joe DiMaggio for 13th position on the all-time circuit list.

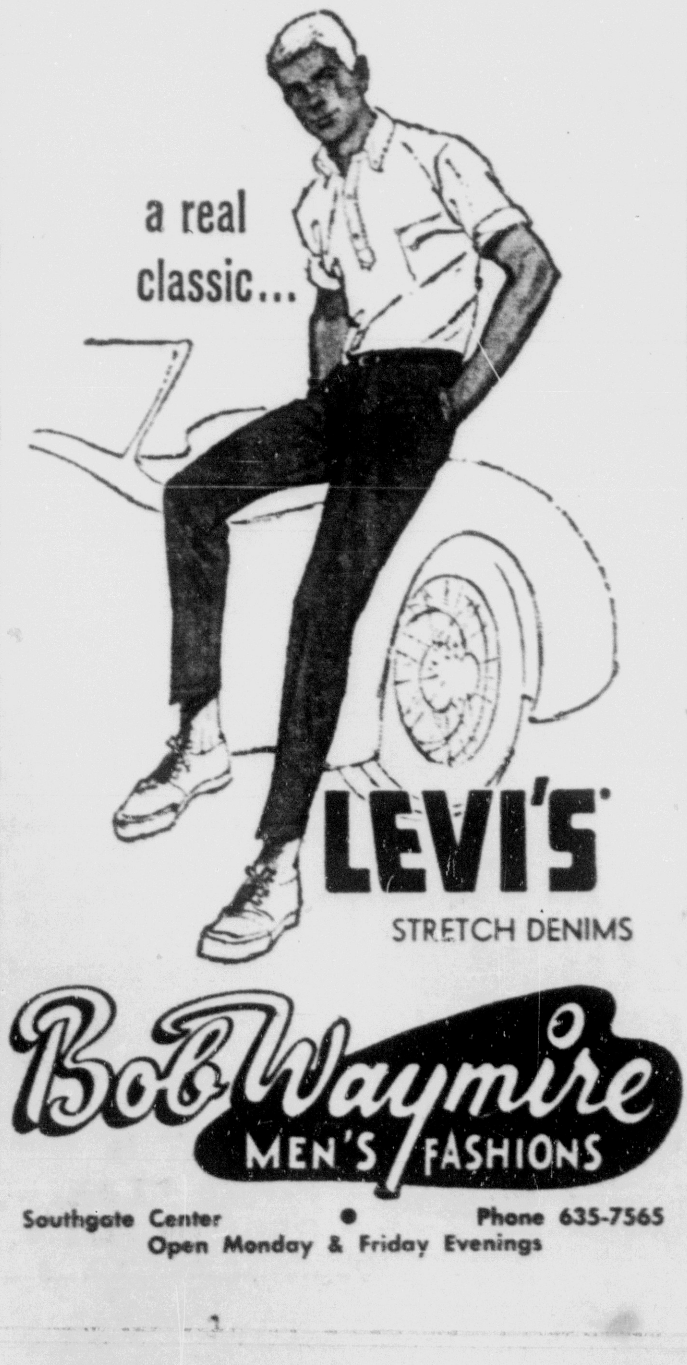
Norway's Sor Landet Closes on Tawau

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Norway's Sor Landet was reported Wednesday to be close to Britain's Tawau, which has been leading the Lisbon to Bermuda tall ships race for two days.

Race organizers here said the Sor Landet must be near the Tawau because it reported hearing the British ship's radio.



Smith Gives Angels New Life

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Smith is in a rut and the Los Angeles Angels hope it gets even deeper.

Smith, a refugee from the pitcher's mound, delivered the game-winning hit for the third consecutive night as the Angels whipped Washington 9-5 Wednesday.

The newly converted outfielder drove in five runs with a homer and a triple, lifting Los Angeles to its eighth straight victory, longest streak in the majors this season and longest in the team's 3½-year history.

The home run, his third, came in the seventh inning after Vic Power singled and Jim Fregosi walked and wiped out a 5-3 deficit. He added a triple in the eighth, again sending in Power and Fregosi.

The night before, the 25-year-old Smith socked a two-run homer for a 2-0 Angels' victory and Monday night he singled home the deciding run.

The Angels' spurt has left them in eighth place in the American League but has placed them only two games away from fifth. A victory over Kansas City tonight would vault them into a tie for sixth.

Smith's lastest performance was an abbreviated one — he didn't enter the game until the fifth inning. Still he raised his batting average 21 points to .340 and increased his RBI total to 15 in 50 times at bat.

Despite his monotonous onslaught, Smith proved he is fallible. When he appeared as a pinch hitter in the fifth, he reached first base only because of an error.

And after lashing the triple, he was picked off third by catcher Mike Brumley as Bob Duliba struck out.

In other AL games, Baltimore defeated New York 7-4, Chicago trounced Boston 8-1, Detroit battered Kansas City 9-5 and Minnesota nipped Cleveland 3-2 after losing 12-3.

Smith wasn't the only big hitter for the Angels. Power hit safely four times and Jim Piersall and Bob Perry three each. Dick Phillips had three hits for the Senators. Reliever Bob Lee picked up his fourth victory, all against Washington.

A three-base throwing error by relief pitcher Stan Williams in the eighth inning led to the Yankees' downfall. The error came on a bunt by Willie Kirkland with two men on, none out and the score tied 4-4.

Williams, trying for a force at third, flipped the ball into left field, permitting Bob Saverine and Jerry Adair to score. Kirkland raced to third from where he scored on Dick Hall's bunt.

Gary Peters hurled a five-hitter for his eighth victory against three defeats for Chicago. Ron Hansen's two-run inside-the-park homer in the four-run first triggered the triumph. Boston rookie Tony Conigliaro fell into the left field stands trying to catch Hansen's drive.

Conigliaro was unconscious for a while but recopered before going to the hospital where preliminary X rays revealed bruises of the left ankle, knee cap and wrist.

The Tigers outslugged the Athletics on the hitting of Gates Brown and Dick McAuliffe.

ture at Omaha. Some will be playing up until school starts again in the fall in the scattered summer leagues, but few stay with their teammates.

Regionally, of course, rain played nearly as big a role in the playoffs as base hits as the Air Force Academy was washed out of the "home field" advantage in a freak of weather which drowned the area for a week or so before settling down to the expected continuation of the recent drought.

The rain, though, still plagued the college boys when they moved on to Omaha and it produced the most delayed series in the history of the tournament. The title game between champion Minnesota and runnerup Missouri was pushed back a full half week past the schedule, which undoubtedly helped out clubs which were a little short of starting pitchers.

This was surely a factor in keeping the final game of the lengthy tournament from being the top gate-getter. A record was set midway through the double elimination affair when Missouri and defending champion Southern California met before 11,537 or nearly 1,000 more than watched the last game.

The regional representative, Arizona State U., finished in a tie for fifth in the tourney standings on a 1-2 record, being shutout in their opener with Missouri, beating Mississippi with a shutout of their own behind fireballer Skip Hancock, and then eliminated by Maine, 4-2.

A-State, when here against the Air Force in the district playoffs, showed an obvious weakness in hitting and it was eventually the Sun Devils' downfall. Which makes second guessers like myself wonder just what the AFA and its lineup of fine hitters might have done had they not left so many runners stranded in the playoff with Arizona.

Naturally, any time a team fails to make the final playoffs it hurts chances of landing All-America individuals. Had the voters at Omaha had the opportunity to view junior third baseman Jim Steed of the Air Force in action there's no doubt here that the Falcons would have had their second on the mythical nine (center fielder Will Parma was the first year before last).

As it was Steed didn't even draw mention although he was listed above all top three choices at third base in the final national statistics. All-America third sackers picked were Missouri's Dave Harvey (first team), Santa Clara's Tim Cullen (second) and Auburn's Jim Barfield (third).

According to the final edition of "Collegiate Baseball," Steed was 10th in batting average in the nation with a .411 mark, seventh in runs-batted-in with 40, and second in home runs with 10. In addition, the junior from Baytown, Tex., did a more than creditable job in the field with a .917 average on 77 chances.

Those figures are only slightly less than the ones owned by one of the hottest pro prospects in the land. That's 6-4, 245-pound first baseman Randy Schwartz of UCLA who led the nation in RBI's (59) and homers (13), but played in more games than did local hero Steed.

Academy's Murphy Trains For Olympic Trials Meet

Distance runner Jim Murphy, the Air Force Academy's first national champion, will make his next step towards a berth on the 1964 Olympic team next week when he will compete in the Olympic Trials at Randalls Island, N. Y. July 3-4.

"Mercury Jim" because the Academy's first individual national champion last week when the fleet-footed sophomore tied for 1st place in the 5,000 meter run at the NCAA Track and Field Championships held in Eugene, Ore.

The dead heat finish was the first in NCAA history in a distance race, and forced Murphy to share the blue ribbon with West Point's Bill Straub. The metric distance is run during Olympic years rather than the normal three-mile.

The pair crossed the finish line dead-even after matching strides down the stretch. They were clocked in 14:12.3, improving the NCAA Championship meet record by :07.5 seconds.

Murphy, a 20-year-old sophomore who hails from Chicago, Ill., also established a new NCAA meet record for three miles. Although the 5,000 meters is three miles plus 188.7 yards, the runners were officially clocked as they passed the three-mile mark, and Murphy was caught in a record time of 13:46.7.

Said Academy coach Arne Arnesen of his protege, "Actually, it was a slow race for the first two miles. Murphy would prefer to let someone else set the pace in the early going, but when he realized how slow the pace was, he jumped in front and established the pace himself. If it had been a faster race in the beginning, chances are that Murphy would have been all alone at the finish."

The proud Falcon mentor heaped praise on Murphy for his strict training, hard work and personal sacrifice in preparing for the meet.

"Jim was on duty at Portland AFB since June Week, and had to be at work daily at 7:30 a.m. As a result, he got up every morning at 4 a.m., went to a nearby track, and worked out in preparation for the meet. You just can't say enough for an athlete who will make a sacrifice like that to be at top physical condition for a meet," Arnesen said.

Murphy will train at the Academy next week under Arnesen's watchful eye, then fly to New York on Thursday for the Olympic trials. The first six finishers at Randalls Island will qualify for the final trials to be held in Los Angeles, Sept. 12-13.

Should he be successful, Jim would be the first Air Force Academy Olympic participant. The 1964 Olympics will be held in Tokyo in October.

Angels Hit Longest Win Streak; Sign Bonus Baby

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels, seldom called upon to contend with an embarrassment of riches, are up to their eyeballs in delight today on three counts:

1. They're on an eight-game winning streak, the longest in their history and the best in the major leagues this season.

2. They have signed Rick Reichardt—an outfielder sought by just about every club but the Elks—for a bonus estimated at $175,000.

3. They have made their recent trade with the Tigers—the one in which they acquired Willie Smith—look like one of Detroit's worst mistakes since the Edsel. Or at least since Jim Bunning was dealt to Philadelphia.

Reichardt, a 215-pounder from the University of Wisconsin, was signed at a Hollywood news conference Wednesday, some hours before the Angels completed another series sweep by defeating Washington 9-5.

Five of the nine Angel runs were batted in by Smith, a pitcher-turned-outfielder who has delivered the winning hit in three consecutive games. Reliever Julio Navarro, for whom Smith was traded, is back in the minor leagues.

Reichardt, whose bonus is one of the largest in baseball history, took batting practice before Wednesday's game.

"He hadn't had any sleep in about 36 hours," said Angel Manager Bill Rigney. "So all he did was hit four or five balls in the seats and a couple or more off the walls.

"It was really impressive. The only other time I was ever impressed that much by a kid was in 1951, when I was with the Giants and Willie Mays joined us."

Reichardt, the only man to win the Big Ten batting title two years—he did it with averages of .429 and .472—will join the Angels in New York on their next eastern swing. "He'll go with us to Baltimore and Boston," Rigney said, "and then we'll send him to Quad Cities (in the Midwest League)."

Mammoth Nebraska Guard Joins West All-Star Team

By MARVIN R. PIKE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — If speedy Bob Brown should happen to bump someone a little hard Saturday night, that someone might not bounce up again very quickly.

Brown, a guard at Nebraska, weighed in at 290 pounds Wednesday as he joined his mates on the West team in their daily drill for the fourth annual All-America football game, to be played in War Memorial stadium.

Brown, a 22-year-old from Cleveland, stands 6-5 and hopes to make the grade with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Despite his size, he's right up front in the daily sprints of the interior linemen. Only 6-6 Carl Eller of Minnesota and 6-2 Dave Wilcox of Oregon have beaten him.

"I always was the fat kid in school," Brown said. "In ninth grade I weighted 255." That's when he began to play football.

At 290, Brown said he might be a little slower than in the last Orange Bowl game, when he weighed 280.

"I'll see in this game if it hampers me in pulling out to block and things like that," Brown said. "If it doesn't, I'll stay at this weight for pro ball."

Before touring Niagara Falls with his teammates and the East team's players, Brown and the other 56 gridders here went through their fourth day of workouts.

Midway through the East's practice, Coach Pete Elliott of Illinois took a few seconds to press for more drive.

He noted that, after drilling in 92-degree temperature Tuesday, the players appeared to be lagging in Wednesday's 70 degrees.

Only a few words were needed from Elliott to put life into the East's workout, which was concentrated on punts, punt returns and passing.

The West worked hard on its pass defense and ground game.

Yale Lary Advisor For Kids

DALLAS (AP) — Yale Lary has been named advisor on punting for the kids who try for the punt, pass and kickchampionship.

There'll be about a million of them this year and the main precept given by Lary, kicking ace of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, will be "keep your eye on the ball."

"Never give a youngster a style of kicking," said Lary at a luncheon here in which 8-year-old Steve Pierce of Dallas received awards as PP&K champion of his class last fall.

"A fellow must kick the way he wants to—the way that's most natural to him. I kick differently from most anybody I know—I hold the ball crossways and kick the same way."

Lary has been doing mighty well at it. Last year he averaged 48.9 yards on 35 boots. This is second only to the fabulous average compiled by Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins in 1940 when he did 51.4.

Lary wouldn't be surprised if he bettered that record this coming season. "I have been doing better each year," he pointed out.

He has been at it for 10 years with Detroit—eight as the regular punter. He has a lifetime average of 44.0. That also is colse to Baugh, who did 44.93 in his 16 years in pro football.

The 33-year-old Lary lives at Fort Worth and was for four years a member of the Texas legislature. He didn't run for office last year and says he doesn't plan to do it again.

"The legislature comes at the same time as my off season and I want to spend that time at home with my family," he explained.

It's no tthe regular sessions of the legislature that conflict with his football.

"Those special sessions get me in trouble," he said. "I had to leave one two days before it was over to join the football squad. My opponent sure talked about that."

The punt, pass and kick contest each year is co-sponsored by Ford Motor Co. and the National Football League.

Lou Groza of Cleveland is advisor for place-kicking and Y.A. Tittle of New York for passing.

Huff Finally Signs Contract With Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sam Huff will return to the violent world he knows best this year, but in strange and unfamiliar surroundings.

Huff, for years the most celebrated middle linebacker in the National Football League while with the New York Giants, finally signed a contract with the Washington Redskins Wednesday after months of prolonged negotiations.

The heavily publicized defenseman from West Virginia received an estimated $16,000—approximately $2,000 more than he made with the Giants — and a "no trade" clause from Redskin head Coach and General Manager Bill McPeak.

Huff had contemplated quitting after the four - player deal last April which sent him to Washington, and was ready to retire as late as Tuesday night. But he changed his mind when a proposed radio - television network contract as a fulltime sports commentator fell through and he agreed to terms with McPeak after their sixth meeting.

Hutchinson Thinks Cincy Still Has Chance at Flag

CINCINNATI (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson thinks his Cincinnati Reds still have a chance to win the National League pennant — but only if the no hitters start producing.

"We have to put more power into our attack," Hutchinson said Wednesday night after the San Francisco Giants edged the reds 2-1.

The defeat left the Reds 4-4 for the home stand against Los Angeles and San Francisco, but Cincinnati dropped from third to fourth in the league standings.

"Our power batters—Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson—have fallen off in their hitting. The opportunity has been there repeatedly, but our batters just are not bringing in the men on base," Hutchinson said.

"We have a good pitching staff and have no worries there."

Robinson, whom Hutchinson often describes as the one player who must drive in runs if the Reds are to go any place, has driven in only 11 runs this month, four coming in one game.

The big outfielder did not play iHutchinson said this was because his left wrist, injured more than a month ago, has been bothering him. In any case Robinson's batting average has dropped from .371 in May to .253 in June.

Pinson's hitting has been spotty. When he hits home runs—and he has had seven this month—the Reds usually win. In 23 games this month, he batted .314, compared with .217 in May, and has driven in 17 runs.

Pinson's misfortune—and the Reds' too—is that he has not batted in a run the last six games, a critical time with the team trying to move up on the Giants and the league-leading Phils.

Pinson got one of the Reds' six hits off Ron Herbel, 5-3, Wednesday night, but it had no effect on the scoring and he accounted for one of the San Francisco right-hander's 14 strikeouts.

Robinson usually starts well and drops off, while Pinson's batting average increases as the season goes on.

Willie Mays got his first hit of the series in the first inning and scored on Cepeda's 11th homer. The Reds picked up their run in the second inning when Jim O'Toole, 6-4, grounded out after the Reds filled the bases on two walks and Leo Cardenas' single.

Tony Conigliaro Suffers Injuries

CHICAGO (AP)—Tony Conigliaro, rookie Boston outfielder, suffered bruises of the left wrist, knee cap and ankle Wednesday night when he fell into the left field stands trying to catch a long drive by Ron Hansen of the Chicago White Sox.

Conigliaro fell over a wall 3½ feet high and was carried from the field unconscious. The hit went for an inside-the-park home run.

He regained consciousness before being taken to Mercy Hospital and said, "My knee hurts, and my head hurts."

Dan Brand Wins Another Wrestling Championship

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Brand of the San Francisco Olympic Club has four consecutive National AAU freestyle wrestling championships to his credit—three at 213.5 pounds and one at 191.5.

Add to this a pair of Greco-Roman crowns at the heavier weight and you are ready to admit that the 28-year old mechanical engineer is quite a man on the mats.

"Not really," said Brand Wednesday night after he pinned Jack Barden of Hazle Park, Mich., in 3:40 with a cradle lock to win his third straight gold medal at 213.5 at the World's Fair.

"It is the coaching that has made the difference. I remember it as if it were yesterday (it was 1956) when I went out for wrestling at the University of Nebraska.

"Actually it was a prank more than anything else that brought it out. Our fraternity had a match against the varsity and I was picked because I was the biggest man.

"Turned out that I won, but the varsity man wasn't much good. I was selected for the varsity team after that but I was a terrible wrestler.

"We didn't have a good coach as the football man was doubling up. Then Bill Smith came to the campus and that was the difference.

"Almost overnight I went from 'boy to man' and he was the reason. We learned everything right from the horse's mouth as he was the 160-pound champ in the 1952 Olympics in Helinski."

In 1960, Brand, who is married, made the Olympic team that competed in Rome where he finished sixth. The next year he was fourth in the world championships and in '62 he climbed to third.

"I had a cornea ulcer in my right eye last year and missed the Pan Am Games and world tourney," said Brand but now I am ready I think I am ready to go all the way in this year's Olympics."

Before that, however, the West Coast resident starts the struggle for his third straight Greco-Roman gold medal on Thursday. Approximately 75 grapplers are entered in the two-day competition, which, like the freestyle, qualifies the first and second man for the Olympic Trials in August.

There were two other repeat winners Wednesday night—Russ Camilleri, Brand's teammate, at 191.5 and Greg Ruth of the New York A. C., who was named the outstanding wrestler in the tourney, at 154.

Other champs crowned were Len Kauffman of Oregon State, 171.5; Mitsuo Hara of Japan, 138.5; Elliot Simons of The NYAC, 125.5, and Horski Aoki, also of the New York AC, 141.5, Jim Raschke, also of the NYAC, copped the heavyweight title on Tuesday night.

The New York AC ended the Olympic Club's three-year reign as team champ, 50-38.

Tennis Classes Will Resume Next Monday

Next Monday, June 29, all classes in the City Recreation's Summer Tennis Program will meet at the Wasson High School tennis courts at 9 a.m. to begin the second series of three weeks of tennis instruction. Among the students will be five members of one of the most tennis-minded families in the Pikes Peak Area.

This is the family of Ed Urig of 1222 North Meade Ave. Both Ed and his attractive wife, Lou, play as often as they can. Of the eight children, Kathy, 17, has taken tennis instruction in the city sponsored classes, and Kris, 15, Karyl, 12, and Ed, 11, are currently enrolled. All three competed in the recent Southern Colorado Tennis Association Open Tennis Tournament. John, 19, and Tom, 8, will begin tennis in the next class. Mike, 5, and Mary, 2, are getting ready to take up the sport.

There are still some openings in the next series of classes. Persons desiring to receive tennis instruction for three weeks at the price of $2 for city residents and $3 for non-residents, may register at the City Park & Recreation office, 1400 N. Glen Ave., through Friday of this week. The office is open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. every weekday.

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Hungarian News Agency MTI reported today that European middleweight champion Laszlo Papp will retire after his title bout against Denmark's Chris Christensen in Copenhagen July 2.

Friend Not So Friendly When Asked About Mets

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Friend usually is courteous and pleasant but there are times when he can get his dander up pretty good.

One of those times was Wednesday when a reporter tactlessly asked him to explain why he is unbeatable against the New York Mets whereas he is a losing pitcher against the rest of the National League.

The veteran Pittsburgh right-hander looked the questioner right in the eye and said:

"I won 17 games last year. Do you know how many times I beat the Mets? Exactly three. Does that make me a losing pitcher against the rest of the league?"

Friend has had phenomenal success against the Mets, at that. He beat them for the fourth time in four attempts Wednesday pitching the Pirates to a 3-1 triumph, with the ninth inning help of Alvin McBean.

It marked Bob's 12th straight decision over the hapless Mets since they were granted a National League franchis in 1962.

Friend conceded he has been exceptionally fortunate over the years against the Mets but he felt it was a combination of good pitching and a mental factor.

"A great deal of it is mental," he said. "I feel I have an edge every time I face them. Not so much becaus I believe I can beat them but because they feel they can't beat me. It began to build up after I beat them five or six times."

Friend was hit hard although the Mets did not score until one Christopher smashed his eighth home run of the season with one out in the ninth. In all, he gave up 10 hits but three double plays helped him. He struck out only four.

This is Friend's 14th year in the major leagues and he owns a lifetime mark of 176 victories and 194 defeats. He has pitched 31 career shutouts and has suffered 27 shutout defeats.

How could he explain his record of two victories and six defeats against the eight other clubs this year?

"I've lost six straight to the Phillies over the last two years," answered the 33-year-old pitcher. "In five of those defeats I gave up a total of eight runs.

"We didn't score any. Just give me two or three runs a game and I would have six straight victories over the Phillies instead of six straight defeats."

Yankee Tempers Flare As Orioles Win Twice

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The New York Yankees' dynasty may not be crumbling as their long suffering opponents have been hopefully predicting, but their temperament shows signs of cracking.

After winning five consecutive games to take over the American League lead, New York has lost two in a row to Baltimore in un-Yankee-like fashion.

The Orioles tallied seven runs with two out in the eighth inning Tuesday to score a 9-8 victory and wrest first place from the Yanks. After New York succumbed to the big inning—long a Yankee trademark — Mickey Mantle was ejected from the game for tossing a helmet from the dugout after being called out on strikes.

On Wednesday night, a three-base throwing error by Yankee relief pitcher Stan Williams in the eighth allowed Baltimore to a 7-4 victory which increased their league lead to 1½ games.

Two runs scored when Williams threw the ball into left field while attempting a force play at third after fielding a bunt. A squeeze bunt scored the third run and Williams again threw the ball away—on a back-handed toss.

Mantle again showed his temper. After being retired when his grounder along the first base line was ruled fair in the third inning, Mantle flipped his helmet high over his shoulder and then argued briefly with umpire John Rice. The fans booed vociferously.

Before and after the game, several Yankees berated a Baltimore sports writer for quoting Elston Howard as saying after Tuesday's contest: "Those lucky so-and-sos. Robinson broke his bat on that hit and so did Orsino on his double."

The quote, in the 29th paragraph of a 30-paragraph story, did not escape Yankee eyes.

"I wasn't talking to you," Howard yelled at the writer after Wednesday's defeat. "When I tell you something, then you can write it."

Joe Pepitone, who made the final out in the eighth as New York failed to score with runners on first and third and none out, joined Howard in the noisy barrage.

Oriole reliever Dick Hall, an old Yankee nemesis, retired Roger Maris, Tom Tresh and Pepitone on three pitches to end the threat with the score tied 4-4.

Manager Yogi Berra was the calmest of all the Yanks after the two late-inning defeats.

"I think the league has better balance this year, and it should be a good race," he said. "But I still say we're gonna win it."

Top Seeds Have Trouble At Wimbledon

By JOHN GALE
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon tennis championships — packed so far with hairsbreadth escapes — are also living up to their colorful reputation as an arena for giant killers.

With only three days play complete, three of the men's seeds already have been vanquished.

In addition the personal ambitions of several much fancied players including the reigning champion Chuck McKinley from San Antonio, Tex., have been rudely threatened by brash and young up-and-comers on the international tennis circuit.

The perils of Pauline have nothing on Wimbledon these days. Any ranking player can expect trouble in almost any round.

Said Tom Brown 41, San Francisco attorney, who was the losing Wimbledon finalist in 1947 (Jack Kramer's year):

"Compared with those days, there are a lot of players around just under top class who can suddenly break out and cause upsets. They are also spread around a lot more countries than they used to be."

Germany's No. 1 Wilhelm Bungert agreed.

"The standard among the top players is much lower today than it was in the time of say, Vic Seixas or Ken Rosewall. Years ago when you seeded eight players, they got to the quarter-finals almost for sure.

"But what you have now are fairly high playing standards far more evenly spread."

Bungert himself nearly came unstuck to the South Africa's No. 3, Keith Diepraam, much the underdog in their second round clash.

The German who blasted his way into last year's semi-finals after disposing of two seeded players finally scraped home in the fifth set against Diepram, having saved five match points en route.

McKinley's close shave came at the height of battle with Tomas Koch, the 19-year-old Brazilian prospect who is rated in so quarters as a top player of the future.

At two sets all with Koch leading 1-0 and 40-30 against service in the fifth, the champion struggled to survive. He made it — but with not much to spare — 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

The record contrasted oddly with McKinley's Wimbledon performance last year when he went through the tournament without dropping a set.

The three seeded players already out are Dennis Ralston, No. 5, from Bakersfield, Calif., Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli, No. 7, and Australia's Martin Mulligan, No. 8.

Pietrangeli and Mulligan both succumbed tamely in straight sets — the Italian losing to Pierre Barthes of France 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, and the Australian going deep under to his compatriot Bob Hewitt 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. The giants looked pretty fragile.

Joey Archer Defeats James

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Ringwise Joey Archer has scored an impressive win in Sam Silverman's first in a series of promotions at Wahconah Stadium.

Archer, a top ranked middleweight, jabbed and hooked in his customary flurries Wednesday night while carving out an easy ninth round TKO over Willie James of Miami Beach, Fla. Archer weighed 160, James 155.

Archer closed James' right eye midway through the bout. Referee Bill Lieberman stopped it at 1:10 after the eye closed completely. A crowd of 1,400 saw the bout.

Archer was a substitute for Sugar Ray Robinson, who dropped out because of a tax hearing in New York.

Favorite Anybody's Guess In Bermuda Yacht Contest

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—It was anybody's guess early today what boat would win the Newport to Bermuda yacht race on the basis of corrected time.

As dawn broke the Carillon, out of Boston, was on top with an adjusted time of three days, 10 hours, 15 minutes and 12 seconds.

Still to check in, however, were the 49 Class D and E yachts whose time allowances ranged from 26 hours to 29 hours, 28 minutes for the Burgoo, Milton Ernst's 38-foot yawl out of Providence, R.I.

The Carillon, a new 47-foot Class B sloop owned by Wells Morss, was the 18th to cross the finish line at St. David's Head near dusk Wednesday night.

She displaced the Ondina, S. A. Long's veteran 57-foot yawl out of New York who won Class A honors with a corrected time of 3:10:59.50.3.

The Ondine, in turn, had ousted Nina, DeCoursey Fales' famed 36-year-old schooner, the 1962 winner, from the top. Nina's corrected time of 3:14:33:51.5 was battered later by Salmagal III, Carina, Magic Carpet, Thunderhead, Jubilee, Gesture, Caper, Dyna, Cyane, Adela, Ice Fire, Solution, Early Dawn and Touche.

Salmagal, Arthur B. Homer's Class B yawl, was second to Carillon with a corrected time of 3:10:32.42.

There was no doubt about the first to finish the 635-mile blue water classic. That was the 73-foot sketch, Stormvogel the South African scratch boat owned by Cornellius Bruynzeel.

The stately old Nina was the second to finish beating the Bolero, on charter to Tim Moseley of San Carlos, Calif., by four minutes.

The lack of wind forced the Stormvogel to a painful five hours and 12 minutes to cover the last 10 miles. Her elapsed time was 3:20:10.15, far off the record.

Dirksen Sees GOP Unity at Convention Vote

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen exuded confidence today that Republicans will achieve reasonable unity behind the presidential candidate they choose in San Francisco.

The Senate Republican leader told a news conference Wednesday that he is "thinking about a payoff window marked 'November'" and is stirring himself to see what can be done about giving President Johnson a hard time at the polls.

His objective, Dirksen said, is to lure back into the fold party members who may jump the reservation because they didn't get the kind of nominee they wanted.

This was an obvious reference to the threats of some Republicans to campaign for office independently of the national ticket if Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona heads it.

Asked how he would go about this, Dirksen replied: "Well, you get more votes with an oil can than you can with a baseball bat."

A reporter wanted to know what Dirksen thought of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's chances of overtaking Goldwater, who has enough publicly committed votes for the nomination if they don't break away.

The Illinois senator was careful to maintain his public neutrality. He said life was a "thing of imponderables and I don't know what chances you can ascribe to his candidacy." But he said he has "grave doubts" that Scranton is making any headway by hopping from delegation to delegation.

Dirksen recalled that in 1952 he had met the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio at the airport when he arrived to attend the convention at which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won the nomination.

"Taft said he had it won," Dirksen said. "But I told him he was wrong. We got out the lists in the car on the way to the hotel and I showed him some weak spots. It turned out they were weak spots, too."

This was the convention at which Dirksen dramatically accused Eisenhower's chief strategist, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, of "leading us down the road to defeat." Scranton has said Dewey is helping him in his campaign.

Dirksen said he thinks a different situation now prevails than when Taft, who was leading in delegate votes, lost to Eisenhower.

War on Poverty Is Urged by Mrs. Johnson

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Lnydon B. Johnson summoned home economists into the war on poverty and stayed late to shake every hand at a jammed reception which featured lady finger cakes and champagne punch.

The First Lady drew an overflow crowd Wednesday night to Ford Auditorium where 3,000 delegates heard her speech at the American Home Economics Association convention.

"The horizons of women all over the world are widening from home to humanity—from private family to the family of man," said the President's wife.

And she told the home economists, whose careers are in areas related to the well-being of homes and families, that they were needed "in the front brigade" of the President's all-out war on poverty and in the Peace Corps as well.

"Cities reach out to you" she said to help people in crowded slum areas who do not know how to cope with the new and unaccustomed conditions of city life.

Mrs. Johnson also envisioned "exciting new horizons" for them in helping solve the problems "that daily face 10 million homemakers in this country who are permanently or temporarily disabled."

The delegates later flocked to the nearby reception, where they jammed in to meet Mrs. Johnson close up.

Supreme Court Voids Industry Acquisition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday struck down the acquistion of the Hazel-Atlas Glass Co. by Continental Can Co., Inc., in 1956 on the ground it lessens competition in violation of the Clayton anti trust law.

The vote was 7-2, with Justice Byron R. White speaking for the majority.

Justices John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart said in dissent that the court's conclusion was based on an "erroneous analysis" of the factors in the case.

Continental had claimed that the types of containers produced by Continental and Hazel-Atlas at the time of the merger were for the most part not in competition with each other.

But White said Continental "might have concluded that if could effectively insulate itself from competition by acquiring a major firm not presently directing its market acquisition efforts toward the same end uses as Continental but possessing the potential to do so."

"The fact that Continental and Hazel-Atlas were not substantial competitors of each other for certain end uses at the time of the merger may actually enhance the long-run tendency of the merger to lessen competition," the opinion said. ". . . From the point of view not only of the static competitive situation but also the dynamic long-run potential, we think that the government has discharged its burden of proving prima facie anti-competitive effect."
